Rebels Give Up Barricades And End Revolt in Algiers

AP Wirephoto

Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel prize-winning chemist and outspoken foe of nuclear bomb development, walks in front of his rescuers Sunday after being found unharmed on a rugged cliff ledge near his ranch home, 75 miles south of Monterey in California. The 58-year-old professor of chemistry at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, was stranded for 24 hours in his perch overlooking the Pacific ocean. He was following a deer trail when he became aware of his treacherous position and decided to wait for help.

Newspaper Trucks Blown Up in Oregon

Large Areas in Portland And Oregon City Jolted by Apparent Strike Violence

Portland, Ore. —(AP)— Two strings of parked trucks—which hauled for Portland's two struck daily newspapers — were blown up late last night in Portland and nearby Oregon City.

Dynamite charges were used to blow up the four trucks here, police said. It apparently was the same case, they said, with the six trucks blasted in Oregon City.

The explosions jolted a large area in Portland and Oregon City, 13 miles to the southwest.

There were no reports of fatalities or injuries.

Fuse Goes Out

A police demolition squad that rushed there found an unexploded charge of dynamite on the floor of the cab of one truck. Its fuse had gone out.

A spokesman for the Oregonian said the trucks were owned by firms which did contract hauling for the Oregonian and Oregon Journal. the city's two dailies which were struck Nov. 10 by the stereotypers union.

The papers have merged forces and have continued at the Oregonian plant to publish a joint edition despite the strike.

Shortly after the explosions last night, the Oregonian switchboard operator received a call from a man who said a bomb was planted in the building.

Police rushed to the building, but failed to find explosives.

Skyhook Gets Strong Support Of Scientists

Experts Say Results Justify Work and Expense Involved

Aboard U.S. Carrier Valley Forge —(AP)— Expedition Skyhook headed toward Puerto Rico today with scientists satisfied the results justifies the vast amount of work, equipment and money involved.

The navy scientists successfully launched two of the expedition's three giant balloons, the world's largest, to the aimed altitude of 22 miles over the Caribbean to catch cosmic rays on supersensitive film. But not once did a balloon stay that high for the recommended 48 hours.

One balloon, the one launched Saturday, did stay at the 22 mile height for 5½ hours.

However, Dr. Marcel Schein, the expedition's scientific leader, said a great deal of information should have been obtained during the almost 28 hours an 800-pound stack of nuclear emulsion sheets flew at altitudes above 60,000 feet.

Schein said the film should have recorded what he called "monsters" — nuclear collisions of such tremendous energies their tracks can be seen in the emulsion with the naked eye.

The University of Wisconsin will make a special study of the skyhook films for the particles. Schein said full interpretation will take years.

A study of the film is expected to provide information about the newly-found relationship between high energy cosmic ray particles and radio astronomy.

Surrender To Show of Army Might

Algiers — (AP)— The 8-day colonial revolt in Algiers collapsed today.

The insurgent irregulars, who resisted French President Charles de Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria, surrendered their downtown barricades to an overwhelming display of army strength.

The Algiers corps commander, Gen. Jean Crepin, announced that insurgent leader Pierre Lagaillarde was "in the hands of the authorities" and that insurgent political chieftain Joseph Ortiz was in flight.

The insurgent band itself will be sent into the fight against the nationalist Algerian rebels, Crepin said.

The fiery Lagaillarde was given a military salute as he marched out of the barricades followed by a haggard band of some 300 irregular troopers.

Appeal Ignored

Lagaillarde, a reserve paratroop lieutenant, gave up after the population of Algiers ignored his call for a continuation of the general strike the rebels earlier had planned to end today.

Most stores opened for business, and most office workers reported for work.

The other chief leader of the revolt, one-time cafe proprietor Joseph Ortiz, did not come from behind the barricades immediately, but his followers also were streaming out.

Lagaillarde still wore his paratroop uniform and carried a French flag as he led his small force from the stronghold.

A French paratroop unit in front of the barricade stood at attention as the insurgents marched solemnly out. As he

Special Powers To be Sought

Paris —(AP)— The French cabinet decided today to call parliament into an emergency session tomorrow to approve special powers for the government in the wake of the Algerian insurrection.

There was no immediate indication of what special powers the government wants.

A cabinet spokesman, referring to the Algerian insurgents, said "justice will be served."

Parliament will be recalled under Article 38 of President Charles de Gaulle's strong executive constitution for the fifth republic.

The article provides that the government may make decrees with the advice of the council of state, a high legal body. The decrees go into effect as soon as they are published, but to have permanence, they must be presented to parliament for ratification.

The decision to recall parliament was made after a 1½ hour cabinet meeting with De Gaulle presiding.

Israelis, Syrians In Border Clashes

Ben-Gurion Says Disguised Soldiers Penetrate Territory

BY ERIC GOTTGETREU

Tel Aviv, Israel —(AP)— Premier David Ben-Gurion charged today Syrian soldiers disguised as farmers repeatedly penetrated Israeli territory in the demilitarized zone near the Sea of Galilee.

As border tension mounted in the fourth straight day of shooting, Ben-Gurion told parliament in Jerusalem it was "necessary to destroy the village used by the Syrians as a base for their incursions."

Israel and Syrian forces clashed both on the ground and in the air. An army spokesman said two fighter planes drove off four Syrian MIG jets after a dog fight over Metullah, near the border of northern Galilee.

Plane Shot Down

A spokesman in Damacus claimed four Israeli super-Mystere jets engaged Syrian planes and one Israeli plane was shot down and another damaged. He claimed the Israeli planes flew over Syria.

Three Israeli and two Syrian soldiers were killed in a 4-hour pre-dawn artillery duel on the southeast shore of the Sea of Galilee. Seven Israelis and four Syrian were wounded.

Israel also reported that one Israeli policeman was killed and two wounded by Syrian shots yesterday.

An army spokesman said Israeli fighter planes drove away four Syrian MIG jets after a dogfight over Metullah, close to the border in northern Galilee. There were no casualities reported.

The Syrian press in Damascus challenged Israel to an all-out showdown battle to "settle pending accounts."

Find Bodies of 25 Jap Miners

18 Others Trapped But Hopes Held For Their Survival

BY JOHN RODERICK

Tokyo —(AP)— Rescue workers reported finding the bodies of 25 miners after a gas explosion early today in an ill-fated coal mine in north Japan.

Eighteen other men were trapped 3,600 feet below the frozen earth. Officials of the mine said they still hoped the men would be found alive, but as the hours went by, fear for them increased.

Nine other men crawled to safetey after the first searing blast, and rescuers brought out 10 miners despite a fire licking around the pit where the men were trapped. Only one of the 19 was seriously injured.

The flames burned for nearly four hours, then were checked.

It was the second major disaster at the mine. At Yubari, on the northern Japanese island of Hokkaido. A gas explosion killed 160 men there in 1938. The mine is one of the richest owned by the Hokkaido Colliery and Steamship company.

Oshkosh Youth Dies in Crash

Former Chilton Man Celebrating Birthday Prior to Accident

Chilton — Harold Bosna, 22, 1605 Doty street, Oshkosh, a former Chilton resident, died of a broken neck in a headon collision on Highway 57 about five miles south of here about 1:15 a.m. today.

Bosna, an employe of the Kiekhaefer corporation, Oshkosh, was in Chilton celebrating his birthday anniversary Sunday with his aunt, Mrs. Glenroy Flemming. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bosna, Oshkosh, are visiting in California.

There is some doubt as to who was driving the car owned by Miss Sandra Greve, 19, New Holstein, who is at Calumet Memorial hospital being treated for multiple fractures of both legs and serious head injuries.

An inquest has been ordered into the causes of the accident.

Theodore W. Kleikamp, 19, route 1, Wilson, Mich., was the driver of the other car. He suffered head injuries, a broken leg and multiple bruises and cuts. His passenger was James Ouradnik, 20, route 1, Wilson, Mich., who suffered a broken arm and collar bone, multiple cuts and bruises and head injuries.

Both are at Calumet Me-

Charlie Gets 32 Votes For Trip to Europe

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Dear Boss:
You promised!

House

You promised that you'd send me where the majority of our readers want me to go. Today I am prepared to report to you on the suggestions received.

Boss, get ready for a shock.

It's Europe.

As of this writing I have received a total of 118 letters, phone calls and a few personal contacts. There were suggestions for 41 places to visit.

Top number for a specific area was 32 votes for Europe or European cities.

Next in order of numbers was Hawaii, with 25 requests for a report from there.

17 for Alaska

Alaska got 17 votes, and was next in order.

Strangely enough, the next most - wanted series of articles was a skid row three for Minneapolis, two for San Francisco and 10 for Chicago). Those letters suggested that I become a skid row character and live with the alcoholics for a period of time, and report on them and my experiences.

Next in order of numbers was Hell (Michigan) which

Fire Destroys Store at Madison

Madison —(AP)— Fire of undetermined origin Sunday destroyed a luggage store and damaged an office furniture store next door.

Robert Wehrman, secretary-treasurer of the luggage firm, estimated the loss at more than $100,000. The blaze spread to the second floor of the State street building housing the luggage shop and damaged a music store.

President on Return Flight to Washington

Palm Springs, Calif. —(AP)— President Eisenhower and his party left Palm Springs at 7:10 a.m. today and headed for Washington to end a 4-day golfing vacation in this desert resort area.

Accompanying him to the plane was George Allen, Washington, D. C., who was the president's host during his stay at nearby La Quinta.

Boarding the plane with the president were Sen. Thomas Kuchel (R-Calif) and three congressmen, Reps. Craig Hosmer (R-Calif), Donald Jackson (R-Calif) and James Utt (R-Calif).

Father Rescues Son

3 Tots Lose Lives As Farm Home Burns

Mt. Hope, Wis. —(AP)— Three children died early Sunday when flames destroyed their farm home.

Dead were Barbara Bender, 3, and her brothers, James, 2, and Joseph, 1.

Their father, Virgil Bender, 27, made two trips into the flaming 1-story frame home and rescued John, 4, who was in good condition at a hospital with minor burns.

Mrs. Bender was hospitalized with shock.

Bender, on his second trip into the home, found two of the children but they were dead when he carried them outside.

Adults in Barn

Bender, his wife, Betty, 22, and his brother, Howard, were in the barn milking cows when the fire broke out, apparently from an oil space heater explosion in the living room.

The fire was spotted by Howard about 5:50 a.m. after he smelled smoke. The men ran to the house and the father entered. He found John and after carrying him out broke a window in the bedroom where the children were asleep.

He entered again and found Barbara and James, Joseph's body was found later by firemen. Authorities said Barbara and James died of smoke inhalation and Joseph apparently died of burns.

Firemen said the bodies of the youngsters were found in the parent's bedroom indicating the fire had awakened them and they had tried to escape.

Russians Send Up Powerful Rocket in Pacific

Moscow — (AP) — The Soviet Union fired a second powerful rocket yesterday, hitting the target area in the Pacific and ending the current tests, Tass announced today.

The official news agency said the 44,000 square miles of the mid-Pacific marked by the Soviet Union Jan. 8 once more is open to planes and shipping.

The first rocket was fired Jan. 20. Moscow announced that it landed little more than a mile off target. The announcement of the second shot did not specify how close it came to the actual target.

The announcement did not give the distance the rocket traveled yesterday. It calcu-

Woman, Husband Jailed

Admits Cremating Bodies After Deaths of 3 Abnormal Children

Elkhorn —(AP)— A 41-year-old woman who gave birth to 18 children has admitted that she cremated three abnormal children after they died of natural causes, Walworth County Sheriff Joseph A. Door said today.

Door identified the woman as Mrs. Helen A. Organ, who with her husband, Chester, 53, was held in the Walworth county jail. They were arrested on a farm near this southwest Wisconsin community Saturday.

The sheriff said the husband substantiated his wife's story and her claim that the children died of natural causes. The couple has 12 living children.

The mother said, according to Door:

"The three children we disposed of were not normal mentally or physically. The rest of our children are normal as far as we know. The only reason for disposing of the children as we did was because we did not have the money for funerals. We had no reason not to inform authorities of the deaths other than this reason."

"Foul Play" Not Suspected

The sheriff said there was no reason to suspect "an element of foul play," but added that he was making arrangements for the couple to take lie detector tests at the state crime laboratory in Madison.

The couple said they cremated two daughters and a son. They said the 19-month-old boy, Steven, was found dead in his crib last Nov. 7 while the family was living on a farm near Lake Geneva. The mother said the body was kept in the child's room for three days and then burned in the furnace. She said her husband built the fire.

The next day the family moved to the farm where the parents were arrested.

Mrs. Organ said a daughter Donna Jean, 16 months, died while the family lived near Polo in Ogle county, Ill., in 1952. She said an older daughter helped burn the body in a furnace.

The third child, a daughter Barbara Ann, 4 or 5 years old, died a few months later after the family moved to Joe Davies county, Ill. The body was burned in an ash can.

The parents were charged with cremating the body without lawful authority and failing to give notice of death.

The popular "Looking Backward" feature, which uses quotations from the old Appleton Crescent, Appleton Post and early copies of the Post-Crescent to point out the many changes that have taken place over the years, is going to delve even further into the past. Beginning today, it will report happenings of 100 years ago. Previously it went back only 79 years.

29 Oil Firms Face Government Probe

Accused of Conspiring to Set Prices During Suez Canal Crisis In Violation of Anti-Trust Laws

Tulsa, Okla. —(AP)— The government launches its courtroom fight against 29 major oil firms today. They face criminal charges that they violated federal anti-trust laws by conspiring to regulate oil and gasoline prices.

Presiding over the non-jury hearing is Judge Royce H. Savage of Oklahoma's northern federal judicial district.

Attorneys began moving into Tulsa last week to prepare for what is described as the biggest trial in the history of the city that calls itself the oil capital of the world.

For the government there are five attorneys from the U.S. Justice Department's anti-trust Division in Washington, with help from U.S. Atty. Robert S. Rizley, Tulsa.

Led Investigation

Heading the prosecution team is Joseph E. McDowell, 47, veteran of the department's anti-trust division. He led the investigation which resulted in indictments returned against the firms by a federal grand jury at Alexandria, Va., in 1958.

About 90 attorneys are lined up on the defense side although not more than six lawyers are listed for any single defendant.

The oil firms—10 of them with individual assets in the billion dollar bracket—are accused of conspiring to "raise, fix and regulate" the price they paid for crude oil and got for gasoline in 43 states.

The indictment charged the firms conspired sometime in 1956 and through January, 1957, a period that covers the Suez canal crisis when flow of most oil shipments from the Middle East was halted.

Deny Main Points

In its pre-trial briefs, the government maintained that in the period there was plenty of oil but still the price went up. It also charges the companies conferred in advance before making the price hike.

The defendants denied main points of the government's case, saying there was not plenty of oil, there was not a flat hike, and they did not confer beforehand to decide any increase.

The case was moved here from Virginia at the request of the defendants who noted Tulsa is more centrally located for the industry. A heavy volume of files is expected to be used in the trial and estimates are the government will require two to four months to present its case.

Each company, if convicted, can be fined a maximum of $50,000 for a total of $1,450,000. Cost of defense ranges between $10 million and $20 million.

Defendants listed in the indictment are:

Arkansas Fuel Oil corporation, Ashland Oil and Refining company, Atlantic Refining company, Cities Service Oil company (Delaware), Cities Service company, Continental Oil company, DX-Sunray Oil, Gulf Oil corporation, Monsanto Chemical company, Ohio Oil company, Phillips Petroleum company, Shell Oil company, Sinclair Oil corporation, Sinclair Crude Oil company, Sinclair Refining company, Skelly Oil company, Socony Mobile Oil company, Inc., Magnolia Petroleum company, Standard Oil company (Indiana), Indiana Oil Refining company, Standard Oil company (New Jersey), Carter Oil company, Esso Standard Oil company, Humble Oil and Refining company, Standard Oil company (Ohio), Sohio Petroleum company, Sun Oil company, Texaco, Inc., and Tidewater Oil company.

China, Burma Sign 10-Year Peace Pact

Partial Settlement Of Border Dispute Called Blow to U. S.

Tokyo —(AP)— Red China today heralded partial settlement of its border dispute with Burma and the signing of a 10-year nonaggression pact as a "stunning blow" to the United States.

The official Peiping People's Daily called the agreements a "new example of solidarity and friendship among Asian countries." It dropped a hint to New Delhi that the same formula might be adopted to resolve India's border dispute with China.

Both Red China and Burma gave up slices of land in ironing out three trouble spots along their border. They agreed to set up a joint committee to study a dispute over about 200 square miles in the northernmost tip of Burma and to draw the boundary there.

Negotiate 5 Days

Gen. Ne Win, prime minister of Burma, and Premier Chou En-lai of Red China reached the agreements Thursday after five days of negotiations. The terms were disclosed Sunday.

The swiftness in reaching an agreement suggested that Red China hoped to repair some of the propaganda damage it suffered in southeast Asia as a result of its border feud with India.

Burma agreed to yield the villages of Hpimaw, Gawlum and Kangfang in the northernmost tip of the country, and Red China surrendered its claim to the Mengmao (Namwan) triangular area of about 100 square miles at the junction of the Namwan and Shweli rivers southeast of Bhamo, Burma. The latter area is of considerable importance to Burma, as an important road runs through it from the north Burmese city of Lashio.

Burma in exchange will turn over to China 80 square miles in the WA state, south of the Mengmao triangle. Burma and her big communist neighbor also agreed to respect each other's "independence, sovereign rights and territorial integrity" and not to "take part in any military alliance directed against the other."

Sen. Humphrey Lashes Out Against Nixon

Also Hits Benson In Speech During Wisconsin Visit

Hudson, Wis. —(AP)— Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) campaigned today in Wisconsin against the Republican farm program and Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

As for the Democratic side of the picture, Humphrey said that if Wisconsin voters think it over they will decide that the best Democratic candidate for the presidency is a midwest progressive.

Humphrey's opponent in Wisconsin's April 5 presidential election is a New Englander, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.). Nixon is considered a sure bet for the Republican nomination.

Humphrey hit hard at the GOP farm program engineered by Sec. of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. He said at a Democratic luncheon:

"Our difficulties have a few times become so acute that midwest Republican congressmen and senators have appealed to the White House to get a new secretary of agriculture. But the word has invariably come back, 'Ike likes Ezra.' And Dick likes him too — regardless of the effort being made hurriedly in this election year to create a new image of Mr. Nixon as an old critic of Mr. Benson."

Humphrey then quoted Nixon speeches and statements as far back as 1955 in which the Minnesotan said the Vice President spoke kindly of Benson and his farm program.

Nixon's press secretary, Herbert G. Klein, indicated in Washington Saturday night that Nixon still supports Benson's farm program. Klein challenged a statement by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) that Nixon wants to abandon the Benson program. Symington is an unannounced hopeful for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Company Sells Used Gargoyles

Newark, N. J. —(AP)— The sidewalk of Newark's main thoroughfare was the scene today of an unusual bargain sale—used gargoyles, cheap.

Thirty of the ugly stone faces are being sold at for as little as $150 by a wrecking company which has spent the last few weeks lowering them from the ninth floor of a condemned office building.

The 60-year - old stone pieces would cost about $3,000 each if carved today.

Gargoyles were originally placed on the upper edges of medieval cathedrals and public buildings to frighten evil spirits and to carry rain water from the roofs through spouts.

Man Stabs 6 Persons On Minneapolis Street

Former Mental Patient Strikes Without Warning in 2-Block Walk

Minneapolis —(AP)— It was a sunny afternoon, unseasonably warm for January, the hordes of shoppers and movie goers bustled along the busy downdown avenue.

Johnson

Among them walked Kenneth A. Johnson, 36, an unployed man with a history of mental disorder dating back 18 years.

Johnson casually stabbed six persons he met during a 3-block stroll Saturday. The stabbing covered the brief span of about five minutes.

Three remained hospitalized today, all in poor condition. The others had been treated and released.

Thought Were Russians

"I found myself on Hennepin avenue and all those people were coming at me," Johnson told police. "I thought they were Rusisans. I stabbed them because we are at war with Russia."

A 6-inch steak knife was used on each person. Police said Johnson also carried a butcher knife and a pocket knife—and a sharpener. He didn't say a word to any of the persons he stabbed.

Oliver H. Giebler, 61, was the first. He was waiting for a light to change when Johnson came up behind him.

"All of a sudden I felt something sharp," said Giebler. He felt blood running down his leg, looked up, and saw Johnson walking away rapidly.

Never Saw Johnson

Across the street, Lucien Tourneau, 60, was walking a few steps back of his wife. Mrs. Tourneur heard her husband shout, "Oh, my back." Blood poured through a hole in his coat. Neither Mrs. Tourneur nor her husband saw the stabber.

In succession Johnson stabbed Jo Ann Jirasek, 15, a modeling student; David Nelson, a Bible school student; Paul Linday, 44, and Julius Johnson, 57, who shouted to a policeman.

The stabber broge into a run for the first time. Police pursued him into a cafe where he hurled a knife at a patrolman who had drawn his gun. Other policemen wrestled Johnson to the floor.

At various times since 1942, Johnson had been treated at two Minnesota mental hospitals. He was released from Minneapolis City hospital two weeks ago. Police had taken him there in late December when they found him wandering.

Man Survives 40-Foot Plunge Off Bridge

Chicago —(AP)— Robert J. Romps, 35-year-old fireman, plunged 40 feet in his auto from a railroad bridge this morning, climbed from the nearly flattened car and walked eight blocks to telephone for help.

Romps told police a car followed him for about a mile and cut in front of him three times on the bridge at 3800 S. Pulaski road on the city's southwest side. He said he lost control of his car the third time the car cut in front of him and his auto smashed through the steel guard rail. Romps' car landed on its roof.

Romps was taken to a hospital and doctors said his condition was fair. He appeared to have suffered only cuts on the face but was to remain in the hospital at least 24 hours.

Fox Cities Chiropractors
Take Advantage of New Things; Be The First to Benefit

Chiropractic is not a cure all. No method of healing will ever be that, but Chiropractic does supersede the old methods of caring for the sick in many instances. Just so did the steamship supersede the old sailing vessel, the electric light displace the old kerosene lamp, the airplane take the place of land-going vehicles, and now the fluid drive replaces the conventional clutch.

Each new thing has to prove its value and, advantages over the old. Those who are first to try and accept the advantages are the first to benefit.

U. S. Military Strong Enough to Deter Russia, 2 Defense Heads Agree

Soviet May be Ahead in Missiles Now, but Over-All Picture Good

BY JOE F. KANE

Washington—(AP)— America's over-all military strength is "first rate, first position" although Russia will have moderately more missiles for a couple of years, says Sec. of Defense Thomas S. Gates, Jr.

Gates said again Sunday he believes the United States is strong enough to prevent Russia from starting a war. He said the nation will begin catching up with the Russian missile lead in 1962.

Gates said in a television interview "We are expanding our missile program, putting missiles on our bomber force and bringing into operations Polaris submarines which we believe will offset any so-called missile gap, at least from the point of view of the validity of our deterrent."

Air Head Concurs

Gen. Thomas D. White, air force chief of staff, spoke along similar lines in another television interview. He said the Russians may be ahead in missiles but in the whole defense picture "I don't think we're behind at all."

White said the American missile and defense program is properly balanced and "will continue to give us the deterrent capability we deside."

Like Gates, White said he thought the United States was strong enough to prevent Russia from starting a war.

Democrats Disagree

The statements were in sharp contrast to defense appraisals by several congressional Democrats. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said Friday that Russia will have an enormous advantage in missile ture.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.) said Sunday in a taped radio interview "we're woefully behind, we're frightfully behind and I think we ought to have a crash program to catch up."

Gates' position got new backing from Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N. Y.), Jacob K. Javits (R-N. Y.) and Karl Mundt (R-S. D.) and Rep. Leslie C. Arends (R-Ill.)

Price of Strategy Win Could be High

Some Feel Delegate Change Indicates Humphrey Weakness

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Milwaukee — Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota has won a strategical round in his Wisconsin presidential delegate fight with Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts, but at a price that may turn out to be costly.

The Democratic state committee at a meeting here decided to change the ground rules in the spring presidential delegate battle to give greater weight to district delegations to the national presidential nominating convention and correspondingly less to the state-at-large delegates.

Regarded as Favorite

Because Kennedy in most calculations is regarded as the favorite to get a majority of the Democratic votes polled in the spring delegate elections, the decision was generally interpreted as against his interests and favorable to the position of his Minnesota rival.

Humphrey usually is accounted to be most likely to win in the western Wisconsin districts bordering his own state, and Kennedy is favored in the other districts. If that analysis is correct, under the new rules Humphrey will gain several more delegate votes in the spring elections than under the traditional arrangements.

In other years the party chose two delegates for each congressional district, and elected the rest of the state delegation at large.

Under the new mechanics each district will elect five persons holding two and one half votes in the nominating convention, and the state-at-large delegate slate will be cut to 10 persons with five votes.

Intense Maneuvering

The state committee vote was held after the most intense maneuvering seen in inner party councils in a long time, and after a couple of hours of debate that approached the rancorous stage.

The voting line-up and the speeches made it plain that the Kennedy supporters regarded the rule change as against their interests. The Humphrey champions came to the meeting prepared and confident, but in the end they won by a scant 14 to 12 margin.

Sam Rizzo, a Racine labor leader and chairman of the Humphrey campaign machine, led the demand for the change of delegate quotas.

Principal opponent was Owen Monfils of Green Bay, Eighth district chairman, who is a backer of Sen. Kennedy.

Spring Election

Most politicians admitted privately that the anxiety of the Humphrey men showed an uncertainty about their prospects in the spring delegate election, and State Chairman Patrick J. Lucey declared that the rules change lessens the chance for a decisive result in that balloting.

He referred to the likelihood that unless Kennedy gets a landslide vote, the delegation will be sufficiently split to prevent a knock-out blow to his Minnesota competitor.

The committee action ran counter to the publicly spoken wish of Gov. Gaylord Nelson, who observed last week that a change in the arrangements might present an unfavorable impression to the public.

Sees Influence

Lucey, who privately favors Kennedy for the nomination, also warned that the committee action would be interpreted nationally as a confession of weakness by the Humphrey organization.

Monfils claimed that the maneuver was conceived by Gerald Heaney, Democratic organization chief of Minnesota, and complained that the Minnesotan is trying to influence the operations of the Wisconsin primary when he aided in the repeal of the open presidential preference primary law in his own state.

Hinting that Humphrey is trying to keep in a maneuvering position in spite of his poor prospects, the Green Bay politician added:

"These votes are worth a great deal in bargaining later."

Edward Ted Kennedy, brother of Sen. Kennedy, said Sunday the change in electing Wisconsin delegates to the convention "does not affect our campaign plans at present."

Have Issues

"We have the issues and the candidate. It is up to us what we do in Wisconsin's primary and in the United States," he said.

Edward said in Milwaukee the change in the method of electing delegates "violates fair play and we recognize that we will have a tremendous battle."

Edward is scheduled to speak at Madison today; Columbus, Beaver Dam, Ripon and Oshkosh on Tuesday; Neenah - Menasha, Appleton and Green Bay on Wednesday and at Superior Thursday.

Robert Kennedy, another brother, had speeches at Kenosha, Sheboygan, Manitowoc and Green Bay scheduled for today; Sparta and La-Crosse, Tuesday; Black River Falls and Eau Claire, Wednesday, and Marshfield and Wausau on Thursday.

Kennedy Ponders Coast Primary

Washington — (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy has told friends he will decide by mid-March whether to oppose Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown in the June 7 California Democratic primary.

Brown wants to head his state's 81-vote delegation to the Los Angeles party convention and be able to shop around among the candidates during the balloting there. He has told presidential hopefuls to stay out of the California primary.

Kennedy campaigned in Nevada today.

His schedule called for a talk to a group of labor leaders and a speech before a joint session of the Nevada legislature.

Such a large crowd turned out here yesterday to greet the senator that a reception had to be switched from Gov. Grant Sawyer's mansion to the Carson City Civic auditorium.

Hubbies Scold at Meals Cold, But Woolen Sale Big Success

If it isn't one thing it's another, many a Fox Cities husband is grumbling in the wake of an unexpectedly successful VNA sale of woolen goods and yarns this week.

For the last few days, dinners have grown cold, housework has been given a lick and a promise as wives got that faraway look in their eyes. Their thoughts have turned to the clack of knitting needles and the whir of the sewing machine as they plan new wardrobes or home refurbishing.

The reason? A land-office run on bargain - priced yard goods and yarns at the former Wichmann Funeral home at Franklin and Superior streets. At the end of the opening day Tuesday, more than $6,000 had been rung up on cash registers by VNA board members and their helpers. By the time the sale closed Friday, more than $7,500 was in the till.

Money Swells Fund

The whole venture started a couple of months ago when the Appleton Woolen Mills closed its retail store and donated the merchandise on hand to the Appleton Visiting Nurse association. The VNA began planning a big sale in order to swell their Peabody Manor fund to help build the organization's proposed 50-resident home for senior citizens.

The retail inventory was valued at about $13,000, but sceptics told VNA board members they'd be lucky to realize from $2,500 to $3,000 from the sale.

Doubting Thomases were strangely silent on opening day—Tuesday — when hundreds of women thronged the building loaned to VNA rent-free for the week by the Aid Association for Lutherans.

The morning crowd was so great that within an hour after opening there was a block-long line-up each way. A policeman was on hand to keep things orderly and moving. Only 10 to 12 women were let in at a time after the sale got underway.

Yard goods remnants and remaining skeins of yarn left over will be distributed free to area hospitals or to charitable organizations for occupational therapy work, the VNA announced today.

In light of their late, cold meals, husbands are wondering if this shouldn't have been done with the whole kit and kaboodle.

17 Per Cent Rise In Parcel Post Rates in Effect

Parcel post rates went up today.

An increase authorized last fall became effective at midnight last night, boosting fourth-class rates an average of 17.2 per cent. This covers catalogues as well as parcels.

The higher rates will net the government an estimated $88 million a year and will be used to cut down the deficit on this class of postal service.

Most mailing in Wisconsin, except for points like Superior, are in the second mailing zone. Typical rates from Appleton would be, for a 2-pound package, 38 cents instead of 27 cents; five pounds, 48 cents instead of 39 cents; 20 pounds, $1.13 instead of 99 cents.

Five pound packages go to Chicago for 53 instead of 44 cents, to Milwaukee for 48 instead of 39 cents, to New York for 75 instead of 63 cents and to Los Angeles for $1.06 instead of 91 cents.

Locally, 1-pound packages are delivered in Appleton for 24 cents instead of 20, and to Little Chute for 33 cents instead of 27 cents.

VNA Selects 1960 Officers

Mrs. Dexter L. Wolfe Elected President Of Organization

The Appleton Visiting Nurse association today announced its officers for 1960 and appointment of three new directors and two men to advisory committees.

Mrs. Dexter L. Wolfe is the new president of the organization. Other officers are Miss Elsie Kopplin, first vice president; Mrs. F. H. Sprowl, second vice president; Mrs. Ralph T. Alton, secretary; Mrs. Elmer Mokros, treasurer; and Mrs. E. A. Dettman, assistant treasurer. Mrs. Wolfe served as first vice president last year and Mrs. Mokros was reelected treasurer.

New to the 21-member board of directors are Mrs. Jake Mathews, Mrs. Roger A. Baird and Mrs. D. R. Morrissey.

Dr. Jack G. Anderson succeeds Dr. Arthur C. Taylor on the 6-man medical advisory committee which includes Drs. William W. Chandler, George A. French, William H. Hale, Thomas M. Loescher and George W. Savage.

Named to the lay advisory committee for 3-year terms are Carl J. Schroeder and Joseph A. Foley. Other members of this group include Franklin L. Nehs, M. J. Schulenburg, O. E. Moe, Casper E. Youngchild and J. R. Whitman, Sr., all of Appleton, and Andree C. Pertain, Neenah.

Outgoing VNA officers include Mrs. Eugene L. Pierce in the presidency, Mrs. C. G. Larsen, Mrs. R. M. Radsch and Mrs. A. D. Wilkinson.

Morse Considering Wisconsin Primary

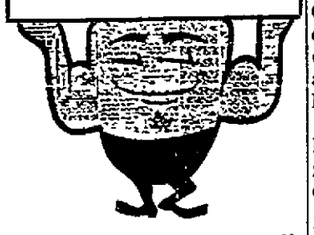

Toledo, Ohio — (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) said Sunday that he is considering entering the Wisconsin primary but had no illusions he can win the presidency.

Morse, in a speech at a Teamsters Union meeting, said he would know within a week or 10 days whether he will make the April 5 race in Wisconsin.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Stopped In Minutes

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles." It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night when itching torture keeps one awake.

No matter what you've used in the past without results — here's good news for you. Now, for the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids—without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations. And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration.

The secret is this new healing substance, (Bio-Dyne*) — discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as *Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Absolute satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. For free trial package write to Preparation H, P.O. Box 1910, Dept. J, New York 46, N. Y.

Not Always a Color Question

Americans in smaller northern communities where the Negro population is small or practically nonexistent may surmise that the main conflict in race relations is between the white supremists and the Negro advocates of integration. But there are at least two Negro groups which are as violently opposed to integration as are the Citizen's Councils in the south. And their appeal is through hate and violence.

The Temple of Islam, which purports to be a Moslem group, has its headquarters in Chicago but, like the United African Nationalist Movement, it probably has its greatest numbers of followers in Harlem. According to Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, these groups "are no better in their racial creeds than the Ku Klux Klan."

Both organizations are violently anti-Christian, anti-Jew and anti-white. Some of their pamphlets speak of integration as "leading their people down the deadend street of oblivion and extinction." Christianity is charged with "worshipping the white God that the oppressor has created for him, so as to keep him mentally enslaved." The American Negro is told to "think black, act black, buy black and not trust the white man."

Segregation from white people is paramount in the policies of these two groups. At a recent reception for President Sekou Toure of Guinea, the white woman assigned by the State Department to act as Mme. Toure's interpreter, was first denied a seat with her until Mme. Toure intervened and requested her company. The N. A. A. C. P. is characterized as "Uncle Tom leadership handpicked by the white man."

In numbers it is difficult to tell how many Negroes actually belong to these hate groups. Certainly the reasons for their growth are obvious and particularly in the north where the Negro is promised equality and then economically denied it. It may be this hyprocisy, more than the stated demand for subservience in the south, which disillusions the American Negro. But, as a Negro religious leader in Harlem has pointed out, the persecution and lack of opportunity explains extreme Negro racism but it does not excuse it.

Moreover, there is no solution to race problems through more hatred and the arousing of violent reactions. But the white northerner must realize that there will be more of it unless the Negro finds opportunity in northern cities. It is a problem that must be faced by every city because southerners, both white and colored, are moving north in ever increasing numbers.

Spelling Reform

The spelling of English is of course an abomination and we had always supposed that the center of the objection to it was in the Middle West, particularly in the vicinity of Chicago. It always has appeared that English spelling would have been sufficient reason for Chicago's former Mayor Thompson to express his desire to punch King George in the snoot. It was difficult of course to understand the Chicago Tribune's long continued campaign for simplified spelling and that newspaper's great dislike for the late Mayor Thompson who appeared to be willing to do something drastic to the English king which might in turn have had some good effects upon the spelling of the king's English. But that complicated situation is no more difficult than English spelling. American spelling and English spelling are of course much the same, at least they are the same in all of the objectionable features because American spelling is basically English spelling.

Americans have been unable to do anything about their spelling largely because the schoolmams and schoolmasters who are in control of the situation have refused to accept the leadership of any newspaper, magazine or other publication to change the rules laid down in their textbooks.

However, W. J. Reed, headmaster of the Broadstairs Church of England Primary School, is offering leadership in this field which might appeal to his fellow teachers. His views on spelling are presented in a pamphlet "Spelling Reform and Our Schools" which has been published in London by the Simplified Spelling Society. Headmaster Reed says that conventional English spelling is outmoded, inefficient, inconsistent, and so difficult that it accounts for the unnecessarily high amount of illiteracy among the English speaking peoples.

He is inclined to blame the whole thing on Dr. Samuel Johnson's dictionary of 1755. One of his reforms would be to spell "f" as "f" and not as "ph" or "gh." He says that when a child begins to enter the world of learning he is confronted immediately with 17 ways of representing the sound usually spelled "sh."

This inconsistency, says Mr. Reed, has been one of the reasons students begin by being frustrated and apathetic and end up resentful and anti-social, and still unable to spell. Mr. Reed demands to know "Why then do we persist in printing everything in the spelling of 1755 and making our children struggle with its inconsistency?"

The answer to Mr. Reed's question, we think, is clearly that school teachers like himself continue to teach the ancient form of spelling and furthermore they impress their students with the fact that it is disgraceful if not almost criminal to engage in any other kind of spelling. Since the teachers are the only group that could possibly have success in bringing about spelling reform, it is encouraging to see an English headmaster offering leadership in this field.

Horst Ludwig Confesses

One of the most difficult problems for American governmental agencies is to protect its secrets from foreign spies.

Occasionally when employes of defense agencies have been discharged, allegedly because of some connection their parents or close relatives may have with the Communists, there has been a great protest raised on the ground that such employes were being punished for something their relatives had done. There are some people in this country who believe that the government of the United States must hire anyone who applies for a job and appears qualified, and continue that person in employment regardless of any apparent risk to the security of the nation unless he can be proved guilty by open trial in which he is faced by his accusers. This is the case if a person is accused of crime and the effort has been to extend that rule to defend a person's right to a government job.

Horst Ludwig, 36, is a former West German naval officer who was trained as a NATO jet flier at Pensacola, Fla., by the U. S. Navy. He has confessed in court that he gave U. S. naval secrets and other information to the Russians. The information he says he passed on included such items as details and photographs of the latest western anti-submarine devices as well as secret information on Britain's submarine hunting airplanes. He evidently was a successful spy for the Russians.

He has claimed that it was a threat to his parents who live in Communist East Germany that induced him to begin passing on information to the Russians in 1955. He was paid $2,000 for his work and that fact may cause some people to wonder if the story about the danger to his parents was as important as he makes out.

But the obvious is that even though this was not a factor in the Ludwig case, it has been in many other cases and could be in still others in the future. Thus the earnest do-gooders who insist that any person should be continued in a sensitive position even though he is open to threats and mental torture because of the position of a close relative should stop and consider that it might be a great favor to such person to be relieved of his duties.

Obviously such a person could not resign for that would be equivalent to refusing the demands of the Russians. The history of the United States during the past 25 years has been liberally sprinkled with stories of Russian espionage. The task of providing security against Russian spies has been a difficult one chiefly because of the popular demand that the government employe must practically have a trial by jury before he or she can be relieved of a job. Perhaps one of the greatest Russian successes has been in the field of stealing information from the United States.

Governor's Defeated Budget Explained by Financial Adviser

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In his column of Jan. 16, Mr. John Wyngaard said: "They (the governor and Democrats) could have proposed their budget and finance program last February or March, as did most of their predecessors under custom and rule. The legislature would long since have ended its days. The Republicans would have been required to find some other matter upon which to peg their 1960 campaign strategy."

Mr. Wyngaard is one of the best informed and most experienced reporters on the capitol scene, and has been one of the most severe critics of historic budget procedures and results. Gov. Nelson said when he submitted a one year budget that he wished more time to review budget requests and programs for the second year, and that he proposed to submit a separate second year budget in the fall. He did this. This budget was killed by the Republican senate, which adopted a second year budget which represented merely an extension of first year figures.

The dollar difference between Gov. Nelson's second year budget and the one adopted is $1,559,919, which is less than 1 per cent of the total. The point that has not been brought out either by Mr. Wyngaard and others, however, is that total adjustments in the governor's budget are $5,621,000. This $5½ million difference represents increases of $3½ million and decreases of over $2 million, with 85 per cent of the increase represented by additional school aids for disabled children. The governor's budget bill includes transfers of over $2 million from areas of lesser needs to areas of greater needs. It includes over 30 statutory changes, some transferring functions, some abolishing activities, some program changes.

This governor's budget represented the first major effort toward improving what Mr. Wyngaard and others have often criticized as outmoded and inefficient budget procedures. It was a major break-through in an area that has resisted substantial improvements for many years. These efforts were in vain, however, because this improved budget was killed.

If the state is going to have better budget procedures and more modern administrative practices, it will require a departure from "custom and rule." The governor took a significant step forward in the direction of efficiency and economy, only to be pushed back by the state senate. Unless substantial reductions in expenditures for education, health and welfare are made, and neither party will make them when faced with the facts, we will have to get economies through better administration. We will not get them here if every departure from "custom and rule" is opposed, because it is different and because it is proposed by Gov. Nelson.

Merchant Is Against Hike in Parking Rates

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Concerning parking meters:

Very regretfully I missed the council meeting of Jan. 26th. I fully intended to be there to add my two cents worth against the increase in the rates of the parking meters.

How can a statement be made by those who made it that the "Merchants are in favor of an increase." I was not asked, and being a merchant I resent my opinion being taken for granted by those who want the change. I also felt that my signature on the petition showed my resentment.

My customers also resent the increase, since I have been told by a good many of them that it is a sure way of keeping them away from College avenue.

Why Not Committee To Reduce Spending

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The visiting lecturer trying to explain the purposes and the methods of the citizens revenue commission now holding study sessions at Madison found his audience of businessmen obviously unimpressed.

Wyngaard

He tried to explain that this group, working with the mandate of a Democratic governor and a politically divided legislature, is likely to turn up with the most significant state document in modern times in Wisconsin in the form of a blueprint for basic reorganization of the Wisconsin tax system.

In the process, he conceded, it also will propose a method for raising more tax money than the existing coterie of state and local taxes are producing to meet the inevitably expanding appetite of state and local governments for tax dollars.

At the conclusion of his spiel, he discovered why there was the vein of skepticism and disinterest running through the audience.

"Why," asked a couple of the listeners, "can't Wisconsin also have a citizens commission trying to figure out ways of saving money and reducing public expenditures, as well as one that is spending all of its time trying to figure out new ways to tax the body politic?"

WHY?

It is a good question. The answer runs to the heart of contemporary politics.

Such a proposition, had it been offered in the recent legislature, would have breezed through both houses without difficulty. Why wasn't it entered? Why didn't any one of the ambitious and ingenious politicians in the senate and assembly conceive it? Because there is no longer any confidence in most politicians of the appeal of governmental economy as a political issue. Because most politicians know that the public is either indifferent to the weight of taxation and the steadily expanding role of government in the lives of individuals, or favors a larger public consumption of the community income, or is fatalistic about the chances of halting or reversing a trend that has continued for nearly a generation.

That is not to say the average man anxious for the attention of the voters' ears in a political campaign won't pay lip service to the ideal of fiscal prudence and thrifty use of the taxpayers' dollar, whether he is a Republican or a Democrat.

But that typical campaigner, when he is asked for a specific suggestion on how to cut back governmental spending, will stand mute. Gov. Nelson, for example, is obviously sensitive about the fact that his budget is substantially higher than that of his predecessor, and about the fact that he will be held accountable for the higher taxes that it will require. But he also knows something about politics. His campaign theme will be, whenever he is challenged: show me where and what you would cut. He will find no takers.

THEORETICALLY

Theoretically, it would be posible to cut the state budget and possibly the typical municipal budget without damage to the real interests of the public. It is almost an axiom in governmental administration that there is water in public budgets (as doubtless there is in most private corporation budgets.)

A completely objective citizens commission theoretically could find ways to stabilize state costs. But a thoroughly subjective study group would not be appointed. A typical commission would reflect the prejudices, the special interests, the lobbying pressures and the other influences that control the workings of the legislature itself. The theorectically objective commission, moreover, would turn in a report that the legislature, composed of politicians interested in reelection, would promptly file and forget.

Often politicians are behind public opinion. It is fairly apparent that the public is either committed to an expanding governmental system, or resigned to it. That is why there is no special effort in Madison today to counter the studies about new tax sources with a study of possible spendings cutbacks.

President Hints at Possible War

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Jan. 7, 1860.

"Whilst it is the duty of the President from time to time to give Congress information of the States of the Union, I shall not refer in detail to the sad and bloody occurrence at Harper's Ferry. Still it is proper to observe that these events, however cruel and bad in themselves, derive their chief importance from the apprehension that they are but symptoms of an incurable disease in the public mind, which may break out in still more dangerous outrages and terminate in an open war by the North to abolish slavery in the South.

"Whilst for myself I entertain no such apprehension, they ought to afford a solemn warning to us all to beware the approach of danger.

"Our Union is a stake of such inestimable value as to demand our constant and watchful vigilance for its preservation. In this view, let me implore my countrymen, North and South, to cultivate that ancient feeling of mutual forbearance and good will towards each other, and strive to allay the demon spirit of sectional hatred and strife now alive in the land.

President James Buchanan

With the approach of the centennial of the Civil war, we think our readers will be interested in the news and events of that significant historical era. Since we did not have the old papers in our own files, we had to get microfilm copies of Appleton newspapers of 100 years ago from the State Historical society. That's why our former 79 years ago can now age to 100 years.

Plans for opposing the proposed rerouting of Highway 41 through Outagamie county as part of a "beltline" system through the Fox river valley were outlined at a meeting at the village hall in Little Chute.

Supt. B. J. Rohan was invited to become a member of the Horace Mann League of the United States of America. The league, which had been in existence for about 15 years, had for its purpose the fostering and strengthening of the American public school system.

Victor Suess, Menasha, was reelected secretary of St. Patrick Catholic church congregation. C. A. Peerenboom was named treasurer.

Appleton park board and the common council's swimming pool committee were to hold a joint meeting to discuss the latter group's plans for a new swimming pool in Appleton.

A review of the book "The Lover's Love," written by the Rev. William P. Pierce, former pastor of First Baptist church of Appleton, was given by Donald Peterson at the meeting of the Baptist Young People's union.

One of America's historic houses — Villa Louis — was the property of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin. The structure was given to the society by the city of Prairie du Chien.

Private William E. Milbow, Appleton, was assigned to General Douglas MacArthur's honor guard in Tokyo, Japan.

The White House checked on the number of coal miners at work and there were reports President Truman was ready to act quickly if strikers do not go back to the pits. Bands of roving pickets helped swell the number of striking coal miners to 89,575 as the "no contract, no work" strike moved into its fourth week.

Mrs. John Gall, who was elected president of the Fox River area Girl Scout council, was honored at a tea by Girl Scouts of Troop 56 of Roosevelt Junior High school at the home of Mrs. Ray Nagreen.

West German State To Buy $2½ Million In Modern Paintings

From The Florida Times Union

The treasury of the United States is already overburdened, and any additions would be hard to justify. But a news item from West Germany offers an illustration in differences between governments and their outlook.

Wurttemburg - Baden, a state of west Germany, has authorized a $2½ million purchase by its finance committee.

The purchase? Twenty-nine modern masterpieces by Picasso, Matisse, Gauguin, Renois, Modigliani and Cezanne, from Norwegian shipowner Rangnar Moltazau.

Ohio Man Will Explore Earth's Last Frontiers

From the Columbus Evening Dispatch

During the last few years we've heard a great deal about the frontiers of space as man attempts to penetrate the unknown reaches lying beyond the earth's atmosphere.

By contrast, seldom do we hear about frontiers on earth itself. There are few remaining unexplored areas.

Yet a young Columbus man, John Sater, is performing in the role of a modern pioneer as he sets forth to explore and study vast unknown regions of the north and south poles.

First, he's heading south for "summer" in Antartica. By April, he'll be far north at Point Barrow, Alaska, trying to improve "sea ice forecasting" by means of aerial photography.

Efficient ice forecasting is important in re-supply operations to outposts around Greenland and the Arctic ocean.

As exciting and adventuresome as this expedition sounds, 29-year-old Mr. Sater is welcome to his assignment.

Plane Spill Not Main Spill for This Woman

From The Milwaukee Journal

Every time there is an airplane accident those who escape with their lives are pressed to explain their innermost feelings.

You can type most of them. They thought "this is the end" and mourned not being able to right some wrongs. They looked forward with confidence or apprehension to eternity. They thought of home and mother, or wife and kids. All, of course, in the flash of a second. The other day a British plane caught fire in landing in London and the 54 passengers miraculously escaped before flames destroyed the aircraft. Mrs. Trixie Prestcott was one of them. A practical woman, Mrs. Prestcott. Her reactions? Just this:

"There was this horrible lurch and my gin and tonic fell on the floor. I was furious."

Union Accepts Farm Machine Firm Contract

Wage Adjustments Settled, Feb. 24 Strike Date Cancelled

Kaukauna — Members of the Badger-Northland Employes association voted 7 to 1 Saturday morning to settle contract negotiations with Badger-Northland for 1960 by accepting a company proposal calling for pay increases of varying amounts for different type workers, according to Cy Vanderloop, Union president.

One hundred-ten members of the 175-man union were represented at the special meeting at which Orville Kinney, representative of the International Association of Machinists, explained the viewpoint of labor and Vincent Rohlf, company president, outlined the situation for the company.

Although the local is not affiliated with an international union, the I. A. M. representative was invited to speak to the men. Rohlf informed members, he was formerly a member of a labor union before rising to the position he now holds.

Meeting Called

Originally the man voted 4 to 1 for a strike, effective Feb. 24, unless wage increases were granted. Contract clarifications were also agreed upon. A special membership meeting has been called for 10 a. m. Feb. 20 to discuss changes in by-laws. Vanderloop expressed appreciation to union members and the guest speakers for participation in the special Saturday session.

Badger - Northland, manufacturers of farm machinery and equipment, is celebrating its tenth year in Kaukauna and has had no history of labor difficulty. The contract changes agreed on will run for the balance of the year.

Chuter Jayvees Defeat Pacelli For 5th Win

Little Chute — Holding off several late rallies by the Pacelli of Stevens Point junior varsity, St. John jayvees took a 42 to 38 victory here Saturday night.

It was the fifth win of the season for the Chuter squad against seven losses and snaps a 6-game losing streak.

St. John jumped off to a 15 to 6 lead in the first period but the big margin disappeared when Pacelli came back with 14 in the second quarter while St. John managed only eight points.

Pacelli closed the gap to 1-point at the three quarter mark but the Chuters had a 10 to 7 scoring advantage in the final frame.

Tom Lamers led St. John with 13 points while Bill Walport had a like number for Pacelli.

Pacelli Halts Chuter Rallies for Victory

Freiberg of Winners Leads 73-69

Win With 38 Points, New Gym Record

Little Chute — Pacelli of Stevens Point halted a pair of determined St. John rallies in the fourth period to take a 73-69 non-conference victory over the Dutchmen here Saturday night.

The loss gives the Chuters a 6-9 record for the season. Five of the losses have been by less than 5 points.

Dick Freiberg's 38-point scoring spree for the Cardinals and St. John's inability to connect on free throws were two of the main reasons for the Chuter downfall.

Free Throw Record

Freiberg set a new gym record at the Little Chute school as he bagged nine field goals and a fantastic 20 of 24 free throws. The charity toss mark also is a record.

St. John had a 29 to 23 edge in field goals but Pacelli made 27 of 36 from the free throw line while the Dutchmen made good on only 11 of 29 attempts.

Coach Bill Fitzpatrick was so disappointed at the St. John showing against the smaller Pacelli squad that he brought the team back to the floor after the game for an extra practice session.

Pacelli led all the way until in the closing minutes the Dutchmen caught up. Consecutive baskets by Ady Ebben, Harland Hietpas and Mike Bongers along with a free throw by the latter gave the Chuters a 61-60 lead with 3:20 left.

The margin didn't last long as Bill Shuda dropped a pair of free throws for Pacelli, followed it up with a field goal and Freiberg added a pair of tosses for a 66-61 advantage.

Hammen Scores

Jim Kirby connected on one free toss for the visitors to hike the lead to six points. Hietpas and Bongers came through with buckets for St. John and Ed Hammen tied it up with a long jump with 44 seconds left.

Freiberg made a pair of free throws to make it 69-67 but Bongers tied it at 69-all with a jump shot at :18. In the final seconds Freiberg and Jerry Tepp each hit a pair of free throws to ice the victory.

Hammen's 20 points led the Chuters while Bongers added 17.

Kaukauna and Kimberly Win in District Debate

Kaukauna — Debaters from Kimberly and Kaukauna High school gained the right to advance to sectional competition as a result of winning honors in the district debate at Preble Saturday.

The two are among the six of 17 teams participating to advance. Three other Mid-east conference schools gaining the right to compete in the sectional were Neenah, Two Rivers and Clintonville. Green Bay West was the sixth team.

Green Bay, Two Rivers, Kaukauna and Clintonville finished with 5-1 records while Kimberly and Neenah ended with 4-2. The win by Kimberly was unusual in this was the first time the debate teams were entered in A competition. All previous debates were on the B-team level.

Sectional competition is scheduled at Stevens Point on Feb. 13 and winners there will advance to the state level.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity.

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge.

Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new COLONAID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

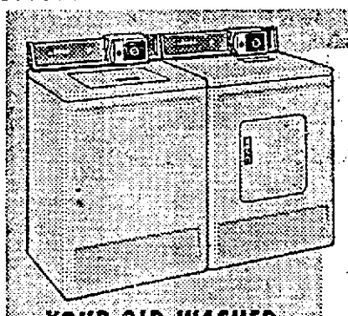

(1) COLONAID moisturizes dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONAID'S unequalled rebulking action helps retone flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONAID acts gently, on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon.

COLONAID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. And COLONAID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONAID today! Introductory size 43¢.

In Civil War slang, an "old soldier" was one who devised ways to escape work. One way was to feign illness; Winslow Homer's painting entitled "Playing Old Soldier" shows a private exhibiting his symptoms to a suspicious army surgeon.

Civil War GI Was A Sad Sack, Too

BY BRUCE CATTON

The volunteer soldier in the American Civil war used a clumsy muzzle - loading rifle, lived chiefly on salt pork and hardtack, and remained to the very end a loose-jointed, informal attitude toward the army. But despite all of the surface differences, he was blood brother to the GI Joe of modern days.

Today's spit-and-polish soldier would be appalled at his Civil war counterpart. But those old timers could fight and did, time and again. Here the editor of American Heritage gives a picture of what the boys of '64 were really like.

He was basically a civilian in arms. A volunteer, he lived for the day when he could leave the army forever. His attitude toward discipline was essentially one of careless tolerance. He refused to hate his enemies and he seemed to be fighting chiefly so that he could some day get back to Mom's cooking.

What set the Civil war soldier apart was the fact that he came from a less sophisticated society. The America of the 1860's lacked the ineffable advantages of radio, television and moving pictures. It was still essentially a rural nation, and there was more of a backwoods, hayseed-in-the-hair flavor to the people.

'Hay-Foot, Straw-Foot'

The drill sergeants repeatedly found that among the raw recruits there were men so abysmally untaught that they did not know left from right. To teach these lads how to march, the sergeants would tie a wisp of hay to the left foot and a wisp of straw to the right; then, setting the men to march, they would chant, "Hay-foot, straw-foot . . . " until everybody had caught on.

Because of his unsophistication, the ordinary soldier usually joined up with very romantic ideas. Army life rubbed the romance off just as rapidly then as it does now. Right at the start, soldiering had an almost idyllic quality; if it faded rapidly, the memory of it remained through all the rest of life.

An Illinois recruit, writing home from training camp, confessed: "It is fun to lie around, face unwashed, hair uncombed, shirt unbuttoned, and everything un - everythinged. It sure beats clerking."

Had Their Fun

There was a regiment recruited in northern Pennsylvania in 1861 known as the Bucktails, and in mid-spring these youthful soldiers were ordered to rendezvous at Harrisburg. So they marched to the north branch of the Susquehanna, where they built rafts. Then they floated down the river, singing and firing their muskets and having a gay old time. They served through the worst of the war, getting badly shot up, but they never forgot the picnic air of those first few days.

Discipline in those early regiments was pretty sketchy. The men were recruited locally, and everybody knew everybody else. The privates never saw any sense in being formal with their officers, most of whom were elected to their jobs by the enlisted men

A New York regiment, drilling on a hot parade ground, heard a private address his company commander thus: "Say, Tom, let's quit this darn foolin' around and go over to the sutler's and get a drink."

Ministers, Toughs

Each regiment seemed to have its own mythology. The 48th New York was said to have an unusually large number of ministers serving not as chaplains but as combat soldiers. When they were posted in a swamp to build fortifications, it was noted that all hands became excessively profane, including the one-time clergymen.

A visiting general asked the regiment's lieutenant colonel if he himself was a minister in private life.

"Well, no, general," said the officer. "I can't say that I was a regularly ordained minister. I was just one of these xxx xxx local preachers."

Not unlike this was the reputation of the 6th New York, which contained so many Bowery toughs that the rest of the army said a man had to be able to show he had done time in prison to get in. As the regiment was about to leave for the south, its colonel told the men they were going to a land of riches which they could despoil; and he took out his own gold watch, remarking any soldier could get one like it in plantation-land. Half an hour later, he felt for his watch . . . and it was gone.

Food Terrible

If the Civil war army spun queer tales about itself, it had to face a reality which was singularly unpleasant. One of the worst aspects was food.

The armies enlisted no men as cooks. Often a company would simply be issued a quantity of provisions and invited to prepare the stuff as best it could. Later in the war, two men were detailed to cook. One army legend held that they were usually the least valuable soldiers, on the theory that they would do less harm in the cook shack than anywhere else.

When an army was on the march, the ration issue usually consisted of salt pork, hardtack and coffee. The hardtack was good, if fresh; with age, it usually got infested with weevils.

In the Union Army, the soldier could supplement his rations (if he had money) by buying extras from the sutler — a civilian merchant functioning somewhat as the regular post exchange functions nowadays. The sutler charged high prices and specialized in indigestibles; and it was noted that men who patronized him regularly came down with stomach upsets.

Much Disease

If Civil war cooking arrangements were impromptu, the same applied to its hospital system. The surgeons, usually, were good men by the standards of that day — which were low since no one knew anything about germs; it is common to read of a surgeon whetting his scalpel on the sole of his shoe just before operating. Hospital attendants were detailed from the ranks, and as a result, sick and wounded men often got atrocious care.

From first to last, approximately twice as many Civil war soldiers died of disease as died in action; and in addition, a great many more got medical discharges.

The northern government set up a number of base hospitals in northern states, on the theory that a man would recuperate better back home. Unfortunately, the hospitals thus established were under local control, and thousands of men who were sent north for convalescence never returned to the army. On top of this, many men had very little understanding of the requirements of military discipline. A homesick boy might go home to see the folks. A man from a farm might slip off to put in a crop. Neither would look on himself as a deserter.

The City-Bred Soldier, foraging for milk and honey, found instead bees and balky cows, as Artist Edwin Forbes depicts the situation.

Looting, Pillaging

Armies of occupation always tend to bear down hard on civilian property in enemy territory. Union armies bore down with especial fervor. The northern soldier had strong feelings about the evils of secession. Even when the army command tried earnestly to prevent looting and individual foraging, officers at lower levels seldom tried hard to carry out the high command's order.

William Tecumseh Sherman resorted to all manner of ferocious punishments to keep his men from despoiling southern property. He had looters tied up by the thumbs, ordered courts-martial, issued any number of stern orders — and all to very little effect.

The Union soldier also came to believe that to destroy southern property was to help win the war. He tore up railroads and burned warehouses. He rationalized his looting and foraging by arguing that it was a step in breaking the southern will to resist.

Slavery Died Early

The Union soldiers moved energetically and effectively to destroy slavery. They were operating against southern property — and the most obvious property was the slave. To help the slaves get away from the plantation was to weaken southern productive capacity. As a result, slavery had been fatally weakened long before the war itself came to an end.

Standard infantry weapon in the Civil war was the rifled Springfield — a muzzle-loader with an effective range of 250 yards. Compared with all previous weapons it was a fearfully destructive and efficient piece. For the infantry of that day still moved and fought in formations dictated in the old days of smooth-bore muskets whose effective range was no more than 100 yards and which were wildly inaccurate at any distance. But in the Civil war the conditions had changed radically. Tactics — in which the massed frontal assault figured prominently — had not yet been adjusted to the new rifles, and as a result, Civil war attacks could be fearfully costly.

Casualties High

It took the high command a long time to revise tactics to meet this changed situation, and battles ran up dreadful casualty lists. For an army to lose 25 per cent of its numbers in a major battle was by no means uncommon. Individual units were sometimes nearly wiped out.

But the discipline which took the Civil war soldier into action, while it may have been very sketchy by modern standards, was nevertheless highly effective on the field of battle. Any armies that could go through Antietam, Franklin or Chickamagua and come back for more had very little to learn about the business of fighting.

Perhaps the Confederate Gen. D. H. Hill said it, once and for all. At Malvern Hill, George B. McClellan's Army of the Potomac was driven back from Richmond by Robert E. Lee's Army of Northern Virginia in a bitter, confused fight which came at the end of a solid week of wearing, costly battles. At the end of the day Hill, looking out over the battlefield strewn with dead and wounded boys, shook his head, reflecting on the valor in attack and in defense the two armies had displayed. He never forgot. Long after the war was over he declarer in substance: "Give me Confederate infantry and Yankee artillery, and I'll whip the world!"

Circulation at Public Library Hits New High

Librarian Reports Adult Patronage in 1959 Up 10 Per Cent

Kaukauna — A new high in circulation for the public library was reported in 1959 by Roderick MacDonald, librarian, with 84,039 books circulated compared to 78,378 in 1958.

Overall percentage is 7 per cent, adult circulation increased 10 per cent over 1958, said MacDonald. The adult circulation accounts for 46 per cent of the total.

The library added 2,047 volumes to the shelves in 1959 including several needed research books. The summer reading program for children showed 323 enrolled and the weekly story hour for youngsters attracted 21 persons.

Outlook for Year

Looking ahead in 1960 the librarian expressed hope the extension of hours would help increase interest and use of library facilities. He pointed out, adult discussion periods would be organized to give persons the opportunity to join in talks on topics of current interest or on matters of general importance in history. Adults will be given the opportunity to select topics for consideration.

An effort will also be made during the year to increase cooperation with other area libraries, to promote reading and library patronage through better advertising and promotion and to continue adding to existing book collections.

Lucille Weiss Slams 244-594 In Women's Loop

Kaukauna — Lucille Weiss pounded a 244 singleton and a 594 series to walk off with individual honors in the Thursday Night Women's league at the Bowling bar.

Other honor counts were hit by Anna Neiling, 202, 548; Harriett Mitchell, 200, and Shirley Hurst, 200.

Home-School Unit to Hear Green Bay Judge

Kaukauna — Judge Donald W. Gleason, Green Bay, will be guest speaker for a meeting of Holy Cross Home-School association at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the school activity room.

Formerly a high school teacher, the municipal judge has gained a reputation for his work in rehabilitating juveniles who have come before his court.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Seeks Early Test for Arteries

Research Sponsored By Heart Association At Marquette

A test for the early diagnosis of hardening of the arteries (arteriosclerosis) is being developed by Dr. Francois M. Abboud, research associate in cardiology, Marquette University medical school in Milwaukee. Dr. Abboud's research work is supported by the Wisconsin Heart association and the American Heart association.

Until now there has been no good method for detecting arteriosclerosis in apparently normal people before it produces a heart attack, a stroke, or some other catastrophe. Dr. Abboud believes that this disease, which affects the lining and walls of the blood vessels can be diagnosed in time for preventive measures to be taken against complications.

He pointed out normal arteries found in younger persons are smooth and elastic. These arteries are capable of stretching and contracting with the blood flow. As we grow older our arteries become hardened, lose much of their elasticity, and we can develop heart attacks and strokes. Dr. Abboud's test can measure this elasticity by measuring the blood pressure inside the artery.

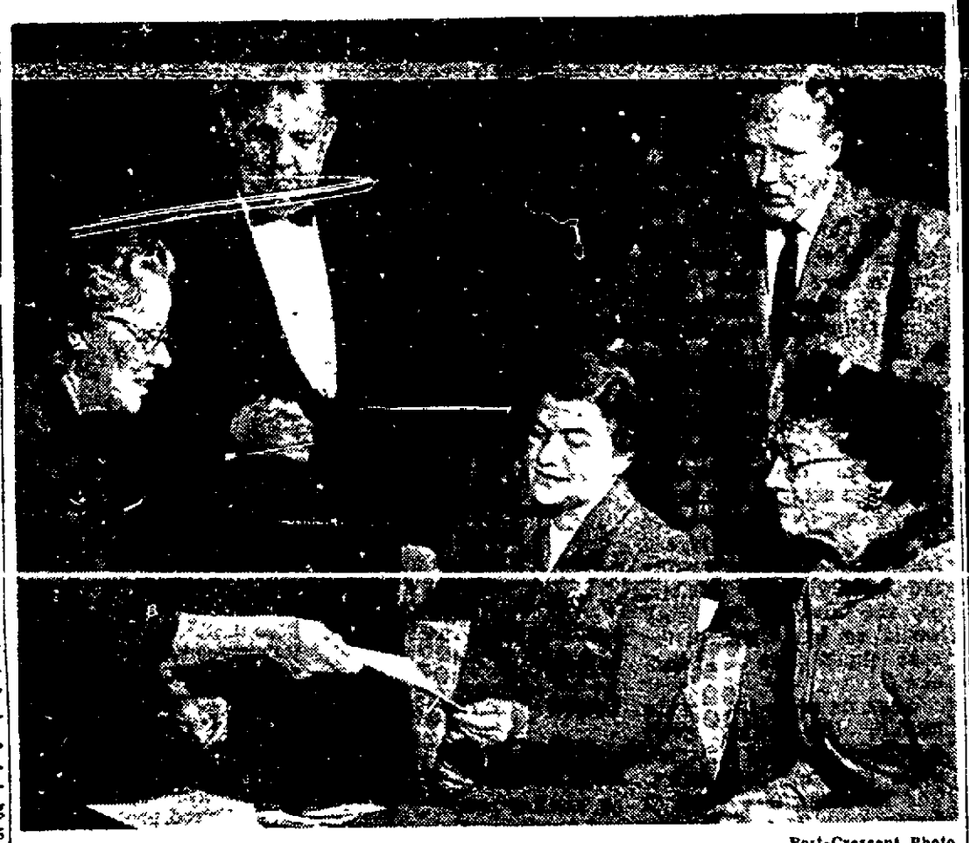

Dr. Francois Abboud

Dr. Abboud has performed his test on 240 persons to determine the elasticity of the blood vessels in normal people of all ages. If the test discloses an individual has much harder blood vessels than others of his age, it is a warning that premature arteriosclerosis is occurring. The person and his family are thoroughly examined to find why his arteries are aging more rapidly than normal. Various diseases including a hereditary tendency may be at fault. Once the cause is found treatment may be aimed at halting these changes in the blood vessels.

Dr. Abboud is currently beginning a series of tests on diabetic patients and their children. He explained that diabetes is a condition which seems to produce hardened and arteriosclerotic blood vessels.

Dr. Abboud's project is but one of many being conducted in the state and across the nation. Currently Wisconsin Heart dollars support 35 research projects at the University of Wisconsin and Marquette University medical schools. Contributions made to the annual Heart Fund drive each February finance the research.

Presidential Timber Must be Cut From Ranks of Diplomatic Men

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New York — Dr. Joseph Link, Jr., associate professor of economics and business administration at Xavier University, Cincinnati, asks:

Sokolsky

"Why not promote some genuinely healthy ideas for our poor exhausted political world? Why not Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Fulton Sheen, Dr. Conant of Harvard, Gen. Wedemeyer, Gen. MacArthur, Sen. Knowland or some of our respected leaders in business, the professions (education, science, engineering, medicine) and other fields for presidential timber?"

This question arises every four years when a president is to be elected. One always wonders why the very great men of the country, the leaders of business, education, industry, science do not present themselves for the presidency. The answer is that they are usually not suitable for political administration, for the compromises essential to the orderly conduct of a democratic government, for observing carefully the checks and balances which are inherent in our constitution.

It is true that the businessman has to worry about stockholders, boards of directors, the SEC, the FTC and similar impediments, but if his balance sheet stands up, he can generally fight off opposition. In politics, the opposition is constant; it is part of a free society. It is a protective against tyranny.

Role f President

The president of the United States does not rule or reign. He is an arbiter among the vast variety of men and women who compose the American people and who have the constitutional right not only to express their opinion but to press for its implementation. He must recognize that in a free society no one man can have his way absolutely and he must be so constituted temperamentally that other men respect him and wish to work with him. He cannot have his way because he is the boss. The boss is every man who has a vote on election day.

The only educator who made the presidency was Woodrow Wilson and he was too arbitrary for his own or the country's good. Mr. Wilson is an excellent example of why an educator makes a poor president; he is used to telling people what is just so and if you disagree you get an F and flunk out.

He failed in his greatest venture because he would not recognize the essence of constitutional congressional government about which he wrote a brilliant study before he became president.

Scientist's Approach

The scientist who comes out of his laboratory to tell mankind what his test-tube told him is not likely to make a competent president because he is apt to overlook the stresses and strains in human nature. To him a fact is a fact. To the politician a fact is something that the voters temporarily accept as true. A scientist cannot compromise with the ignorance of plain, ordinary people; a politician must, because the plain, ordinary people are sovereign. They are his employers and his masters.

So to sum it up, those men emerge to be presidential candidates who possess qualities which give the impression to the people that they can hold this office without becoming tyrants, without violating the constitution, without abusing their power and authority, without disgracing us in the eyes of the world. On the whole, the people have not made too many errors and sometimes the least likely person turns out to be so great a personality that he astounds the world.

What contemporary of Abraham Lincoln, on the day of his election, believed that the choice was the best for the country? There was as much doubt in the north as there was in the south as to his character, his ability, his right to the position. He was not presidential material at a time of authentic great men. Nevertheless, today many Americans in both the north and the south look upon Lincoln as perhaps the greatest of all presidents since Washington.

Walter F. Reade, Jr., owner of 44 moive theaters in New York and New Jersey, displays a drawing of one of the circular movie houses he plans tc build. He proposes to make the theaters the center of community life. They would feature private viewing rooms, restaurants, meeting rooms and bars. Seats in the theaters would be groups instead of rows.

Movie Houses Seen as Community Centers

Should Have Bars, Restaurants, Meeting Rooms, Says Theater Man

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

Hollywood —(AP)— The most frequent complaint you hear from movie makers is the run-down condition of American theaters. Well, here's one man who is doing something about it.

He's Walter F. Reade, Jr., a third-generation theater man, boss of 44 houses in New York and New Jersey, former president of the Theater Owners of America, board member of Cinerama, guiding light of the scented Aromarama process. That's enough of a pedigree for him to expound on the business of showing movies, and he expounds well.

"Too many theaters are operated as though they have a sign up saying 'stay away,'" he said bluntly. "They're hot in the summer, cold in the winter, they're dirty and old, they have bad sound and no parking facilities. They offer nothing in the way of comfort and convenience."

What the nation's theaters need, he said, is a dynamic new concept of their role in the community. He stands ready to deliver it.

Community Center

"The movie theater should be the center of the community life," he remarked. "There is virtually no matinee business left, except on weekends. So we have all this real estate sitting idle most of the time. The theaters should be used for women's groups and civic meetings.

"Theaters should also have facilities for serving meals and alcoholic beverages. One of the pleasures of attending the theater in London is that you can also get drinks there. Why not at movies?"

Reade has already introduced new things to his houses. He put TV sets in the lobbies at a time when TV was considered the movies' worst enemy. He has established party rooms — isolated areas where groups up to 20 can watch the show in comfort and luxury.

Now he's negotiating to build wholly new theaters in Denver, New York City and New Orleans ("which has the worst film theaters of any large city"). These would include such features as:

Circular Construction. "There's no reason theaters have to be oblongs or cut-off triangles. A round auditorium would give more patrons good seats."

No balcony. "Whether it's a theater or store, people don't like the idea of walking up or downstairs when they spend their money."

No Aisles

No aisles. "Center aisles are disturbing. There would be enough space between the rows to make them unnecessary."

Medium size. "Over 1,500 seats is too big for people to get a real experience from the screen. Under 900 is too small to pay for the investment. The ideal would be in between."

Living room seats. "They should be deep and comfortable and not all of them pointed directly at the screen. There should be small groups of chairs so you don't seem to be part of a mass audience."

Reade's ideal theater would also include party rooms, restaurants, bars and meeting rooms, as well as the best sound and projection equipment. It should be equipped for smell, too, he added with a plug for Aromarama and his film, "Behind The Great Wall."

"The use of smells is another tool for the director, along with color and wide screens," he argued. "We should use everything that will contribute to a full movie experience."

Move to Save 'Chippewa' Train

Lansing, Mich. —(AP)— The state public service commission moved Friday to prevent the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company from discontinuing its "Chippewa" trains which run between Milwaukee and Channing, Mich.

The Chippewa runs through Hilbert, Wis.

The interstate commerce commisison last week authorized the railroad to discontinue trains 14 and 21 which make the 230-mile run. The railroad reportedly planned to take the two trains out of service this week.

Historic Torah Ark Stolen From Museum

New York —(AP)— A historic Torah ark covering was stolen Tuesday from the museum of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America on upper Fifth avenue.

The disappearance late last week of a 15th century sterling silver mazzuzah, a small receptacle for a scroll of the Ten Commandments, also was reported.

Police and a museum official agreed the thefts were not the work of vandals.

The article stolen yesterday was a green velvet curtain—27 by 36 inches and embossed with gold thread—used to cover a Torah ark. The Torah is a scroll containing the law of Moses.

A museum official was uncertain whether the curtain was a gift from Napoleon to the Jews of Cracow, Poland, or a gift to the French ruler from the Cracow Jewish community.

Pulitzer Prize 'J. B.' Big Box-Office Smash

New York —(AP)— "J.B.," the Archibald MacLeish poetic drama which won the 1959 Pulitzer prize, turned in a winning record on Broadway.

The play recently wound up its White Way run with a profit of $10,000 on a $116,000 investment. "J.B." is now on national tour.

Lucille Ball Plans Broadway Appearance

New York —(AP)— TV comedienne Lucille Ball is lining up a Broadway appearance next season, even though the precise show hasn't been selected yet.

Miss Ball pledged a stage stint several years ago to Morton DaCosta, producer-director. The project in which she will appear is to be sponsored jointly by DaCosta and Kermit Bloomgarden.

Payola and Francis Bacon

BY HARRY GOLDEN

Congress and the public have discovered the facts about "payola." "Payola" apparently is money paid a disc jockey to spin a certain record and thereby make it into a best-seller. This may or may not constitute a trust, but the networks, no doubt, consider it a breach of broadcasting ethics.

Golden

The disc jockeys, however, are not without a defense. It is, as a matter of historical fact, a classic defense. It is the same defense Francis Bacon used when he was accused of corruption as England's Lord Chancellor. "It was not a bribe," said Bacon, "It was a gift. The gift did not affect my judgment."

Some of the disc jockeys say the same thing. Payola or not, some records will be best-sellers People want their records played and played often.

But I hope the disc jockeys come off better than Bacon.

In 1620 Bacon was Lord High Chancellor when his arch-enemy, Sir Edward Coke, indicted him on charges that Bacon had conspired against the Crown by taking money for his judgment in many cases.

Twice Bacon tried to explain his actions by letter to the House of Lords. Both times the Lords rejected his explanation. Bacon said he was guilty of nothing more than the technical offense of having accepted gifts pendente lite instead of having collected them as fees after the case was terminated. But the Lords shook their heads no. Bacon lost. He was fined, momentarily imprisoned, and prohibited from ever holding public office again. He went into political eclipse.

Whether Bacon was ethical about receiving these so-called gifts or not, we shall not here determine. But to those who say he wrote Shakespeare's plays and did not acknowledge authorship because playwrighing was not fashionable, we may say this: a Lord High Chancellor accused of taking a bribe who maintained it was only a gift would certainly have confessed also to having written Hamlet and King Lear.

Japanese Star in Hollywood After 'Flower Drum' Success

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

Hollywood—(AP)—Oscar Winner Miyoshi Umeki is back in Hollywood after a year and a half of chanting "The Flower Drum Song."

The petite Japanese has a wry way of looking at things. These were her comments on working in her first stage musical:

"Before, I had always played night clubs and never stayed more than a month in one place. Then I found myself playing in a show month after month, doing the same thing every night. It was very strange.

Same Old Lesson

"It was like going to school again. Except that instead of learning something different, I had the same lesson every night. I learned the same thing over and over.

"On opening night in Boston, I forgot my lines. I felt so sorry for the other actor, because I thought he was the one that had forgotten. He just stood there and said 'you . . . you.' Finally I realized that I had forgotten. So I spoke in Japanese."

Miyoshi of the soft voice and frail frame seems little suited to the rigors of eight performances weekly in a Broadway musical. Yet she missed nary a performance during her long run. Only Keye Luke of the rest of the cast had a perfect record as well.

Miyoshi enjoyed the experience and shed tears when she left the cast. She feels the run was good for her career, which is getting active with her new availability. She has a TV series prepared for her and may appear with Marlon Brando in "The Ugly American."

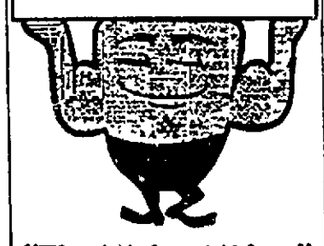

Also in her plans is a return to Japan in May. Her mother lives in Tokyo.

"I might also do some films there," she said. "It would be interesting for me, because I was a failure in Japanese films. I tried out again and again, but I could never get a role. The only things I did was background voices — dubbing American cartoons into Japanese."

For now, she's content to get resettled in her Hollywood home, where she would like to stay. "All I've been doing is housework," she said, "and I'm very happy."

Sports Car Rallies Keep Happy Pair Entertained

BY DOROTHY ROE

Here's a 1960 revised recipe for a happy marriage: go sports car rallying together.

"Any man driver who gets a wife who can navigate will never let her go," says pretty Eleanor Halmi, of Harrison, N. Y., who fell in love with a sports car addict, got a slide rule for an engagement present, and has been rallying ever since.

Now the Halmis have four children and four sport cars, counting the quarter-midget racer driven by the two oldest offspring, 8-year-old Kevin and 5-year-old Kim. The other two, Robby, 3, and Billy, 10 months, are at present campaigning for motorized tricycles. The Halmi romance has strictly modern overtones.

"Bob picked me up in his racy two-seater one sunny Sunday afternoon in Forest Hills, while I was waiting for a bus," says Eleanor dreamily. "A few days later he took me to a rally, and found out I could read the tachometer and work a slide rule. From then on, it was duck soup."

Man-Sized Job

Bob is Robert Halmi, Hungarian photographer who has competed in 15 international sports car rallies, plus countless regional ones. When he drives, his pretty wife navigates. And that's a man-size job, says Eleanor.

"You never see the road, or have time to get scared. All you can do is keep figuring R.P.M. and M.P.H. and checking the course, so your hero doesn't get sidetracked," she says. "There's no chance to look at the scenery. You just have to keep watching the instruments and yelling at your hero. It's great fun, really."

The Halmis are out rallying somewhere almost every weekend — spring, summer and fall. In between times they take trips abroad, for international rallies.

"It's the only sport a man and wife can do together, without having to compete against each other," says Eleanor. "It's a wonderful way to get away alone together for a weekend. You have all the thrills of the rally, good fun with the other drivers in the evenings and then a long, lovely drive back home on Sunday afternoon. You're out in the fresh air — never mind the carbon monoxide fumes — you're keyed up and trying to win, and best of all, you're together."

Eleanor has other arguments in favor of this growingly popular pastime:

"If we didn't go rallying we'd stay at home and go to cocktail parties. I'd have to get a lot of new clothes, we'd sit around in smoky rooms and drink too much — and we wouldn't have any fun."

The Halmis often drive 12 hours nonstop, have done as much as 90 hours with only "pit stops" and perhaps an hour or so out for meals. They're off to Holland soon for another international rally, and Eleanor is looking forward to a breather afterward on the Riviera. Says she:

"When you go to a sports car rally, you never know where you're going until you start. Then you are handed your instructions as to course, destination and average speed and you're off. The navigator reads the directions and the driver drives. It has to be precision driving. You're supposed to arrive at the exact minute planned. It's just as bad to be too early as too late.

"You take along box lunches, because there's no time to stop. Of course there's never time to eat the lunches, either. You get sun in your eyes and dust in your hair. You take pills to stay awake. Some people may think we're crazy, but we think it's fun."

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Taylor Alton were honored Sunday by the congregation of First Methodist church. Leigh Wolfe, left, lay leader, is presenting Dr. and Mrs. Alton a silver bowl filled with roses to commemorate 10 years of service at the church. A short reception was held after each Sunday service.

Plastic Terrarium Holds Collection of Small Plants

BY CAPPY DICK

If you have a friend or relative who is fond of growing plants, a nice gift to make for her is a plastic terrarium. A terrarium is a transparent container with a cover which allows only a small amount of moisture to escape, permitting small plants to thrive in the warm, moist atmosphere inside.

To make a plastic terrarium you must first hunt for a transparent plastic box. It may be a large round cake box, or a deep oblong box (Figure 3) such as florists use as containers for corsages. There are also plastic cookie and candy boxes.

These containers do not have very solid bottoms, so place the box on a tray or platter. Then plant the garden as the boy is doing in Figure 2. Over the very bottom scatter some charcoal to keep the soil sweet. On the charcoal spread a layer of fine gravel, one half to an inch deep. Then spread a deep layer of black dirt mixed with a little sand and some decayed leaves. These layers are shown in Figure 1.

2-1

Plastic containers must have covers.

In the soil plant the seeds of some small plants. The florist can help you select the right kind. Also plant some small ferns. You may even plant grass seed.

When the seeds have been planted, water the soil and day by day add only enough water to keep the air in the terrarium moist. Make a small hole in the cover to allow some fresh air to enter, but not too much. If too much moisture gathers on the plastic, remove the lid for a while.

Ask Man of Her Choice, Girl Told

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Some time ago I was invited to a dance by a young man I know. I accepted and had a very nice time. The sorority to which I belong is giving a dance shortly and I would like to invite another young man to go with me. Would this be proper or does etiquet demand that I return the first young man's invitation and ask him to go with me?

Answer: No, you can invite the young man you prefer. At some time later you may be able to invite the first young man to something. But after all, even if the opportunity of repaying him never comes it is not so important because a young girl is not expected to return more than a very few of the invitations she receives from young men.

No Strict Rule

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it necessary that the mother of the bride leave her wrap in the back of the church? I have a very lovely mink stole which I am going to wear to my daughter's wedding. I had planned to leave it on while walking up the aisle, but I have been told that the bride's mother does not wear a wrap over her dress in church. Will you please advise me on this matter?

Answer: The bride's mother generally leaves her wrap in the back of the church, but there is no strict rule about this and if you prefer to wear your stole you may do so.

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

Wood Panel Wall by Wallpapering Methods

The wood panelling of walls isn't necessarily a carpentry project—not when the wood comes in wallpaper-like rolls. Real wood, with all the beauty of its natural grain, has always been sliced into thin veneers for furniture, and now it's sliced even thinner and mounted on paper to apply to walls by wallpapering methods. There's dark walnut and pale silvery driftwood and nine tones of walnut, cherry and birch in between, all lightly stained to bring out the grain patterning. And for parquet effects, the same paper-backed veneers are available in 25-inch squares.

Scissor-snipping instead of sawing taolor wood to wall sizes and irregularities, to fit into corners and against moldings where structural lines are never exactly right. Care of the wall is as simple as the care of any wall—the wood is prefinished with lacquer to resist moisture and soil as well as to prevent buckling and cracking.

Mrs. B. S. "Im enclosing a sample of the green and black, red-accented wallpaper in my living room hoping you can suggest draperies to go with it. The woodwork is white, the floor is gray with marbleizing in black and gold and the furniture is in Provincial prints, brown for the sofa and an arm chair and green for another chair."

Although the paper has a brush-stroke type of pattern, the spaced black squares in it stand out too much to make it harmonious with another pattern in draperies. Plain colored draperies will also be better because of the prints on the furniture, and the best color for them is the soft medium green which predominates in the paper. The same green for woodwork would also help the effect of the room, especially if the woodwork seems to cut up wall areas and the white is not related to anything else. Use touches of the orange red for accessories.

Mrs. D. C. D. "I made the mistake of trying to re-color deep scratches on the wood panels of a headboard with mercurochrome. How can I change the red to a browner shade for a better match to the rest of the wood?"

Try a little iodine, and if the scratches then seem to have lost most of the red color, fill in with one of the brown waxes or furniture repair preparations that are made for the purpose. If the scratches are wide and the red persists, however, it may be necessary to refinish the wood completely. Have you thought of upholstering the panels to cover the damage and give the headboard a new look?

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

End of Winter Skin

A lovely writes: During the last two months, my skin has become dry and flaky. Why should this be and how can I repair the damages?

The answer: Many women complain of this condition toward winter's end. It seems even the smoothest skin can become taut and rough at this season.

The reasons are numerous. Among them count weather, either tropical or icy, furnace heat, and the lack of exercise.

To end the problem, simply give yourself this facial weekly: remove any make-up with cosmetic cleanser, compress hot water to your face for several minutes, pat dry and massage in a generous amount of night cream or oil.

Mix a teaspoon of dry cornmeal with a quarter-cup of salad oil. Gently smooth on the mixture with rotary motions. Or if you prefer, you may substitute beauty grains for the meal. Several brands are available at cosmetic counters.

Apply more hot towels, rinse with cool water and finish with pats of witch-hazel or skin freshener.

To speed results, be faithful to a night-care emollient and protect your skin with powder base during the day. A springtime complexion will be yours, long before springtime comes!

KD Charity, Paulson Circles to Sponsor Spring Homes Tour

Genevieve Paulson and Charity circles of the King's Daughters have announced a joint project, "Homes in Review—1878 to 1960," for June 9.

The review of homes is similar to garden walks and parades of homes held in historic southern communities as well as in neighboring cities, such as Green Bay and Sheboygan. It will be designed to show guests six homes throughout Appleton which exemplify good taste in design and furnishings and distinguishing architecture or decoration.

Both circles met recently at the home of Mrs. Robert Spooner, 72 Garden court, and voted to donate proceeds from the project to the proposed Child Guidance center.

The tour of homes will begin t 10 a. m. and conclude at 4 p. m. Visitors, who will be admitted by ticket only, can begin the tour at any point and hostesses from the sponsoring circles will greet guests. Special collections, table arrangements, flower displays and garden and yard features will be shown.

At one of the homes along the tour, tea and coffee will be served.

Committees from the two circles have begun contacting potential exhibitors and making preliminary plans. Each home is being selected to represent the best in contemporary design, historic interest, period architecture, early American design and the updated traditional.

Co-chairmen of the "Homes in Review" are Mrs. Patrick Coughlin and Mrs. James Gustman, Charity circle, and Mrs. F. James Grist and Mrs. David Weiland of the Paulson circle.

Other committee appointments are selections, Mrs. William T. Ducklow, chairman, Mrs. Spooner, Mrs. Robert W. Johnson, Mrs. E. R. Shannon, and Mrs. Dan Cloud, Charity circle; and Mrs. Joseph Hanegraf, Kimberly, chairman and Mrs. Grist and Mrs. Weiland, Paulson circle.

Appointed to the ticket committee were Mrs. Arthur Kuehn, chairman, Mrs. Robert Chase, Mrs. Donald Strutz, Mrs. John Lindberg and Mrs. Franklin Nehs, Charity circle, and Mrs. Robert E. Johnson, chairman, Mrs. A. W. Lehman and Mrs. Richard Mahony, Jr., Paulson circle.

Publicity committee members are Mrs. John Conway, chairman, Mrs. Charles Martin and Mrs. Ducklow, Charity, Miss Marie Legenberg and Mrs. Robert White, Paulson.

Members of the hostess committee are Mrs. Charles De Young, chairman, Mrs. James Thielman and Mrs. Edgar Degenhart, Charity circle; Mrs. A. Harold Martin, chairman, Mrs. Donald Ritger and Mrs. Ralph Kamps, Paulson circle.

Lawrence Lists Events Calendar For February

The annual Religion-in-Life conference and a pre-road tour concert by the Lawrence college choir are two highlights of public interest during February at Lawrence.

The 3-day religious conference, this year titled "Christianity and the Non-Christian Religions," will be opened on Feb. 10 with an address by Mr. Frank Bessac of the Lawrence anthropology department at 8 p.m. in Harper hall. The keynote speaker, Dr. Huston C. Smith, professor of philosophy at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will deliver his address at the 11 a.m. convocation Thursday in the Memorial chapel. That afternoon and evening a series of topic and panel discussions will be held in the Memorial union and the dormitories. Zen Buddhism will be the topic of Friday's discussion at 3:30 p.m. in the Memorial union. and the conference will be concluded by Dr. Smith at 7:30 p.m. Friday, also in the union.

The Artist series presentation for February is the Lawrence concert choir, directed by LaVahn Maesch, head of the conservatory of music, to be given at 8:15 p.m. Feb. 29 in the Memorial chapel.

Morse Singers

The third program in the Chamber music series will feature the Morse Family singers of Ripon at 8:15 p.m. Feb. 15 in Harper hall. Another musical organization appearing this month is the Augsburg college choir which will present a program at 8 p.m. Feb. 5 in the Memorial chapel.

Among the lectures open to the public is that of Dr. Bert Hoselitz, professor of economics at the University of Chicago, who will discuss "Economic Development and Social Change" at convocation at 11 a.m. Feb. 25 in the Memorial chapel.

The third of the Phi Beta Kappa lecture series will feature Dr. Norman Taylor, assistant professor of economics, at 8 p.m. Feb. 16 in the Worcester art center. His topic is "Some Aspects of Economic Behavior in a Traditionalistic Society."

Two Freshman Studies lectures are on the agenda, the first by Dr. Ben Schneider, assistant professor of English, on "The Library Paper' at 11 a. m. Feb. 9 in Stansbury theater; and the second by Dr. Bert Goldgar, also of the English department, on "All the King's Men," at 11 a. m. Feb. 16 in the same auditorium.

Four conservatory programs have been scheduled. An organ recital by Daniel Smith of the faculty will be given at 8:15 p. m. Feb. 21 in the Memorial chapel, and student recitals are set for 8:15 p. m. Feb. 18; 3:30 p. m. Feb. 19; and 8:15 p. m. Feb. 25, all in Harper hall.

Film Classics

Film Classics will present the Italian film "Night of Calira' at 1:30 and 7:30 p. m. Feb. 14 in the Worcester art center; "Red Inn," (French) at the same times Feb. 21 in Stansbury theater; and "The Young and the Damned," a Mexican movie, on Feb. 28 at 1:30 and 7:30 p. m. in Stansbury theater.

The Lawrence Art association is sponsoring a lecture at 3 p. m. Feb. 21 in the Worcester Art center by Theodore Kraynik, Milwaukee sculptor whose work will be on display during the month at the center. Also on exhibit in February will be watercolors by Appleton artist Robert Hilmer.

Members of Aqua Fin, girls' water ballet, will give a program at 8 p. m. Feb. 19 in the Alexander gymnasium. The annual Folk Dance festival sponsored by the Women's Recreation association is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Feb. 26 in the campus gymnasium.

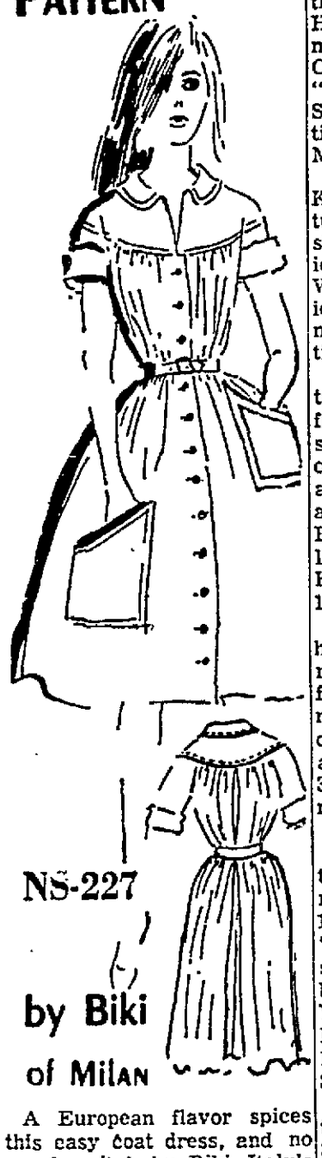

Serve Noodles With Veal Roast

Nice to serve with a veal roast: egg noodles tossed, after cooking, with poppy seeds, blanched almonds and melted butter. Sprinkle the noodles with paprika before serving.

Cooking Ham

You'll need to bake a two-inch thick center-cut slice of ham from 1½ to 2 hours. Be sure to cut slashes in the fat edge of the meat, about two inches apart, before baking; this will prevent curling. Insert whole cloves in the fat and baste the ham with sweetened pineapple juice several times during the baking.

INTERNATIONAL DESIGNER PATTERN

NS-227

by Biki of Milan

A European flavor spices this easy coat dress, and no wonder—it is by Biki, Italy's most popular designer. Handsome by itself, it can also be worn over a matching or contrasting sheath. Bonus idea: when it's past its prime, wear it as a housecoat. A standaway collar tops a yoke that is deep enough to create the new dropped shoulder look. The body of the dress is gathered at the yoke and falls straight to be belted at the waist. Sleeves are ¾ and can be turned back to any length. If you are over 21, place the large pockets high, as given in the instructions, but teen-agers can put their own pockets on the skirt a la B. Bardot. Choose jersey, sheer wool, crepe, rayon, silk, linen, cotton, batiste, or a wild printed taffeta. From this size chart select the one size best for you.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips	Length*
10	34	24	35	46
12	35	25	36	46½
14	36½	26½	37½	47
16	38	28	39	48

*OF DRESS — 1½" HEM INCLUDED.

Size 12 requires 4¼ yards of 45 inch material for dress and ¾ yard of 36 inch or 39 inch material for lining.

To order Pattern No. NS-227, state size, send $1.00. For Pattern Book No. 16, send $1.00. Address SPADEA, Box 993, G. P.O., Dept. AX-13, New York 1. N. Y. If paid by check, bank requires 4c handling charge.

North Pulls Star Play in This Game

U. S. Masters Team Champion

"You always make North the dummy," complains a lady reader. "You never say anything about his fine plays. Aren't you ashamed?"

The fact is that North is very modest. But if you can keep a secret, I'll relate one of his finest exploits.

South dealer.

Opening lead — S-J

South won the first spade trick and led the deuce of diamonds. West played the three, and South lazily said "Use your own judgment, partner."

Thereupon North played the four of diamonds!

Everybody sat up and tried to talk at once.

"I meant to play one of the picture cards," South protested.

"You can't take back a played card," West announced smugly.

"Let's not take advantage," East objected sympathetically. "He has a right to play a picture card if he wants to."

Good Eye

Now South was not a good player, but he did have a good eye for crocodile tears. So he stood by North's play of the four of diamonds.

East won with the eight of diamonds and returned a spade. South led his other diamond and made sure to play the king this time. There was no way to stop declarer from winning three diamond tricks, so he made game and rubber.

Now let's get back to East and his crocodile tears. He wanted declarer to play the king of diamonds on the first round of that suit. East would refuse that trick. And then a very easy hand would suddenly become very difficult.

Possible Trouble

Declarer continues, let's say, with the queen of diamonds, and East takes the ace. East returns a spade, and South needs two entries to dummy: one to develop the diamonds, and another to cash the last diamond.

South would sink without a trace (although there is a fancy way to make the hand if you can see all the cards). But he had no trouble after North's actual play of the low diamond at the second trick.

"Very nice judgment," South said grudgingly to his partner. And North smiled modestly, as usual.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You have: S—7 4, H—Q 5 3, D—K Q J 6 4, C—A 6 2. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two diamonds. If partner rebids spades, you will try for game by bidding two notrump. With 12 points in high cards you can afford to suggest game but should not force to game.

Our Children

Timely Hints Given on Winter School Clothes

BY ANGELO PATRI

Winter weather calls for warm clothing for the children, especially for the younger ones in the kindergarten and first year grades. These youngsters go to school wrapped to the ears in ski suits, caps with snappers rubbers and rubber boots.

They need these of course but what mother thinks about the difficulties these wraps make for the teacher? Schoolroom problems are foreign to most mothers and this is one few ever think about.

Dismissals must be made promptly. The bus must not be kept waiting. The bell rings, the children must get on their ski suits, rubbers, mittens, sweaters, the whole winter outfit in three minutes after the bell.

Sonny can't get into his ski pants; Johnny can't get his rubbers on. (They were all right last year but Johnny grew some.) Sammy calls, "My zipper is stuck." From the rear of the room comes a loud wail: "I can't find my other glove. It's my new one." And the bus is waiting.

Good Zippers

Mothers can be of the greatest help here, not only to the teacher but to the child still a bit slow about getting into his winter outfit. They can skip the clover-leafed zipper. The ski suit so equipped is tempting but it is murder for the fumbling fingers of the kindergartener and the first grader.

Before saying, "Tommy, you take Sammy's last term rubbers," make certain that Tommy's feet fit those "perfectly good rubbers." It might be that he had bigger feet than his older brother.

Please, good mothers, put the owner's name on his belongings, even on the rubbers, both of them, and furnish a clothespin to keep them together. Hunting for a lost rubber at dismissal time can be a horror.

If anybody wants to know just what all this implies try dressing a child in his winter outfit in under three minutes.

Angelo Patri offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning child training. If you would like to have his leaflet P-19, "Clothing The Baby," send 10 cents in coin to him, in care of this paper. P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

Mother's Helper

by Heimann & Pearson

WHEN your children's toothbrushes need replacing, don't change the color of the handles if you can avoid it. Each child is used to reaching for that color! A plastic drinking glass to match each brush is advisable, too — to help them stick strictly to their own.

Serve Sugar Syrup Over Grapefruit Sections, Bananas

Put a half cup of sugar, a half cup of water and a tablespoon or so of lemon juice in a small saucepan; stir over low heat until the sugar dissolves. Boil, without stirring, for five minutes. Use this sugar syrup over grapefruit sections mixed with sliced bananas for a fruit dessert.

Seafood Cocktail

Want a wonderful seafood cocktail for company? Line sherbet glasses with lettuce; add two or three cooked cleaned shrimp, a couple of fresh or thawed frozen raw oysters and a couple of hard-shell raw clams. Top with a spicy cocktail sauce made from catchup, chili sauce, prepared horseradish, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce.

Your Problems

Reader Regards Coffee Break Practice Colossal Time Waste

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: Your column embraces everything from hiccups to the cost of haircuts. Let's see you handle this one.

Ann Landers

The American institution called the Coffee Break is the biggest fraud since Sam Insull. It's a colossal waste of time and I defy anyone to prove otherwise. In this day and age when offices are well lighted, well ventilated and well equipped, the coffee break is nothing but a lame excuse to gyp an employer out of a full day's work.

I've seen women in this office leave their desks at 9:40 and return at 10:10. They're off again at 2:50 and back at 3:20. This is 12½ per cent of the 8-hour day, not counting lunch.

I'll bet in Russia they aren't chewing up valuable time with such nonsense. No wonder they're getting ahead of us. I dare you to print this. — Old Fashioned

Dear Old: You're dead wrong on both scores. The Russian coffee breaks are mostly tea breaks but they do have them.

Time study experts after extensive research came up with proof that productivity and efficiency are increased when there's a break in the routine. A brain can go stale just as a body can become weary. Specialists in the field of energy output introduced the coffee break as a means of getting more work out of employes.

Every strata of society has its goof-offs and chiselers. If the women in your office are taking half hour breaks they should be told that the standard break is 15 minutes. There will always be people who abuse a good thing. It is they who should be criticized, not the system.

DEAR ANN: If I'm cookoo just tell me. Maybe I need a jolt.

I'm 33, have a great figure, fast line of patter, excellent job and two divorces. I met a fellow who is handsome, considerate, intelligent, has a fair job and is mad about me. The catch — he's 21.

We are completely compatible and I feel a communication with Kent that did not exist with my former husbands. I'll level with you and confess they were both younger than I — one by five years, the other by seven. Ken wants to marry me. What does this look like to you? — Lucia

Dear Lucia: It looks like you're considering making the same mistake for the third time. Even a white rat learns after a while.

This lad enjoys doing business with an old established firm and you are flattered by his attentions. But your record suggests you need a man 10 years older than yourself — not one 12 years younger.

DEAR ANN: You won the undying love of thousands of press photographers when you told off "Laughing Stock" in your column.

She was the active socialite and civic worker who complained because the local press photog kept catching her with her mouth open and her eyes shut. She moaned she didn't really look that bad, but that the photographer intentionally took bad shots to ridicule her.

Every guy who is breaking his neck to take good pictures for his paper knows at least a dozen women who fit the description of Laughing Stock perfectly.

In behalf of all press photographers everywhere, I send you a headline-size Thank You Ann Landers. — Ron W of San Bernardino

Dear Ron: And thank you for those kind words. To you and yours who labor in celluloid vineyards, a great big You're Welcome.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

"Mother, mother! There's a real live turtle on the front lawn! Come and look!"

"Junior! Go to your room and wash your face right now!"

Do you remember quieting your excitable child something like this? Those were his heart-to-heart interests in those days. You may not have shown enough interest and as a result he may have lost the habit of confiding in you.

You are a well-balanced, efficient person who has undoubtedly always kept an admirable home and taken good care of your family. Letters are carefully formed with circle i-dots and t's crossed with precision. However, you are not inclined to be responsive.

You are different from your son. He's an idealistic dreamer. You are practical, down-to-earth.

To break through your calm reserve isn't easy. It never was! Your boy has learned years ago that you don't see things his way so he may be somewhat guarded now.

Give him time. As he matures he may acquire more of your characteristics and you may be able to talk more intimately. At present his retraced capital "I" indicates intense self-consciousness. Don't press him.

New York Gets Record High Budget Figure

Gov. Rockefeller Presents Request For $2,035,000,000

Albany, N. Y. —(AP)— Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller submitted to the legislature today a pay-as-you-go budget that calls for record state spending of $2,035,000,000 and a $66 million increase that could touch off new demands for tax relief.

The Republican governor did not recommend any general tax cuts or increases.

Expected Tax Cut

The governor reported that tax revenues this year were expected to exceed estimates by $62 million. Anticipation of a surplus had raised speculation among both Republican and Democratic legislators that there might be a tax cut.

But the governor earmarked his surplus for replenishing reserves.

Rockefeller set his budget total at $2,026,000,000. He rejected responsibility for expenditures in the 1960-61 fiscal year — beginning April 1 — that were required under appropriations ordered in previous administrations.

Rockefeller's total of new appropriations is $2 million less than appropriations for the current fiscal year.

However, his budget calls for actual spending of $32 million more than the $2,003,000,000 estimated as total state spending for this fiscal year.

The governor called for an increase of $55 million in state aid to education in the new school year — 30 million of it required under present law and the balance as new state aid. He proposed total education aid of $681,800,000

Bus Runs Over Boy Clinging to Bumper

Batesville, Ark —(AP)— A four-year-old boy clung desperately to the bumper of a city bus for five blocks Sunday, but finally had to let go and was killed.

Police Chief Jim Mitchum said little Terry Pierce apparently was in front of the bus when it started up and clutched at the bumper to avoid being run over. He dropped under the wheel when the bus turned a corner.

Driver Lloyd Pierce, no relation to the child, was unaware of Terry's losing struggle with death. He broke down in tears when he was stopped by a motorist and told of the tragedy.

Insurgents Yield to End Algiers Revolt

Lagaillarde Cheered

The crowd began to cheer and clap for Lagaillarde, and there were cries of "Algerie Francaise!" (Algeria is French!)

Somebody started singing "The Marseillaise" and it was soon taken up by the crowd.

Three helicopters hovered overhead.

Lagaillarde's men were a motley group. Some wore uniforms, some had only parts of uniforms A few wore steel helmets and others wore paratroop berets.

At 12:18 p.m. a big-blood-smeared French tricolor which had fluttered above the insurgent holdout was slowly pulled down. It had flown there since the bloody start of the revolt Jan. 24, when 27 persons were killed in street fighting.

The insurgents began helping to take down the barricades of paving stones and rubble which they had thrown up.

Dr. Bernard Lefevre, a right-wing political figure in Algiers, said the surrender came as a result of night-time negotiations between the insurgents and the army. He said conditions asked by the insurgents were that the surrender go off with military honors and that no sanctions be taken against them.

Leaders Assailed

Whether the army accepted these conditions fully was doubtful. De Gaulle in demanding that the army bring the insurgents under control had called the rebel leaders liars and conspirators, indicating they could expect little mercy from him.

If the lette rof the law were followed, Lagaillarde and Ortiz probably could be executed for treason, having violently challenged the authority of the state and waged armed warfare against it. But the insurgent leaders' continued popularity with the French colonils in Algeria ruled out this extreme punishment.

Life in most parts of the city appeared normal. Buses and taxis began to run again, and endless lines of private cars were pushing their way through narrow streets.

Schools were opened, but a number of parents kept their children at home, apparently fearing street disorders.

Paratroopers and foreign legionnaires kept a cordon around the insurgent stronghold and its thinning force of diehards. The muzzles of the rebels' rifles and machine guns still projected from behind the barricades.

All three Algiers morning newspapers were heavily censored by the authorities. The Algiers press has been openly sympathetic to the revolt against De Gaulle's policy of self determination for Algeria.

(A one-hour general strike was staged throughout France but as a demonstration of support for President De Gaulle. All major trade unions—Catholic, socialist and communist—supported the demonstration. The strike hour, from 11 a.m to noon, merely extended the usual lunch hour and did not interrupt essential services.)

Jessen Seeks National Party Position Again

Expects Opposition For Democratic Committeeman Post

Post-Crescent News Service

Milwaukee — Herman Jessen of Vilas county, national committeeman for Wisconsin of the Democratic party for the last four years, will be a candidate for reelection to his party office, he announced here during the weekend.

Jessen made known his intentions during a meeting of the Democratic state administrative committee.

He said that earlier publicity indicating that he will quit his party office was inaccurate, but he indicated also that he expects that he may be opposed for reelection at the Democratic state convention next spring.

Term Lasts Year

Jessen's present term extends through this year, so that he is sure to take part in the Democratic national convention in July and the nomination of the party's national ticket.

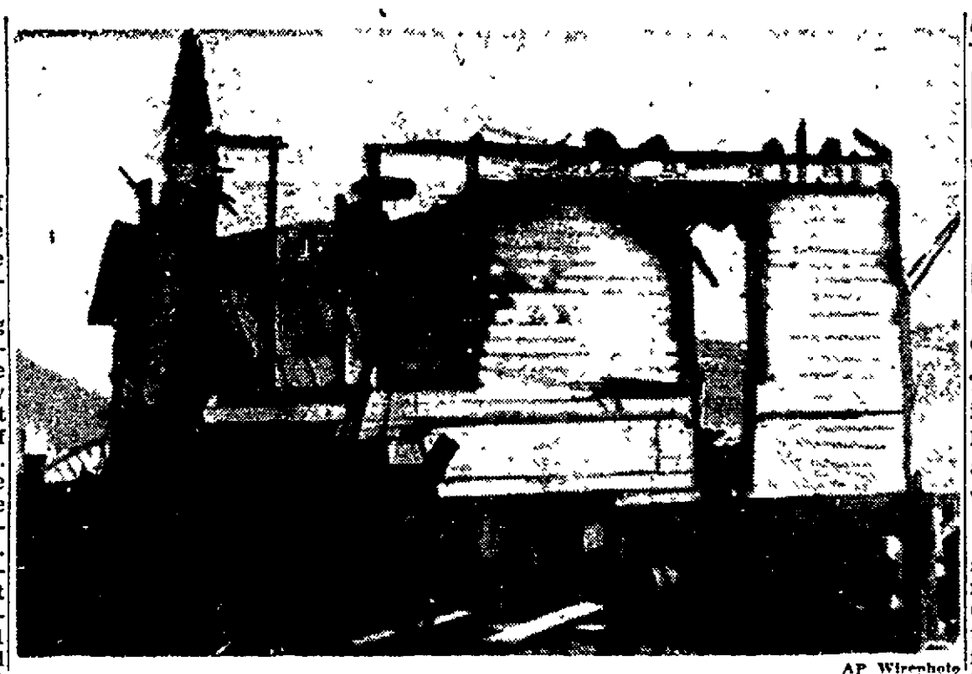

Jessen several months ago unsuccessfully challenged Patrick J. Lucey of Madison for the chairmanship of the state Democratic party machine. His rebellion against the state organization command makes it likely that he will be challenged, in turn, for the national committee office. When a party wins control of the White House, the national committeeman has considerable power in the distribution of federal patronage.

Mrs. Phillips to Run

Mrs. Vel Phillips of Milwaukee, woman's representative for Wisconsin on the national committee, did not comment directly on her plans but she is expected to seek a new term and Democratic party insiders expect that she will be opposed also.

She is a Milwaukee alderman, and the only Negro member of the top national party organization.

Jessen explained that he is retiring from some of his business activities but intends to maintain an active role in politics. He is known as one of the most successful mink ranchers in the state.

Most Readers Want Charlie to Go to Europe indicates to me that either nine people (or more) hate me or else have a sense of humor.

6 Suggest Cuba

A visit to Cuba — this was suggested by six people, four of whom suggested that I join Castro's forces and report my experiences (and perhaps write my own obituary).

Most of the other suggestions came in singles, but there were some mighty fine ideas, boss, that may be worth considering.

One lady remembered "Joe," the horribly mutilated fellow I met on my canoe trip last spring. The lady suggested I start on a walking trip to raise funds for plastic surgery for the poor fellow. She offered the first sum — $20 for a starter. (Joe had once been given a chance for plastic surgery, but he was frightened and declined.)

Several person suggested visits to ghost towns in Wisconsin and elsewhere. One suggested a series covering each ghost town in our state, its history and apparent reasons for its demise.

Florida Swamp

An interesting double suggestion came from James Quinn of Green Bay. He believes (and so do I) that Florida's Okefenokee swamp would be a good story source. He also thought a visit to Mackinac island in the winter would be interesting because only about 200 people stay there through the year. How do they live, he asks; what do they do?

An Appleton writer thinks a visit with Dr. Tom Dooley in Indo-China would help him in his work and give me a wealth of wonderful stories to tell.

Shortest trip suggested: Casco, Wis.

Toughest Trip Idea

Toughest trip: A walk across Lake Michigan. That suggestion came from you, boss. Remember that I told you that the man on the street would have nicer ideas for me?

Well, boss, you promised that you would send me wherever the customers wanted me to go. They want me to go to Europe.

May I go, boss? May I? You promised!

Redstone Not In Space Work

Commander Makes Statement as He Replaces Medaris

Huntsville, Ala. —(AP)— "We do not expect to be in the space business," says the new commander of the Redstone arsenal army ordnance missile command.

Medaris

Maj. Gen. August Schomburg, taking over from retiring Maj. Gen. J. B. Medaris, said Redstone will "do little or no basic research" and "there won't be the least bit of competition between us and the new NASA (National Aeronautics and Space administration)."

Redstone's famed science team, headed by Dr. Wernher von Braun, will be transferred to NASA in March if congress approves and Redstone's job will be "supervision of contractors who are engaged in development for us," Schomburg said.

"What we are doing is putting in a new group of persons fully qualified to supervise contracts within the army weapons system area of missiles," he said.

"We will be working in different areas from NASA, he added.

About 4,800 civilian personnel in elements now under Schomburg will become a part of NASA by July 1 but all will stay at Redstone, the general said.

"They will continue the same programs in which they are now engaged. They will also be available to assist the army when required. . .

"Some of the experienced missile people now working under Dr. Von Braun's supervision will remain with the army to prevent any interruption in our important defense work," he said.

Schomburg gave no figures but current employment at the arsenal is about 17,800.

The retiring Medaris, who for four years has headed the agency responsible for most of this country's missile and space work, has been elected chairman of the board of Electronic Teaching Laboratories, Washington, D. C., which is engaged in language instruction.

Medaris has also said he plans to write a book, tentatively titled "Countdown to Decision."

Oshkosh Youth Dies in Crash

morial hospital and in "satisfactory" condition.

Funeral arrangements at the Pfeffer Funeral home for Bosna are pending the return of his parents.

Besides his parents, he is survived by three sisters, Sandra, Oshkosh, and Mrs. Joseph Jaeckels, Jr., and Mrs. Gus Bruckner, Jr., both of Santa Maria, Calif.

Bosna's death was the second traffic fatality of the year in Calumet county and raised the state highway toll to 55, four less than a year ago.

There were two state deaths on the highway over the weekend.

Timothy A. Berget, 4-month - old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Berget of South Wayne, was killed Sunday when the car driven by his mother veered out of control and crashed. The accident occurred on Lafayette County Trunk KK three miles south of Gratiot. Mrs. Berget was not hurt.

Albert Matchey, 66, Pigeon Falls died Sunday when his car left Highway 121 a mile west of Whitehall and hit a tree.

Smaller Explosions

Seven trucks were parked side by side beside the Wymore warehouse in Oregon City. Two big blasts rocked the area — only six blocks from downtown—and a number of smaller reports followed.

Six of the trucks were destroyed by the explosions and the flames that swiftly curled through the huge vans—which haul paper rolls and can carry 19-ton loads.

The fire was quelled and was prevented from spreading into the warehouse and other nearby buildings.

Police said it appeared that explosive charges were placed between the trucks and on the big exterior gasoline tanks.

The charges, police said, apparently were set off simultaneously.

The blasts in Portland followed those in Oregon City by minutes. Again the scene was the same—trucks parked side by side beside an Oregon Film Service warehouse.

Police said dynamite charges had been placed either in the cabs or hoods of the trucks.

Windows Blown Out

Police Lt. Dean Blackwood disarmed the charge that didn't go off—a bomb made of three sticks of dynamite taped together and a 5-foot-long fuse—which had gone out.

The dynamiters, Blackwood said, knew how to handle explosives.

Windows in the warehouse were blown out but other buildings in the area were not damaged.

Both companies have hauled for the newspapers for years, and have continued to do so since the strike.

The explosions were the greatest violence since the strike began. There have been a few fires in little newspaper distribution huts around the city, and some fist fights on the picket line—but nothing like what happened last night.

When the stereotypers union struck, most members of other unions at the newspapers decided to observe the picket line. About 950 persons have been idled.

A few union personnel have come back to work, and the newspapers have been putting out the joint edition using them and supervisory and non-union workers.

Among the issues in the strike: The number of men that would man a new type of casting machine the Oregonian said it plans to buy.

The union has also said it balked at management proposals for a longer work week at the same pay. Ahe union has said foremen must be union members.

Homemade Rocket Kills Backyard Experimenter

Van Nuys, Calif. —(AP)— A homemade rocket changed direction immediately after launching, police said, and killed one of three backyard experimenters.

John J. Berg, 13, was pronounced dead at Valley receiving hospital Sunday. Attendants said the improvised rocket — a 4-foot aluminum pipe — had pierced his chest.

Investigators said the three boys made their rocket by placing a charged capsule into the pipe and stuffing in a quantity of paper match heads for the "warhead." The capsule was of the type used to inflate life rafts. The launching pad was an empty wash tub.

Bloodmobile to Visit Menasha Feb. 11-12

Appointments Being Made This Week; Need O-Negative for Heart Surgery

Menasha — Appointments for the Feb. 11 and 12 visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile will be made this week. The bloodmobile will set up collection facilities in First Congregational church.

Quota for the February visit to the Twin Cities is 268 pints.

The blood donation center will be open from noon to 5:30 p.m. Feb. 11 and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Feb. 12. The second day's visit has been extended 1½ hours to accommodate donors.

Quota Larger

The 268-pint quota for this bloodmobile visit is 28 more than for similar visits last year. Quotas have been increased to keep pace with population growth and make up for previous short collections.

There will be special need on this visit for both type O-positive and O-negative blood. The O-negative blood is needed because of a shortage of that type at the Badger Regional Blood center in Madison on which the local blood bank draws its supply. At least 40 pints of this type are wanted during the two-day visit.

Eighteen pints of O-positive blood, not included in the quota, will be collected Feb. 11 for 7-year-old Ann Swiontek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Swiontek, Tayco street road, Menasha. The girl will undergo heart surgery at Madison Feb. 12. Sixty O-positive donors have been asked by the Menasha Red Cross chapter to have their blood matched with the girl's.

Schedulers

The Neenah Red Cross chapter is sponsoring this bloodmobile visit. Serving on the scheduling committee, headed by Mrs. James Crust, are Mrs. W. U. Day, Mrs. Scott Fithian, Mrs. David Jones, Mrs. Donald Wasinger, Mrs. W. E. Benoit, Mrs. Arthur Kessler; Mrs. Frank Grundman, Mrs. Ruth Parker, Mrs. Emil Kollath, Mrs. S. A. Robinson, Mrs. G. W. Glover, Mrs. Wayne Long, Mrs. B. R. James, Mrs. Norman Thiel, Mrs. Mary Brien, Mrs. Lawrence Zick, Mrs. E. F. Zietlow, Mrs. Raymond Carlson, Miss May Hart, Mrs. C. W. Hollandale, Mrs. C. F. Hedges and Mrs. Charles St. Pierre.

Mothers Raise $3,600 in Drive

Polio Fund Receipts Virtually Same as In 1959 Campaign

Neenah — The mothers march for the new March of Dimes last week raised $3,644.46 in the Twin Cities, Mrs. E. E. Kadlec, 304 Congress street, Twin City chairman, reported today. The total was practically the same as last year.

The Menasha contribution was $1,946.76, exceeding last year's collection, as well as the collection in Neenah. The Neenah total was $1,697.70.

It wasn't only a "mother's march," Mrs. Kadlec reported, as two fathers participated in the door to door campaign. Mrs. Herman Meyer, Gruenwald avenue, the "doll lady" who annually repairs hundreds of dolls to give to underprivileged youngsters, wasn't called on in the march last week but contributed $15, $1 for each of her grandchildren, she said, "to keep them well."

Not all homes were reached in the march, Mrs. Kadlec reported, because of the difficulty of securing volunteer workers. Any persons wishing to contribute may contact Mrs. Kadlec. She also urged that March of Dimes folders be returned promptly, pointing out that the campaign has been expanded to include the fight against polio as well as arthritis, virus diseases and birth defects. The need for funds still is great, she declared.

Community Chest Studies Bylaws

Christianson Heads Committee; D. C. Shepard, Jr., Lauds Workers

Menasha—By the February 1961 annual meeting, some changes in Community Chest by laws may be recommended by the new president, outgoing Pres. Donald C. "Tad" Shepard, Jr., predicted this noon at the annual community Chest meeting in Hotel Menasha.

The committee, formed in 1959 because "there is evidence certain sections (of the bylaws) should be revised," Shepard went on, includes Alden Christianson as chairman, Joseph Ryan and Allen MacGregor and the chest president, ex-officio.

The bylaws study committee, Shepard reported, was set up after the board of directors approved hiring Mrs. William Herriott as coordinator. She was engaged because Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, whose services were shared with the Chamber of Commerce, had too heavy a workload.

In his message at the annual meeting, Shepard reviewed 1959, the Neenah-Menasha Community Chest's 13th, as a good year.

13th Campaign

"The number 13 was the least of our worries. In 1958, in spite of untiring efforts by the funds campaign committee, we had failed for the first time in our history to achieve the goal set for the drive.

"In 1959," Shepard went on, "we could foresee justifiable needs on the part of some of our member agencies for increased budgets. We were told that Theda Clark hospital was anticipating an intensive funds solicitation for a much-needed building program.

"To this formidable challenge the people of the Twin Cities rose magnificently. As you know, both the hospital and Community Chest drives went over the top. Virtually all divisions did their share in meeting the increased goal."

Shepard praised those who "contributed generously financially and much in time, effort and thought to the success of the past year.

The four constitutional committee chairmen and their groups came in for recognition from Shepard.

"Chic Severson and his admissions committee have done a fine job in screening applicants for institutional membership. . .and helped finalize an important clarification of these provisions (in the bylaws).

Cut Requests

"For several months of the year the budget committee takes over as our hardest-working group. With Gig Young doing an outstanding job as chairman, this committee reviewed budget requests from all 10 agencies. Not all budgets were approved as requested, but I have heard of no agency that felt it was treated unjustly.

"Work begins for the campaign committee chairman the moment he accepts the appointment in early spring and is not finished until the drive is completed. Bill Aylward accepted the job in spite of an extremely heavy work load in his own company. It is impossible for me to commend him and his very capable and hard-working committee more highly than to say 'Look at the results and remember the circumstances'." The committee consisted of 284 persons.

"Rounding out the constitutional committees is repairs and maintenance under the able and experienced chairmanship of Vern Wilson. This committee is always ready to evaluate and assist in applications from members for capital monies."

Shepard thanked the committeemen who worked to find and engage Mrs. Herriott for the coordinator's post. The committeemen were Dan Johnson, chairman, and Paul Groth, Arthur Hedlund and Russell Ward.

Mrs. Herriott, Shepard went on, "has done an outstanding job in the last five months. She stepped in just as the drive preparations were reaching their most hectic stage and not only handled the job of learning her new duties but spent long hours handling collection statistics with the able advice and counsel of veteran Effie Schultheis."

In order to assure prudent investment of reserve funds, Shepard said a finance committee recently was set up with Joseph Ryan as chairman.

In concluding, Shepard praised Mrs. Sullivan's work and expressed "appreciation in behalf of the Community Chest for the outstanding job she did in her seven years as chest secretary."

Ed Viehman, former Minneapolis-St. Paul radio-television personality and now chairman of the Minnesota Republican party, will speak at the Winnebago County Lincoln day dinner at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 11 at the Atheran hotel in Oshkosh.

Home Finance Special Class Set at NVS

8-Session Course To Meet Tuesdays Beginning Feb. 9

Neenah — Family finance management is the subject of a special class to be conducted here by the University of Wisconsin extension division beginning Tuesday, Feb. 9.

Watkins

Family money problems will be examined and practical solutions suggested. The 8-session class will meet Tuesdays at 7 p.m. at Neenah Vocational and Adult school.

Instructor for the course is E. K. Watkins, manager of the University of Wisconsin Co-op Credit union. Watkins will take up a whole range of family financial problems such as estimating one's spending, insurance, distribution of income, savings problems and improving income.

Watkins makes no guarantee to class members that they can liquidate their debts, but he feels constructive steps toward this goal can come from the course.

Complete registration information concerning the course is available from Dan Danielson, Neenah vocational school director.

City Sewer Survey to be Discussed

Neenah — Bruce Hartman of Jerry Donohue Engineering company will meet with the Neenah common council's committee on public works at 7:30 p.m. tonight to discuss the city sewer survey, its scope and manner of procedure, Mayor Chester Bell said today.

Return postcards will be mailed today or Tuesday to all city water customers so residents can report whether their homes were flooded, when and to what depth.

With the card information, the sewer surveyors may pinpoint flood-susceptible areas, so the corrective measures may be planned.

City Clerk R. V. Hauser said the council's health and welfare committee will meet at 7 p.m. tonight, the finance committee at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and the council at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. All will be in city hall.

NHS Debaters Qualify for Section Meet

Tie for Second Place With Kimberly; 4 Wins, 2 Losses

Neenah — Neenah High school varsity debaters received four wins, qualifying them for the sectional tournament, at a district debate meet Saturday at Preble High school. The sectional tournament is scheduled for Feb. 13 at Stevens Point. Schools with four wins at the sectional meet qualify for the state tournament at Madison.

The Neenah affirmative team of Jim Hedlund and Rita Buck won one debate and lost two. They defeated Kewaunee and lost to Green Bay West and Clintonville. Miss Buck tied for one "best of speakers" award and Hedlund tied for two such ratings.

Penny Simpson and George Dix, the Neenah negative team, won three debates and lost none. They defeated Algoma, Preble and Oconto Falls. Miss Simpson and Dix each received one "best of speakers" award and tied with each other for another.

Other schools which will compete in the sectional meet are Kimberly, which tied with Neenah for second place, Green Bay West, Two Rivers, Kaukauna and Clintonville, each with five wins and one loss, which tied them for first place.

County Tavern Group To Hear State Head

Neenah — Winnebago County Tavern league will install officers at a 7 p.m. dinner dance tonight at the Valley Inn. Lyle Madison, Lakewood, president of Tavern League of Wisconsin will be guest speaker.

League officers are Edward Larson, president; Austin Wheaton, vice president; and Ervin Kiesow, secretary-treasurer. Directors are Irvin Immel, Bea Leverick, Dick Peerenboom, William Karpathian, George Hannes, James Boyson and Marvin Pruno.

An Open House Was Held At The Athearn hotel in Oshkosh Sunday, calling attention to the senior citizen program initiated there. The third floor of the hotel has been set aside for senior citizens. Above is the community kitchen for preparation of breakfasts or coffee to go with the card playing sessions. At the right above are some of the visitors and guests in the television and lounge room which also has a record player, records and newspapers and magazines. Below at the right is a typical room.

Independence

Hotel Hopes to Solve Problems of Senior Citizens Along With Own

Oshkosh — Senior citizens have problems — security, comfort, companionship, freedom from care.

Hotels too have problems. They must have sufficient occupancy to show a profit and an ever-increasing number of motels have cut into the hotel trade, particularly the transient trade in downtown hotels.

Underway at the Athearn hotel here is a project which may solve problems of both the senior citizens and the hotel — the division of senior citizens sponsored by the Mac Arthur - Weaver hotel chain. The program has been underway a month with approximately 30 residents. An open house was held Sunday.

The third floor of the hotel has been turned over to the senior citizens with approximately 40 rooms available. The second floor of the hotel, which opened before the turn of the century, is reserved for regular transient customers. The first floor is occupied largely by school teachers and other career women while Oshkosh State college male students are housed in the annex of the 230-room hotel.

Few Rules

The goal of the senior citizens program is to bring together people who want independence, freedom from worry and comfortable security. Regulations are few and simple.

The guests range in age from 45 to 86. They include a retired doctor, a retired priest, widows, retired teachers, and some individuals who are still working. At present women residents outnumber the men.

If the guest wants privacy, he has his own room. The rooms have been redecorated and attractively furnished under the direction of Mrs. Mary Bally, house mother for the college students at the Athearn. Guests can use their own furnishings if they are attached to a favorite chair or some other piece of furniture.

Facilities

If the guest wants companionship, there is a lounge with television, record player, magazines and newspapers. There also is a community kitchen with toaster, roaster, frying pan, casserole and coffee pot and a refrigerator in case the senior citizens want to fix a bit of breakfast or want to have some coffee with their cards.

So far the guests have been extremely companionable with no "gripers", according to Mrs. Jeanne Hall Senderhauf, hotel manager. One woman moved in Sunday and in no time was being greeted by other residents. Children and guests of residents are welcome to visit as they would in their own homes.

The guests make their own beds and keep their rooms tidy as they would in their own homes. Maid service is provided once a week. There is an automatic coin washer and drier with ironing facilities available.

Entertainment, consisting of bingo, cards, checkers, art courses, knitting, music and lectures, is planned but the guests are free agents, living their own lives as they wish.

Exchange Plan

To increase their independence, there are opportunities for senior citizens, if they wish, to join the hotel petty payroll by performing some small chore or service each day for two hours. Guests must have a certificate from their physician that they are physically self-sufficient and free of mental illness and communicable disease. In the event of illness a doctor is on call at all times and each room has its own telephone.

The plan even provides for a change of scenery if the guest desires. The MacArthur Weaver chain has a hotel at Venice, Fla., and another at Biloxi, Miss., participating in the program. Guests may trade their rooms for a southern stay without extra charge and have their own "home" waiting on their return.

Selden Spencer New Warden at St. Thomas Church

Menasha — At the annual meeting of St. Thomas Episcopal church held in the parish hall Sunday, Selden Spencer was elected senior warden. Junior warden is Peter Traas, Jr.

Vestrymen elected are Richard Aylward, Robert McDougall, William W. Cross and Keith Hollander. Members of the vestry whose terms have not expired are Charles Morton, Walter Swanson, E. M. Hart, Wallace Michner and Robert Mott.

Stilp

Irving H. Stilp, 52, of 419 Twelfth street, Neenah, has been police chief of Neenah since June 1, 1940. He was named chief after serving from March 1927, to June, 1940, on the Winnebago county police force, the last five years as captain.

While on the county force he was instrumental in forming the first police radio system for this area of the state. He also played a major role in Lake Winnebago rescue work. The Neenah police boat, secured during his administration, has become well-known for its activities.

He is married and the father of two sons and a daughter and the grandfather of 10. He attended Oshkosh State college before joining the county force and also has attended various FBI schools on police administration and traffic. He was in the national guard for three years, serving with the old 105th Calvary unit located in Neenah.

Boating has been one of his hobbies and he is interested in sail boats, ice boats and power boats. He is a qualified Great Lakes skipper and has sailed five times in the Chicago to Mackinac Island race. He was a member of the original Oshkosh All-Stars basketball team. He also played with the old Oshkosh Badgers professional football team. Hunting and fishing are other hobbies of the Neenah chief.

Tri-City Boaters Open Membership Drive

Neenah — The Tri-City Boating club will kick off its membership drive with a planned potluck dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Whiting boathouse. Members have been asked to bring other boaters as guests.

The group will discuss impending boating legislation and hold a social hour after the business meeting. The committee in charge includes Mr and Mrs. Armond Sonnentag, Mr. and Mrs. Olhe Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Danke, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Blank, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pagel.

Omro Youth Earns Grant

Elwyn A. Coats, Jr., Receives 4-H Key Award Scholarship

Oshkosh — Elwyn A. Coats, Jr., 18, route 1, Omro, was awarded a $150 scholarship by the Cities Service Oil company at the annual 4-H key award reunion luncheon in connection with Farm and Home week at the University of Wisconsin in Madison last week.

The key award is presented annually to about 200 4-H members out of an enrollment of 50,000 in the state and is based upon development of citizenship, leadership and community service through 4-H work. Two scholarships were presented at the reunion luncheon.

Coats is in his eighth year of 4-H club work with his projects largely running to dairying, junior leadership and crops. He is a member of the Smile-a-While 4-H club. He currently is a freshman at Oshkosh State college and will enroll at the University of Wisconsin next fall, majoring in agricultural journalism.

This year the key award in Wisconsin will be five years old. During that time 1,118 members have received the recognition for excellence in 4-H club work. The program is sponsored by Cities Service Oil company in 16 midwestern states.

Gray Wolf Reported After 20-Year Wait

Jackson, Wyo. —(AP)— The first sighting of a gray wolf in Wyoming in more than 20 years was reported this winter.

Martin Crowe, Casper, and A. E. Baugh, Venice, Calif., reported sighting the wolf north of Jackson about 50 feet from where three elk had been chased into a clearing.

The last known gray wolf was reported in Wyoming in 1936.

St. Benedict Ends Zephyr Win Chain

Skein Halted at 15 in 66-57 Loss to Hot-Shooting Pacers; Vanderhyden Posts 20 Points

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Milwaukee — The state's second longest winning string of the season came to an abrupt halt here Sunday afternoon when a supercharged St. Benedict quintet upset St. Mary 66 - 57. The loss halted the Zephyr chain at 15 links.

Vanderhyden

The St. Benedict boys, beaten by St. Mary 101-62 in their invasion of the Fox Cities last November, weren't to be denied. They took advantage of Zephyr defensive lapse, hit better than 50 per cent of their shots (25 of 48, outrebounded the Menashans and didn't let the pressing defense bother them.

St. Mary had 39 more chances than their hosts but shot after shot would roll around the hoop and fall off or go in and come out and it wound up with a poor 27 per cent on 24 for 87. From the free throw line, the visitors hit 50 per cent, 9 for 18, but in the second half St. Benedict didn't commit a foul until halfway through the last quarter.

Zephyrs Threaten

The Twin City lads threatened to make a brilliant comeback in the final segment but when they would make a move, the Pacers would dump in a basket or free throws and, after trailing by 17, the Zephyrs couldn't get the spread under eight points.

The Milwaukeeans have only a 3-12 record but many of their losses were just by a few points. They held mighty Racine St. Catherine to 49 points in losing by 13. They boast the Milwaukee Catholic conference's top scorer in John Wilder and the third best in Merle Orr. Wilder had 19 and Orr, 16, Sunday.

Paces Losers

St. Mary's Pete Vanderhyden garnered game scoring honors with his 20 points. He tried his best to pull the Zephyrs up by their bootstraps in the final quarter by hitting six baskets before fouling out with 24 seconds left. He was by far the top Zephyr performer. Dean Schreiner added 12 points, six in the final frame. The rest of the usual balanced attack wasn't there.

St. Benedict started fast, real fast, by hooping 24 points in the first period to St. Mary's 15. The losers never led. They had a 2-2 tie but that was all. At that score, Benedict hit four points in a row and later it put together a skein of seven.

At 28-19 in the second frame, St. Mary got within three points on baskets by Vanderhyden and Mike Herlache and Jerry Laemmrich's two free throws. The winners went on to score the next seven for a 10-point spread. They led 37-29 at halftime.

For the Zephyrs, the second half didn't start any better than the first. Orr opened with a jump shot and after Jim Koerner scored off the fast break, the Pacers began to throw the ball in from all angles and hit four straight goals for a 47-31 score. It was 50-37 at the 3-period mark.

St. Benedict made the first two goals of the final frame, one an overhand hook shot from 30 feet out, to go ahead by 17. The Zephyrs got eight straight points, getting the difference down to nine at 54-45 but the Menasha defense collapsed and the victors broke fast for three quick baskets, the third with 3:52 left, boasting the spread to 15 and with it went any hopes St. Mary had of winning.

The box score:

St. Benedict—66	FG	FT	F	St. Mary—57	FG	FT	F
J.Wilder	5	9	4	Schreiner	6	0	2
Orr	8	0	2	Koerner	3	3	3
W.Wilder	0	0	0	Loemmrich	0	4	3
Smith	2	2	1	Becker	1	2	1
Hegwood	2	1	5	Van'hyden	10	0	5
Nichols	6	1	1	Herlache	2	0	2
Jenkins	2	3	0	Rechner	1	0	3
Totals	25	16	13	Totals	24	9	19

St. Benedict	24	13	13	16—66
St. Mary	15	14	8	20—57

Free throws missed: St. Benedict 11 (Nichols 4, J. Wilder 2, Smith 2, Jenkins 2, Orr); St. Mary 9 (Laemmrich 4, Koerner 2, Schreiner, Becker, Rueckl).

Chilton — Despite "Buck" Edinger's sensational 43 point performance Saturday night at Menasha, the Brillion Ironmen dropped a high scoring thriller to the Macs, 111-103. The win kept the Macs' slate clean and in a tie for first place with New Holstein.

Menasha took a three point 22-19 lead at the quarter but the visitors battled back to tie it 50-50 at the half. The Macs stormed out after intermission and slammed home 32 points to lead by 10. Brillion retaliated with 31 in the fourth frame, but Menasha almost matched the output with 29 of its own.

Scheier's 28 points led Menasha, Hodkiewicz had 25. Don Edinger supported his brother's big effort with 28 points.

New Holstein chalked up its fourth straight Eastern Wisconsin Amateur league win of second round play by downing Valders 76-65.

Puetz paced a balanced New Holstein attack that fell behind in the first period, but stormed back to take a halftime lead and win. He had 17 points. Paul Pritzl took game scoring honors in leading Valders with 28 points.

Chilton blew a six point halftime lead and a slim 67-66 advantage with a minute left to play at Plymouth and was beaten 74-68.

Ken Suchan got 18 of his game topping total of 22 points in the first half to pace the early spurt. Jerry Daun had 13 for Chilton. Klemme was Plymouth's chief gunner with 21 points. He scored 11 of his team's 24 gift shots.

Hilbert was forced to muster a second half rally to keep from being upset by lowly Denmark Saturday night. Denmark scored three more field goals than Hilbert, 32-29, but the visitors were deadly on the charity line, converting 20 times on 16 Denmark fouls.

Wolf was high for Hilbert and the game with 28. Eickert had 20 for Hilbert. Jorgenson's 18 paced Denmark.

Extension Divides 2 Weekend League Tilts

Menasha — The Menasha Extension cagers bowed to Racine 77-61 here Saturday afternoon after edging Kenosha 80-77 in the first game of a doubleheader Friday night at Green Bay.

The Trotters have a 6-4 record, still good for third place in the University of Wisconsin Extension division conference.

The Trotters trailed Racine 37-25 at halftime and then bounced back to cut the difference to four at 42-38. Racine got the difference up to 12 again and, after having the lead narrowed to six 61-55, the visitors steadily began to pull ahead.

Mike DuFrane led the Menashans with 19 points, getting 15 in the second half. John Stoffel was next with 16 points. Five Racine players had 13 or more points, paced by Mickleson's and Erdman's 15.

Kenosha led the Trotters 38-36 at halftime in their Green Bay game. The score was tied four times in the second half before the winners moved ahead for keeps.

Bob Mortell, who was held scoreless in the Racine game, hit 25 points. DuFrane and Hal Jorgensen each had 15. Bob Morrissey had 25 and Ralph Ruelle hit 20 for the downstaters. Ruelle fouled out with five minutes left and Morrissey went out with three minutes remaining.

St. John Loses To St. Cloud '5' At Mt. Calvary

Defeat Host Team Before Bowing Out Of Tourney Play

Menasha — St. John Holy Name won one of three weekend encounters and then withdrew from the Mt. Calvary tournament.

The Menasha squad downed the host Mt. Calvary team 63-60 Saturday afternoon and then lost to a hot shooting St. Cloud team 82-66 Sunday night. Because they would have to play seven games in five days to remain in the they withdrew in order to meet City league and BABA commitments.

Sunday afternoon, St. John dropped a 69-67 overtime test to the All-American Red Heads in an exhibition before a capacity crowd at the St. John gym.

Against St. Cloud, St. John trailed 27-24 at the quarter but led 39-35 at halftime. The winners were in front 55-50 at the close of three frames and recorded a 27-16 edge in the final eight minutes.

Tom Martin paced St. John with 23 points. Bob Morgan had a like amount for St. Cloud.

St. John trailed Mt. Calvary 15-12 at the quarter and 29-26 at halftime. They moved in front with a 22-12 third period bulge.

Earl Furlow's 16 points paced St. John's balanced attack. French hit 15 for Mt. Calvary.

Ike the Man Is Key Part of Missile Gap

President, Protected From Facts, Is Whole Nation's Tranquillizer

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Washington—With any other president in the White House, the missile gap and the way it has been neglected and misrepresented by the administration would by now constitute a huge, emotion - charged national scandal.

Alsop

But Dwight D. Eisenhower not only has the curious, often useful political knack of acting as a kind of super-tranquilizer, a whole nation's Milltown. Because he is a military hero, the country tells itself, "Ike knows best," while the Eisenhower defense department plays its macabre game of Russian roulette with the country's future.

Last of Series

In this way, Eisenhower the man is a key part of the problem of the missile gap. For this reason, no study of the problem can be complete without an attempt to answer the question, whether Ike really deos know best.

Look at Ike's Record

It is a truism, of course, that military heroes cannot always and forever be trusted to know best. Indeed, the fields of history are whitened by the bones of armies that were prepared for the next war by generals who won the last war. But truisms need not be universally applicable; so one must look at Eisenhower's individual record in order to form a judgment.

In that record, the most significant single episode is surely the part President Eisenhower played in our most disastrous post-war defense budget. This was the budget prepared when President Truman was having his own bout of budget-mania, under the defense department leadership of the egregious Louis Johnson. This was the budget that invited the Korean aggression. As some predicted, its invitation was quickly accepted.

By Johnson's request, Eisenhower came back to Washington that year, to work with the joint chiefs of staff while the budget was being prepared. Without contradiction from Eisenhower, the budget was then presented to congress as an "Eisenhower budget." Nor was Eisenhower the only great American military figure with a major share of responsibility for this budget that invited disaster.

A wholly different budget had been prepared, with infinite toil by the great James V. Forrestal; and President Truman had made Gen. George C. Marshall the judge between Forrestal and himself. For the specific reason that the national economy could not support the Forrestal budget (which totalled $18 billion!) Gen. Marshall told Truman to go ahead and cut Forrestal's handiwork to the bone. Gen. Omar C. Bradley also testified that if we spent a dollar more for defense than the Eisenhower - Johnson budget which totaled $13 billion!) the national economy would promptly collapse under the strain.

Here we see not just Eisenhower alone, but three of our greatest soldiers of the last war, all making the same appalling mistake for the same reason. It is the very reason that Eisenhower now puts forward, once again, to justify skimping the national defense in the current budget. Our generals, apparently, are taught to regard the economy of the richest nation in history as a port of sensitive plant, likely to fall into decline at the merest touch. In Eisenhower, of course, this viewpoint has more recently been vastly strengthened by the powerful influence of men like George M. Humphrey.

If you believe, with Humphrey, that paying the full bill for national defense is a quick road to national suicide, it is tempting to ignore all the reasons why not paying the defense bill may be suicidal. There is evidence that the President has done just this. If Eisenhower were a less transparently honest man, such Eisenhower defense speeches as the one after the first Sputnik would have to be called something far uglier than grossly misleading. The facts were wrong, and they were wrongly presented as well.

Ike's Staff at Fault

The chief fault lay, perhaps, in the White House staff's constant, sedulous effort to protect their chief from anything too disturbing or too disagreeable. One thinks of the former secretary of the national security council, Robert Cutler, the greatest of all the president-protectors, viciously ridiculing the awe-inspiring, wholly accurate warnings of the Gaither report.

One thinks, too, of the Pentagon warnings to Gen. Andrew Goodpaster that the president had better not claim our Vanguard satellite would soon match the Soviet Sputnik, because the Vanguard project was in a mess. The warning, overly calculated to upset the president, was never transmitted. The claim that we would match the Sputnik was duly made. And for many months on end, the United States looked silly among its unsuccessful satellites.

This is no attempt to denigrate the president. It is an effort rather to show why, in this crucial case, a very virtuous king may be claiming to wear all sorts of clothes he has not got on. But perhaps it would have been better to assert, at the outset, that it is always wrong for any nation to trust any leader, instead of trusitng the hard facts.

The hard facts say that a very small number of Soviet ICBMs can wipe out the American nuclear deterrent. The hard facts say there is a good chance of error in the intelligence estimates which deny the Soviets this small number of ICBMs. The hard facts say, therefore, that the remedies must be urgently applied that are needed to put an end to the Russian roulette game.

Gets 3 to 6 Years In Fatal Accident

Philadelphia — (AP) — A 55-year-old man has been sentenced to a three-to-six-year prison term for second degree murder in the auto death of a child.

Judge Vincent A. Carroll told James Waymer: "This is a pure case of second degree murder and not manslaughter."

Waymer pleaded guilty Thursday to a general homicide charge and was adjudged guilty of the murder charge by Carroll after testimony by several witnesses.

A police surgeon testified Waymer was intoxicated when examined Sept. 13, 1958, shortly after his car killed a 4-year - old boy and injured two others.

The verdict is rare but not unprecedented in local courts.

Barn Burns at Leeman, Bags Of Potatoes Lost

Leeman — Some 500 bags of potatoes stored in a barn were lost and damage amounting to $3,000 resulted in a fire at the Hillsburg farm owned by John Tickler east of Highway 187 and County Trunk G about 8 p.m. Friday.

The Shiocton volunteer fire department answered the alarm.

Car Broken Into At High School

John Mainer, of 1236 E. Opechee street, told city police his car was broken into Friday night while he attended the Appleton, Green Bay basketball game at Green Bay.

The auto was locked and parked behind the school. When he came back at 11:30 p.m. he found the left front wing window smashed, the inside ransacked and directional stick and an aerial bent, police said. The car also was damaged while parked near the school on two other occasions, Mainer told police.

Marquette's Gregg Ripp (53) tries to steal the ball from an unidentified Bradley player Saturday night in the Milwaukee arena. Bradley's Chet Walker (31) also tries to get into the act. Bradley won in overtime, 62-59.

Bradley's 'Freeze' Chills Marquette

2nd-Ranked Braves Overcome Big Halftime Deficit to Win

Milwaukee — (AP) — Marquette and Bradley played frenzied basketball for nearly 30 minutes Saturday night. For the next 17 minutes they just about stood still.

With 12 minutes remaining, second-ranked Bradley dropped into a stall but finally turned the maneuver into a 62-59 overtime victory over the Warriors.

A record crowd booed and booed.

Bradley was outrun and outshot by the Warriors who held and impressive 40-30 lead at the intermission, but in the first eight minutes of the second half, Bradley caught up and finally went ahead 53-51.

Calls Time Out

At this point, Bradley Coach Chuck Orsborn climbed out of his sidelines chair, signaled for a time out and from then on the stall was on.

After 2½ minutes, Walt Mangham, who played a vital role in Marquette's good effort, rolled in a basket after Jim Kollar stole the ball from a Bradley player. Mike Owens dropped in one three minutes later to give the Braves the lead again, but 45 seconds later Don Kojis pulled the Warriors into a tie 55-55. With 13 seconds left, Bradley tried a shot but missed and the game went into overtime.

The stall continued in the overtime, but Bradley took advantage of Marquette efforts to break the stall to put away the victory. Bradley scored only nine points in the last 17 minutes; Marquette only seven.

14th Victory

It was the fourteenth victory in 15 starts for the visitors while Marquette lost its sixth game against nine victories. MU plays at Detroit Wednesday.

A crowd of 11,104, the largest ever to see the Warriors play in the Arena, had plenty to shout about in the early going and the squads gave a great demonstration of run and shoot basketball. Several times the score was tied, but on each occasion Marquette pulled away.

The Warriors, after shooting 47 per cent in the first half, finished with a 42.3 per cent average on 22 of 52 shots. The Braves hit 27 of 64 for 42.2 per cent. Marquette had a 39-32 margin in rebounds.

Kojis was the game's top scorer with 21 points while Bradley star Chet Walker led the Braves with 16.

Souchak Wins At San Diego

Finishes 19 Under Par to Nudge Pott

San Diego —(AP)— Mike Souchak, one of the most popular professionals in golf, led a contingent to the rich gold diggings of Palm Springs today, still jubilant over his victory in the $20,000 San Diego open.

Souchak won the $2,800 top money here Sunday after a see-saw battle with unheralded Johnny "Tee" Pott of Shreveport, La., that was not decided until the final putt.

Husky, 200-pound Mike had finished a threesome ahead with 72-hole scores of 67-68-67-67-269, 19 under par for the distance.

Chance to Tie

Pott, 24, a relative newcomer, had a chance to tie when he came to the eighteenth. But he had to sink a 25-foot putt for a birdie and missed.

It got him a 69 for the day and 270 for the tournament.

Art Wall, Jr., made a great challenge to unseat the leaders but his 68 gave him 273.

Tied at 274 were Billy Casper and Allen Geiberger, each with 69s, and Dave Marr, with a 67.

Souchak and his brother pros were anxious to get to Palm Springs where the unique, $100,000 90-hole event gets underway Wednesday. Play will be over four courses the first four days — Thunderbird, Tamarisk, Indian Wells and Bermuda dunes.

Lewis '5' Beats St. Norbert, 79-76

Joliet, Ill. —(AP)— Lewis choked off a late rally Sunday and took a 79-76 non-conference basketball victory over St. Norbert.

Bruins Break Montreal String

6-5 Loss Is 1st For Canadiens in In 10 Games

By The Associated Press

Montreal doesn't have an undefeated string in the National Hockey league today and the Boston Bruins don't have any losing string to the Canadiens.

All that was settled Sunday night in Boston before 13,909 fans who watched the Bruins win a wild and wooly 6-5 thriller from the league-leaders.

Other games Sunday night found Toronto playing a 3-3 tie with Chicago and New York tying Detroit, 2-2.

Take 5-0 Lead

Boston took a 5-0 first period lead then had to use Vic Stasiuk's third goal of the game in the final period to get the clincher. The loss, Montreal's first in 10 games, was the first to Boston in eight games.

Another third period goal, by the Rangers' Dean Prentice, tied Detroit. The Rangers are winless in their last nine games and lost forward Camille Henry, who suffered a fracture of the left forearm in the first period.

Ohio State's gradually improving Buckeyes take on winless Michigan tonight in an effort to strengthen their almost unchallenged bid for the Big Ten basketball championship.

Following Ohio State's 111-79 triumph over Michigan State, last year's champion, folks in the Midwest are beginning to wonder if Ohio State isn't the best team in the nation.

Unbeaten in Conference

With three sophomores in the starting lineup, including Jerry Lucas, the Buckeyes have pounded out a 13-2 record and are undefeated in five conference games.

Their only losses were 97-92 at Utah and 96-93 at Kentucky. The fifth-ranked Buckeyes, however, have been getting better and if they didn't hit their peak against Michigan State Saturday, then conference opponents are in for trouble.

Ohio State poured in 49 baskets — one short of the conference record set by Indiana against Ohio State last year — and set a school scoring record.

All this after a few of the Buckeyes were under the weather during the week. Lucas sidelined with a bronchial ailment, tossed in 25 points even though he sat out 10 minutes.

Coach Fred Taylor substituted freely but this didn't seem to cut down OSU efficiency.

"They've got a great ball club," said MSU Coach Forddy Anderson. "They're big, they're good and they're deep. Howard Nourse comes in there and hits six of seven; Dick Furry comes in and hits three of six; Richie Hoyt

Coleman Trips Fox Lutheran Quint, 63-49

Foxes Fade After Holding Halftime Lead

Fox Valley Lutheran's basketball Foxes led until the final seconds of the third quarter and then collapsed in the final period and lost at Coleman, 63-49, Saturday night.

The setback was the Foxes' ninth in 15 games. They play at Northwestern, of Watertown, Tuesday night. Coleman has been beaten only twice.

Playing what Coach Gerhard Kaniess called "the best first half this club has ever played," the Foxes took a 16-8 quarter lead over twice-beaten Coleman. The losers were still on top, 31-26 at the half but slipped behind by one, 41-40, at the end of the third stanza.

With 6-5 center Ray Wieczorek getting all the rebounds, Coleman outscored the visitors, 22-9, in the final stanza. Wieczorek finished with 27 points for game honors. Bob Luebke led the Foxes with 18.

The Foxes had 13 or 23 free thrown, Coleman had 11 for 18.

Tuesday Night's Games:
Manitowoc at Appleton.
West at East.
Central at North.
Fond du Lac at Oshkosh.

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

For three hopeful and dangerous pursuers of co-leading Green Bay West and Sheboygan Central, this is "win — or else" week in the Fox River Valley conference.

While Central and West each get a crack at lowly North and East in this week's double round, their three nearest rivals for title honors will be engaged in grim battles of survival. Appleton, Manitowoc and Fond du Lac all trail by only a game — but by late Friday night, one, two, or conceivably all three, of these contenders figure to be sidetracked.

2 Biggest Games

The Terrors, who leaped back into tight contention last Friday with their encore Wildcat-taming act at GBW, will be the host team in the two biggest games of the week. Tuesday night, Manty invades the AHS court; and Friday night, Fondy will be here.

In addition to their assignments against AHS, both the Ships and the Cardinals have tough contests at Oshkosh.

The Terrors, who scored back-to-back wins over West and Manitowoc in the first round of play, will seek to duplicate history here Tuesday. The win at West Friday did AHS' confidence and stature considerable good. No other FRVC team has beaten the Wildcats even once — but the Terrors have done it twice.

Though the Terrors clipped the Ships, 59-47, at Manitowoc in December, Tuesday's game looms as one of the most trying of the AHS home season. The Dick Emanual-coached Terrors have scored home-floor wins over the

Brennan Runnerup After Setting North American Mark Saturday

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

Iron Mountain, Mich. — Modest, crew-cut Jim Brennan, toast of the American ski-jumping world over the weekend, today went back to his "job" as baggage man for the United States Olympic team—but it may not be for long.

The 145-pound bantam from Edmonds, Wash., who soared 316 feet off Pine mountain here Saturday to tie the North American distance record, still is an Olympic alternate, having finished ninth in last week's trials at Ishpeming, held to determine an 8-man squad.

And, presumably, the newly-crowned national senior champion will watch the 1960 world winter classic at Squaw Valley, Calif., as a spectator —or on television—unless one of the chosen few should withdraw or be injured. In the interim, he is scheduled to serve as chauffeur and "baggage man" for the qualifiers on their jumping trek to the West coast.

Could Force Hand

But should the fast rising little Irishman approximate his Pine mountain performance at Steamboat Springs, Colo., next weekend, he could force the Olympic committee's hand. Justifying the exclusion of America's newest power diver from the nation's olympic squad over a technicality might prove embarrassing.

And a power diver, on the basis of his weekend exploits he is. Brennan treated 12,000

Red Head Quintet Has Fun, Beats St. Mary Cagers, 56-48

A near-capacity crowd of about 1,000 looked on as the All-American Red Heads team defeated the Appleton St. Mary church basketball team, 56-48, in the St. Mary gym Sunday night.

As is the case in most such exhibition games, the basketball was secondary to the fun. The noted girls' team had beaten St. John of Menasha, in overtime, Sunday afternoon.

Xavier High school Basketball Coach Gene "Torchy" Clark led St. Mary with 12 points, and Mike Tierney scored 10. Howard, playmaker and chief "showboat" of the winners, counted 18.

The St. Mary team was on top at the half, 28-19, but Howard and Gross scored 10 and Gross eight for the victors in the second half. Clark used english on the ball to drop in a pair of fancy inside shots in the first half. He also made a pair from mid-court in the second half, one with about two seconds to go.

Plenty of Fun

The girls had plenty of fun with referees Jim LaFond and Bob Drexler, especially the red-headed Drexler. The gals climbed on each other's shoulders to score a basket, and, at one point, Howard took over the refereeing duties.

Leading at the half, 11-10, the St. Mary eighth grade Colts lost to St. Joseph, 37-27, in an intra-city preliminary game. "Rocky" Bleier counted 13 points, all in the last half, to pace the victors. Pete VanderVelden tallied 10.

Joe Ellenbecker counted 12 for the losers, St. Joseph remained undefeated in the Catholic Boy conference. St. Mary is 4-3. Paul Putzer, the Colts' leading scorer, tore a cartilage in his knee Friday night and is out for the season.

Gophers Win, 86-72

Erickson Bemoans Lack of UW Height

Minneapolis —(AP)— The Wisconsin basketball team played a great first half against Minnesota Saturday night, but the Gophers were better in the second half and the Badgers lost again, this time by a score of 86-72.

"It was our best first half of the season," said Wisconsin Coach Johnny Erickson, whose Badgers have lost all five Big Ten starts this season and 12 over two years.

With the victory, the Gophers are now 5-2 in the league.

Erickson thinks Minnesota has quite a ball team. He said:

"If Minnesota gets past Michigan State at Lansing Monday night it should finish second and might challenge Ohio State for the title."

Wisconsin refused to give up Saturday but was unable to hold down Minnesota's Ron Johnson, who led the scoring with 32 points.

In the early going, the Badgers tied Minnesota at 2, 4 and 6 before moving ahead, 25-18, midway in the period, and staying in front to hold a 40-38 edge at the intermission.

The Badgers sank 17 of 39 shots for a .436 average in the first half and finished with a game average of 42 per cent on 32 of 76. The Gophers shot at a 55 per cent clip, hitting on 37 of 68. Johnson poured in 13 of 18 shots.

At the start of the second half, Wisconsin pulled out in front, 44-40, but that was it. Minnesota dropped in 13 points while Wisconsin got only two.

Bob Barneson led the Badger scoring with 22 points.

Two Pro Clubs, SMU to Compete For Dallas Fans

All Three Teams Will Use 75,504-Seat Cotton Bowl

Dallas—(AP)—Dallas, the self-styled big D that claims to do everything on a gigantic scale, will get its acid test come fall.

Dallas will have two professional football clubs and a major college team, Southern Methodist, trying to pull in the fans in paying quantity.

The Dallas Rangers will be in the old and established National Football league and will have such bait as Don Meredith, Southern Methodist's great passer, and Jim Mooty, the Arkansas All-America.

The Dallas Texans will be in the newly organized American Football league and have such stars as Jack Spikes of Texas Christian and Abner Haynes, the great Negro back of North Texas State.

Not Large Enough

Tex Schramm, general manager of the Rangers, says "we don't feel Dallas is either a 1-team city or a minor league city."

Southern Methodist, which heretofore has been holding a monopoly on football fandom in Dallas, started drawing so well a dozen years ago that it had to move its games from the bandbox stadium on the campus to the cavernous Cotton bowl.

All three teams will use the 75,504-seat Cotton bowl. It has been estimated that there is a potential of over 1,000,000 fans within a 100-mile radius of Dallas (population 621,000).

Bobcats Rout Des Moines Six Twice

Green Bay Runs Central League Record to 18-3

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay —(AP)— Stymied for two periods Saturday night, the Bobcats erupted for seven goals in the final stanza and built up an awesome momentum that carried them through two more Sunday afternoon for a double victory over the outgunned Des Moines Icehawks. The final scores were 9-3 Saturday and 10-2 Sunday.

The pair of wins ran the Cats' Central league record to 18-3 and gave them a solid 3½-game edge over the Rochester Mustangs with only three to play. However, since the edge in the loss column is only two and the Mustangs still have six league engagements, the title at the moment rests on the last two meetings between the Bobcats and the defending champions. The latter will be striving to close the gap in the next fortnight while the Bobcats are entertaining the Japanese and German olympic sextets.

Four Bobcats registered the hat trick and Ken Stenlund and Dick Dougherty collaborated in one of the most spectacular point-producing orgies of the league campaign. Saturday night, Ken racked up five goals — a season record — while he and Dick between them manufactured 15 points. Dougherty scored three times and had a hand in all of Ken's tallies. Stenlund assisted on two of Dick's.

Sunday both Ron Stenlund and Dick Dier accomplished hat tricks as the Cats wasted no time snatching control of the game. In the first six minutes Green Bay counted three times, ran the margin to 5-0 at the buzzer and built its edge to an insurmountable 9-0 before Gary Schmalzbauer ruined Jim Mattson's hopes of a shutout.

For two periods Saturday night it was a different story. Dougherty popped the strings at 3:48 of the opener but thereafter the alert Warren Strelow and the Bobcats' inability to mesh the passing of two makeshift forward lines held off the deluge. Adams tied the score at 1:05 of the second stanza and it wasn't until 11:40 that Ken Stenlund put the 'Cats back in the lead.

ARD Juniors Lose, Win in Arena Tilts

The Appleton Recreation department's junior hockey team, lost and won in a pair of matches in Green Bay Saturday night in contests played before and between periods of the Bobcat-Des Moines contest.

In the earlier contest, Green Bay won, 5-0, Appleton won the nightcap, 1-0, on a goal by Lenny VonderHere with an assist by Allan Geiger.

Manty Quint Invades AHS Floor Tuesday

3-Game Streak

In addition to its loss against AHS, Manty has dropped two road games by slim margins —48-44 at West and 59-55 at Central. The Ships will bring in a 3-game FRVC victory chain forged at the expense of Fondy, North and East.

AHS has won four of its six homes games. The two losses —72-71 to Neenah and 55-52 to Central—both had unique features. In the Neenah game, the Terrors wasted an 11-point lead in the last 2:15. In the Central game, AHS got off to a miserable, 7-22 first quarter start then outplayed the Redmen the rest of the way.

AHS continues as the conference's defensive pace-setter. The Terrors have allowed only 49.8 points a game — a 3-point bulge over Manitowoc. The Ships, however, have a 2-point offensive edge—57.8 to 55.8.

In their first meeting, the Ships overcame a Terror halftime lead to take a 32-29 advantage. In the next seven minutes, AHS uncorked a 26-8 margin to ice the game.

Ron Abel scored 18 points—approximately his season's average—to pace the AHS. Paul Meany, one of the FRVC's top scoring threats, led with 17.

4 Major Changes Occur in Men's Bowling Tourney

Madison —(AP)— Four first or second place changes were recorded in weekend action in the Men's State Bowling tournament.

Pladium Coffee shop, Milwaukee, took over the top in the regular team events with a 3,115 total. Becker's Sporting goods of Waukesha moved into second place in the junior team division with a 2,817 score.

Boston University's John Thomas clears the high jump bar at 7 feet, 1½ inches to smash his own world record in the Millrose games in New York's Madison Square garden Saturday night. The 18-year-old standout beat his own indoor mark seven feet, 1¼ inches, set a year ago.

Thomas' New Mark Probably Won't be On the Books Long

18-Year-Old Takes Another Crack at High Jump Record in Boston AA Meet

BY ED CORRIGAN

New York —(AP)— How high is up for John Thomas?

No one in his right mind would set a limit on the high-jumping talents of the gangling Boston university sophomore.

Thomas

But one thing appeared certain today. His newly-acquired indoor record of 7 feet 1½ inches won't be on the books for long. He set it Saturday night in the Millrose games and there wouldn't be an eyebrow raised if he upped the record a half inch or so this week before his hometown folks in the Boston AA meet.

If there is a nervous bone in the body of the 18-year-old whiz, it doesn't show. He analyzes his task as a physician does a patient.

His 7-1½ was just a quarter of an inch better than his previous mark, but when you get up that high, it means a lot.

"The quarter of an inch is all in your mind," he said. "I don't do anything different, but think about it, look at the signs and somehow set my sights higher."

Matter of fact, it didn't look like John's night at all. He missed twice at 6-11 after Charlie Dumas of Southern California, the world's first 7-footer, had cleared the height.

"My timing was off," he observed. "I was getting too close to the bar before taking off. But I wasn't afraid. I never approach the bar afraid. I was up there checking my form and looking as I went over."

Rectifies Timing

John rectified his timing and made the 6-11, then went over 7 feet. That finished Dumas. Now it was just Thomas against the bar. On his first try at 7-1½, over he went with room to spare.

He tried 7-2¼ three times, but the edge was off and he didn't come close.

"I don't know if I'll ever clear 7 2-¼," he shrugged "But I'll keep trying. I don't know what the limit might be. Once I didn't think anyone ever would make 7 feet."

Thomas' performance took some of the glitter off Hayes Jones' 7-second flat 60-yard high hurdles. That tied the indoor record and marked the third time he has been clocked in seven flat. Milt Campbell, who did it twice, is the only other timber topper who has done it in seven seconds.

Other winners included Don Bragg in the pole vault (15-4).

Tom Murphy of the New York A. C., in the half mile (1:53), Frank Budd of Villanova in the 60-yard dash (6.2), Mal Spence of Arizona State in the Mel Sheppard 600 (1:11.5), Jim Grelle of Oregon in the Wanamaker mile (4:06.4), and Al Lawrence of Houston in the 3-mile run (13:38, second fastest ever indoors).

Ken Bartholomew Wins Title Again Despite Hacking Cough

St. Paul, Minn. —(AP)— Ken Bartholomew, the speedskating gaffer who won his fourteenth national title on nerve and wits as sharp as his blades, refused today to make his routine announcement of retirement.

"My wife threatens to go to Arizona next year if I race in the nationals again," Bartholomew said. "But she's usually hazing me that way. The younger fellows are just going to work harder, I guess. It's a cinch I'm not going to give this title away."

Bartholomew, crowding 40 and looking ill from a hacking cough, charged past young Tom Augustitus of Detroit Sunday to retain his senior men's championship in the U. S. outdoor meet at Como park.

He did it with victories in the half-mile and mile, plus a shrewdly contrived third place in the 5-mile marathon for the clincher.

Mary Novak, a sprightly Northwestern university coed from Chicago, won the senior Women's title. She had to share the family glory with brother Ray, 11, who set his third national record in two days, cutting six-tenths of a second from the midget boys' 440 record in :43.7.

Other record-breakers were Sylvia White of Butte, Mont., wtih 1:27.5 in the intermediate girls 880 and Mike Mickelson of Long Beach, Calif., 1:24.4 in the juvenile boys' 880.

OSU Favored To Win 6th League Game

6 On The Road

"I don't think even on our best day, the way they shot today, we could have matched them," added Anderson.

Ohio State should have little trouble against Michigan (0-4) tonight. After that, the Buckeyes will have to play six of their last eight games on the road.

Minnesota (5-2) appears to have the best chance of catching OSU should the Buckeyes fold. But the Gophers have a tough test tonight at Michigan State (3-3).

After defeating Wisconsin, 86-72, Saturday, Gopher Coach Johnny Kundla said:

"Ohio is a tremendous basketball team, probably the best in the country. And Michigan State, after that licking, is going to be mad at somebody, and we're the guys they play next."

Northwestern (3-2) hopes to keep alive its chance at Indiana (1-3) tonight. The Hoosiers downed DePaul, 82-78, Saturday night.

FVL Jayvee Team Routs Coleman '5'

Center Dave Schweppe scored 31 points as the Fox Valley Lutheran junior varsity basketball team defeated Coleman, 61-23, Saturday night at Coleman.

Schweppe hit on 61 per cent of his shots from the floor (14 of 23) and added three free throws, with 21 of his points coming in the second half. Fox Lutheran coach Andy Madson used 12 players and nine of them scored.

Hawks Acquire Share And Dave Piontek

Cincinnati —(AP)— The Cincinnati Royals Saturday traded Dave Pointek to the St. Louis Hawks for Dave Gambee and an undisclosed amount of cash. The Hawks also got Larry Foust from Minneapolis for Charley Share, two draft choices and cash.

Aaron Says He'll Play Second Base if Braves Want Him to Milwaukee —(AP)— The Milwaukee Braves' Hank Aaron wants to be perfection at the plate and he wants to be paid for it.

"Last year for the first time in my career I was almost completely satisfied with the season I had," Aaron said Saturday from his home in Mobile, Ala., in a telephone interview. In 1959 Aaron hit .355 and drove in 123 runs.

"So I feel I'm entitled to a very good raise—100 per cent in my book," Aaron said.

It was estimated that he was paid about $35,000 last season, so he's asking about $70,000 for the 1960 campaign.

Aaron said he was disappointed by the first offer mailed by the Braves. The young slugger plans to be in Milwaukee this week and will take up talks with General Manager John McHale.

There's also been talk—this time by new Milwaukee Manager Charlie Dressen — that Aaron would be asked to again try playing second base, instead of right field.

"I'll play second base if they want me to," Aaron said. He added:

"Oh, I can learn how to play second base as good as anybody else."

Aaron, however, attached a couple of conditions, saying, "I don't want to play the outfield half of the season and then be told to take over second base. I've got to have time and experience to get used to a new position."

Tom Lennon Blasts 268 'Tavern' Set

Tom Lennon boomed a 268 singleton to show the way in the latest round of Tavern league kegling at Hahns. The game is tied for sixth best of the Appleton kegling season.

He finished with a 600 series. Stella's (36½-20½) holds a half-game circuit lead. Other honor scores: Bob Timmers, 236, 600; John Plach, 596; Larry Steudel, 595; Bob Gerritts, 235, 588; Bob Burmeister, 225, 588; George Panke, 234, 574; "Heinie" Staedt, 560; "Sandy" Rehfeldt, 553; Des Schade, 552.

Curly's (35-22) won two games and moved into a first place tie with Mullins in latest action in the South Side Women's wheel at the ACA. There were no honor scores.

Mt. Olive Stays Unbeaten in Boys' Church League

First place Mt. Olive (4-0) meets cellar-dwelling St. Joseph (0-4) this week in the Appleton Recreation department's Boy's Church basketball league.

Mt. Olive's latest triumph was a 56-46 decision over St. Mary (2-2). Miller counted 26 to lead the victors, Gus Steffens totaled 24 for St. Mary. St. Matthew (3-1) kept pace with a 53-37 success over First Methodist (2-2). John Falcus' 17 points topped a balanced attack for the winners, Art Rupright tallied 11 for the losers.

Dave "Duke" Nymoen's 27 markers led Zion (1-3) to a 42-29 success over St. Joseph (0-4). Jim Griesbach tallied 12 for the cellar-dwellers.

Landslide Blacks Out Communications at Winter Olympic Site

Squaw Valley, Calif. —(AP)— A landslide 50 miles west of here almost completely blacked out communications at this 1960 winter Olympic site Sunday.

Telephone lines and those used by Western Union were out for westbound traffic. Operators in Reno, Nev., 40 miles away, were so busy rerouting calls, that eastern calls were delayed.

The broken transcontinental cable was partially repaired by 10 p.m. The several hundred circuits were expected to be restored early today.

Fox Says Cleveland Will Give Chisox Toughest Competition

BY JACK HAND

New York —(AP)— The little fellow holding the baseball "Player of the Year" plaque didn't look natural. There was no chaw of tobacco to give his face a lopsided look. Nellie Fox at 32 could have passed for a college boy.

Fox received the Sid Mercer award Sunday night at the annual dinner of the New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers' association. His manager, Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox, also was on hand to accept the Bill Slocum award for "long and meritorious service."

Award for 1911

Ty Cobb, the 73-year-old Georgia Peach of yesteryear, was given a "Player of the Year" award for 1911, the first of an annual series for oldtimers. Hank Bauer, the ex-Marine the New York Yankees traded to Kansas City, was presented with a "Good Guy" award named in memory of the late Ben Epstein, New York Daily Mirror writer.

After it was all over and the writers had entertained with their annual skits, Fox lingered at the speakers' table. He was asked about the 1960 season.

"I think we (White Sox) are much better off than we were at this time last season," he said.

The opposition?

And New York?

"Any club that has Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, "Whitey" Ford and Bob Turley is going to be tough."

"I think Detroit is going to be trouble and maybe Kansas City, too.

Tonight's Schedule
Philadelphia vs. Minneapolis at Los Angeles.

San Francisco — (AP) — Big Wilt Chamberlain left town today with the Cow palace scoring record but San Francisco fans appeared less than anxious for a National Basketball association franchise.

Wilt the Stilt scored 41 points Sunday to lead the Philadelphia Warriors to a 114-104 win over the Minneapolis Lakers.

The same teams try it again tonight in Los Angeles, hoping for a bigger welcome than they received here.

The Cow palace was just over half-filled with 8,057 paying spectators. The promoters made money but they lost enough on an earlier game between Minneapolis and Syracuse to finish about $2,500 behind on the two promotions.

Hometown Interest

Fred Scolari, the former pro who staged the game, said, "The folks need a hometown interest in the game. If we had our own team, I think it would be different."

Bob Short, president of the Lakers, didn't offer any hope of a move here. "We're still trying to stay in Minneapolis," he said.

The crowd, cherishing fond memories of the Boston Celtics' Bill Russell when Big Bill led the University of San Francisco to two straight NCAA championships, viewed the 7-foot-2 Chamberlain with a critical eye.

They left the arena reluctantly impressed. Wilt the Stilt had 17 points in the first half as his teammates trailed the Lakers 55-51.

But he tore loose for 16 in the third quarter and eight more in the final period to crush the Lakers. Wilt hit 15 for 35 from the floor, 11 of 16 free throws and snared 33 rebounds. His final basket, a dunk with 25 seconds left, broke the arena record of 39 set by Ron Tomsic of Stanford.

'Big O' Nears Record

William & Mary Quintet Upsets West Virginia

By The Associated Press

Let's put it this way: If Oscar Robertson doesn't become the top 3-year scorer in major college basketball tonight, Drake university's defense deserves a special niche in the history of the sport.

The "Big O" from top-ranked Cincinnati suddenly has been acting like a mere mortal while he creeps up on the all-time 3-year varsity mark of 2,538 points Frank Selvy of Furman established in a career ending in 1954.

In his last two games, All-America Oscar has managed but 42 points.

Needs 4 Points

This time, however, Oscar ought to do it. He goes against Drake in a Missouri Valley conference game at Cincinnati needing just four points to break the mark Selvy set in 78 games. With 2,535 points in 74 varsity games, Oscar is just 53 away from breaking the all-time career record of 2,587 established in four seasons by Dickie Hemric of Wake Forest ending in 1955.

Whether or not Oscar can pick up his pace, college basketball does this week after a 2-week letdown for mid-term examinations. It has a considerably different look as full - scale competition resumes; what with the first major break-through having jolted the season-long dominance of the big four — Cincinnati, Bradley, California and West Virginia.

William & Mary's Indians managed the shocker Saturday night with a 94-86 scaping of fourth-ranked West Virginia's 56-game Southern conference winning streak on a neutral court at Norfolk, Va. Bradley, No. 2, had a close call but came from 10 points behind at the half to nip Marquette in overtime, 62-59.

Of the "Big Four", only third-ranked California—now 16-1 after Saturday's 67-48 rout of Oregon State — has been winning easily and playing smoothly. So it's a wide open national scramble with the stretch run for conference titles and tournament berths beginning.

Besides Ohio State, Georgia Tech, Utah and Utah State, Villanova and Texas A&M, regular challengers all along, you might keep an eye on such clubs as North Carolina (9-3), Detroit (14-2), Dayton (15-3 with a 7-game win streak), and Toledo (13-2).

Seggelink Scores 21 Points, but Stout '5' Loses

Superior fought off a late rally and defeated River Falls, 93-77, Saturday night as the Falcons dropped their sixth State College conference basketball game in as many starts.

In other action Platteville downed Whitewater, 93-76, as 28 fouls were called on each club, and Eau Claire rolled over Stout, 90-79.

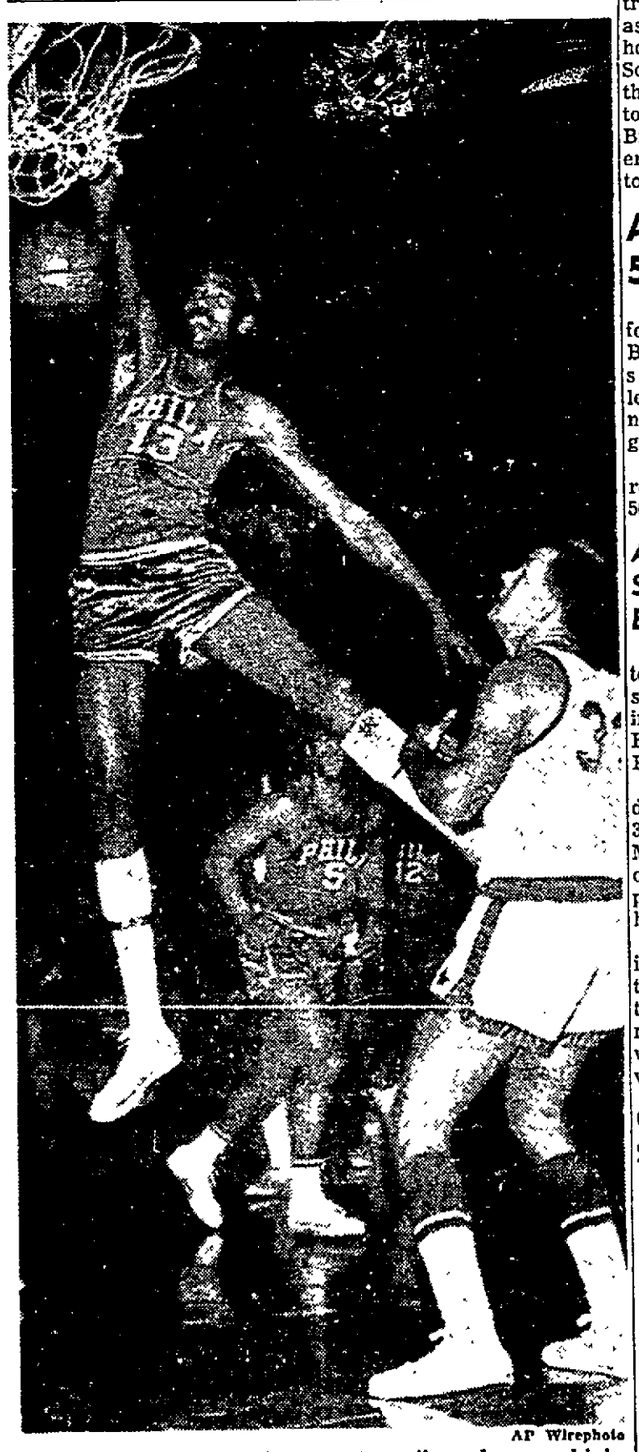

Eau Claire took charge after the first ten minutes and pushed to a 56-41 halftime advantage it kept for most of later play. Jim Bade of the Blugolds scored 24 points. Neenah's Fred Seggelink was high for Stout with 21.

Name Springer Spaniel Best of Show in Kennel Club Event

Milwaukee —(AP)— A springer spaniel, Salilyn's McDuff, won the best in show award Sunday at the 1960 Wisconsin Kennel club dog show. The dog was shown by its owners, Mr. and Mrs. William Randall of Chicago.

Miss Cheeve of Rathman, a German shepherd, won top honors in the obedience trials. The dog is owned by Carl Wetzel of Milwaukee.

More than 9,000 persons attended the show, the largest the club has ever held in Wisconsin.

Wilt Chamberlain Appears to smile as he goes high to dunk two points for Philadelphia in a National Basketball association game played in San Francisco Sunday. Rod Hundley, of the Minneapolis Lakers, is at the right. Other Philadelphia players include Guy Rodgers (5) and Andy Johnson (12). Wilt "The Stilt" broke the Cow palace scoring record with 41 points as he led his team to a 114-104 win.

Jet-Propelled Racer Is Being Built by Doctor

Los Angeles —(AP)— An East Los Angeles physician is preparing a jet-propelled automobile for an attempt at a new speed record on the Bonneville, Utah, salt flats.

"Our goal is 500 miles an hour," said Dr. Nathan Ostich, who has been racing at Bonneville for years. "We expect to begin testing the car within 60 days and will make the record attempt Aug. 14-20."

The 28½-foot-long car employs a turbojet engine of the type used in B36 bombers.

Dorothy Schmidt Scores 32 in 'Y' Girls Contest

The Bombers (5-1) meet the Spudnicks (2-4) and the Rockets (5-1) play the Jets (0-6) in Wednesday's action in the Appleton YMCA High school Girls Basketball league.

In latest action the Rockets tripped the Spudnicks, 32-20, as Dorothy Schmidt poured home 32 for the Rockets. Carol Schommer scored eight for the Spudnicks. The Bombers topped the Jets, 49-30. Janet Brown coined 18 for the Bombers, Judy Greason's 13 was tops for the Jets.

Al Techlin Rolls 579 at 12 Corners

Al Techlin boomed a 579 set for first place Little Chute Bottling (9-3) in the latest session of Businessmen's league bowling at Twelve Corners. Rev. Wood cracked a 239 game for Gehrke Hardware.

Other honor scores: Monroe Dalke, 557; Earl Lorenz, 567; Pete Knaack, 576.

Appleton Pistol Teams Still Undefeated in East Central League

The Appleton Rifle and Pistol club's two pistol teams are still undefeated after completing their fourth match in the East Central Wisconsin Postal Pistol league.

The Appleton No. 1 team defeated DePere No. 2, by 1,378 to 1,167. Appleton's Robert Mather fired the high score of 281. Ripon forfeited to Appleton's No. 2 team which had a score of 1,348.

The rifle team competing in the Fox River Valley Postal league bested Oshkosh, 936 to 930, making the Appleton record 1-1. Arlin Jennerjahn was high scorer for Appleton with 194.

Chisox Sign Shuda, St. Norbert Pitcher

Chicago — (AP) — The Chicago White Sox announced Saturday the signing of Jim Shuda, 19-year-old righthand pitcher from Stevens Point, Wis.

A sophomore at St. Norbert college where he hurled a no-hit game last season, Shuda was signed by midwest area scout Fred Hasselman. He will report in March to the White Sox minor league camp at Hollywood, Fla.

Style on the Ski Slopes must be practical as well as good looking, a combination demonstrated by the outfit worn by the ski instructor, right. His leather jacket has knit inserts to allow for greater freedom of action. His stretch ski pants have plenty of give to allow unconstrained leg action while eliminating the bulk and wind flutter common to the baggier styles. The vacationer on the left wears a dressy knit and leather coat with Continental detailing over trim Continental slacks.

Men's Fashions

Snow Country Wear Needs to be Practical

Practical informality keynotes snow country resort wear.

Whether a man's heading for the ski slopes of New England or the Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, he will need clothing that is warm, yet light enough to be comfortable. Ski apparel can be designed with good looks but have freedom in action kept in mind.

For travel to and from the frozen playgrounds of the nation, it is best to select an outercoat that can be worn while at the resort. Many outerwear garments fit this need. Poplin or gabardine coats lined with either wool, pile fabric or quilted warmers, are very popular for this purpose. So are duffle-coats — some made with detachable parka hoods and others that can be reversed from wool on one side to a water-resistant cotton on the other.

The newest note in these outerwear coats is the fur look — achieved by collars lined with real fur or materials made of man-made fibers.

Shearling Coats

An extension of the fur look is seen in the shearling coats that are actually sheepskins with the wool left on the inside while the hide has been sueded.

A tweed or cheviot suit, plus two sports jackets and two or three pairs of slacks, will take care of evening socials, while a couple of those big bulky-knit sweaters will double for wear during the day and around a roaring fireplace at night.

Plan your jackets and slacks on a mix-and-match basis. To be fashion-right, one of the jackets should be a bold plaid tweed or shetland and the other a solid color blazer. Select a pair of checked or plaid slacks for wear with the blazer and a pair of solid color flannels for use with the patterned jacket. A third pair of slacks could be of whipcord or another shade of flannel to be worn with either the tweed coat or the blazer.

The northern-oriented vacationer will need a pretty good assortment of sports shirts — some solid colored sports shirts, either plain or iridescent. The traveler shouldn't forget wash-wear oxford button-down collar shirts. He can wear one and pack one or two more. These, of course, call for a few ties. Three will do if they include a solid color knit and a couple of sporting print foulards or challis.

Underwear Important

Underwear is of prime importance in the cold climates. Among the best are the double-layer types and the newer thermal knits. According to one's preference, they can be had in half-sleeves or long sleeves, while the drawers come in short, knee-length and full-length legs. Three sets are the minimum; more if a variety of lengths are wanted.

Warm wool socks are another "must." For active sportswear, take four to six pairs of the same type used while fitting the ski boots. A good tip for spectators is to wear two pairs of lightweight wools rather than a single thick pair.

This same multi-layer principle applies to clothing for active sportswear. Relatively lightweight layers of underwear, sports shirt (wool or wool-blend), sweater and insulated wet-proof and windproof blouse or jacket, are warmer than the heaviest, thickest overcoat.

Other Needs

Well-fitted ski pants are most important. They should provide room enough in the seat and crotch for every bend, twist and turn, yet have no excess of fabric in the legs. The new stretch-type ski pants have met with enthusiastic acceptance.

Two or three pairs of gloves — lined leather pair for travel, waterproof mittens for skiing, skating or tobogganing, and wool knit gloves or mittens for spectator wear — are an absolute necessity.

Take at least one long warm wool muffler and, if two are taken, make one a woven fabric and the other a knit.

Headgear should include a Tyrolean hat for travel and spectator wear and a knit headband or stocking hat for sports use. Fur and fur-like Cossack style hats team up well with the fur-look outercoats. Some fellows prefer lumberman-style ear-flaps.

Above all, have your ski boots fitted by an expert and buy the best you can possibly afford. Wear a stout pair of oxfords or chukka boots for travel and a pair of after-ski boots or casual slip-ons for the evenings.

Bruhn Released From Hospital but Must Stay At Home for 2 Weeks

Madison — (AP) — Wisconsin football coach Milt Bruhn has been released from the hospital but it will be at least two weeks before he can return to his office.

Bruhn had been in University hospitals since undergoing a gall bladder operation several weeks ago. He went home Saturday, saying:

"I feel fine, or as well as can be expected but I have to take it easy at home for a couple of weeks."

Samuelstuen Wins Test at Iron Mountain

Jim, whose best previous effort had been a 271-foot leap at Leavenworth, Wash., last year, winged 306 feet on his second ride Saturday for an all-time Pine mountain parlay.

Cracks Record

Brennan, who cracked the hill record (313 by Finland's Antti Hyvarinen in 1957) by three feet with his first jump, also became only the second man ever to exceed 300 feet off the world's largest artificial ski scaffold twice on the same day. The first was Canada's Jacques Charland, who soared 300 and 311 in last year's meet here.

And though he yielded first place honors to roommate Ansten Samuelstuen in Sunday's Kiwanis International tournament, the far ranging tyro still pulled off the longest ride of the afternoon, a 282-foot leap into a stout headwind on his first essay.

The veteran Samuelstuen, who had held sole title to the American distance record for nine years until Brennan matched it Saturday, was clearly the master on the sabbath, however.

Flawless Rides

Ansten, who said he had been determined to "give a little more drive" than in Saturday's performance, flew 274 and 263 feet, the last time into a 14-mile an hour headwind for the longest jump of the second run, to pile up 214.6 points. Both were virtually flawless rides, little short of spectacular under the conditions.

Brennan, who credits roomie Samuelstuen and skier - evangelist Keith Wegeman of Hollywood for his new-found success, was runnerup with 199.4 points, settling for 244 feet on his second attempt after that 282-foot debut.

Finishing behind this pair in order were Ishpeming's powerful Jon St. Andre, who leaped 254 and 233, Norway's Torbjorn Yggeseth, regarded as the world's strongest jumper, with 239 and 269, Jack Beitila and Rudy Maki, both of Ishpeming.

This represented a major revision of Saturday's senior standings when Brennan outdistanced Jon Elliott of Steamboat, Colo., and Samuelstuen for the national senior title. Elliott finished second with 285 and 292 foot rides and 215.0 points, followed by Samuelstuen with 280-292 and 214.3.

Top Junior

Iron Mountain's Robert "Butch" Wedin had the junior field to himself Saturday, twice breaking the national record with 294 and 312-foot leaps, but slipped to fourth Sunday when he fell on his final ride, on which he stretched 260 feet.

Another bright prospect, Joe Giguere of Washington, edged into the throne room Sunday, sailing 244 and 240 feet for 187.0 points. Paul Johnson of Iron Mountain, who also was second Saturday, was next up with 182.5.

Houston Quits MV Conference

Kansas City —(AP)— The University of Houston resigned from the Missouri Valley conference Sunday night and will renew its efforts for membership in a major football conference.

Houston resigned at a special meeting of faculty representatives and athletic directors here.

The reason given by Dean Ralph C. Bursiek of Cincinnati, president of the conference, and the league's commissioner, Norvall Neve, was that Houston had "a conflict of interests in scheduling football games."

Dave Jenkins Wins 4th Straight Title

Bird Recordings Include 300 Songs

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Green Bay — Veteran birders who know the songs and calls of birds as well as, and in some cases even better than, they do the same birds by sight enjoy birding by ear."

Hussong

In taking a bird count, or listing species seen on a field trip, it is often much easier to identify a bird by its song than to go scrambling through brush or marsh in search of the singer.

Even with field glasses it is sometimes hard to get a good look at a bird which has disappeared into thick foliage of trees or bushes. You may get just a glimpse of a medium-sized bird, let's say, and the colors you saw were black and white.

"It's either a towhee or a rose-breasted grosbeak," you say to yourself or your companions while you wait for the bird to emerge from the greenery. But the bird is well hidden and knows it, and it doesn't come out. In a minute, however, it may sound out with its well-known "Drink your tea!" song, and you can put it down as a towhee.

Bird recordings have been made for about 25 years, and they are getting better right along. A recent venture by the Houghton Mifflin Publishing company of Boston was to produce a set of recording to accompany Robert Tory Peterson's "Field Guide to the Birds." It's a 2-record set, 12 - inch LP.

The songs and calls of more than 300 bird species are included in the set. It is meant to be used with Peterson's bird book, published by the same company. The set is $10, and the book, in case you don't have this well-known field guide, is $3.75.

The recordings were made in the field by the laboratory of ornithology of Cornell university under the direction of Drs. Peter Paul Kellogg and Arthur A. Allen. On one side Peterson tells how book and recordings are to be used together, and for all the four sides Dr. Allen tells the names of the birds whose voices are heard and the pages in the book in which they are described.

Auk Well-Named

Some of the bird sounds are unusually well-recorded, especially those with the lower-pitched voices. The loon, whip-poor-will, the various owls, and the flight song of the common snipe are among the best. For the first time, either in real life or in a recording, I heard the call of the auk, and now I know why it was so named.

Birds with high - pitched notes, the cedar waxwing, for instance, and some of the "chittering" warblers, didn't come out as well, but at that they are a help in identifying the various puzzling species. By the way, a total of 39 warbler species are included, among them that rarity, Kirtland's.

The bird voices were recorded in the field and this means usually on the bird's home grounds, close to the nest where birds do their best singing. The recordings were made in many states: Maine, Utah, North Dakota, Florida and Texas; as well as in several Canadian provinces.

Wisconsin Represented

Even Wisconsin is represented. The booming of the prairie chicken and the sharp - tailed grouse during their courtship dance were taped in our state, no doubt at Plainfield where the Fred Hamerstroms are carrying on a study of these birds.

I looked to see where the sounds of whistling swans were recorded — New York. Nearly 20 years ago Dr. Allen came to Green Bay one April to try to get photographs and recordings of these birds, but it was one of those springs when warm weather caused the flocks to leave the bay waters early.

Some of you may remember my occasional mention of the mystery bird at the Holz's Rivers Edge cabin on the Oconto river. We hear this sound — something like the downy's "Peek, peek" call late summers and in early fall. I've gone through several bird books, page by page, trying to find a description of a song similar to the one we hear. The arctic 3-toed woodpecker seemed to fit the song best, but now upon hearing it on the record, we're not sure. We'll know when we hear it again next summer.

Norwegian Wins Combined Honors In Alpine Test

Alta, Utah —(AP)— A Norwegian, a Japanese and an unsung American teenager dominated the men's events in the National Alpine Ski championships, while the women of Canada's Olympic team—including a pert pair of sisters—took care of the meet's distaff honors.

Norway's Oddvar Ronnestad, a Denver university graduate, copped the men's combined honors. He won the downhill race, was third in the slalom and fifth in the giant slalom.

Alan Engen of Salt Lake City placed second in the combined standings.

Japan's Olympic hope, Chick Igaya, won the giant slalom Saturday.

Office Workers Picket Combined Locks Mill

Strike Fails to Disrupt Work at Paper Plant

Combined Locks — Pickets of the striking Office Employes International union Local 385 started parading in front of the two driveway entrances of the Combined Locks Paper company mill at 6 a.m. today, but their appearance made little difference in the operation of the mill.

Charles Ehlke, personnel director at the plant, said all machines are operating in the mill and a staff of non-union office workers is keeping the office in order.

Police Chief Ernest Danielson said the picketing was orderly, with three pickets at each of the two driveways.

He said locomotives hauling material in and out of the mill were operating as usual.

Won't Honor Strike

Phillip Voights, president of Local 144, Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, and Joseph P. Strick, Local 264, United Papermakers and Paper Workers, explained both of their unions had no-strike clauses in their contract with Combined Locks Paper company.

"We won't recognize the strike," Voights said, and Strick said, "We have only one alternative — honor our agreement."

Voights said Saturday afternoon he had never given any assurance that Local 144 would observe picket lines set up by the office workers. Arthur Lewandowski, international union representative for the office workers, told the Post-Crescent Friday he had been given such assurance by the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, although he did not specify from whom it came.

Challenged Statement

Voights said he challenged Lewandowski's statement in the presence of management and that Lewandowski claimed he had been misquoted. Lewandowski was unavailable for comment today.

The office workers' union was recognized as a bargaining agent in NLRB elections in September. Contract negotiations started in October and were cut off Friday night.

The union, the first in a paper mill office in the Fox river valley, represents 29 employes.

Breaks Leg in Fall

Clarence Van Heuklon, 32, of 1412 N. Owaissa street, was taken to Appleton Memorial hospital by Lindy's ambulance about 7:30 p.m. Saturday when he slipped on ice in his yard and received a fracture of the right leg.

Coroner Rules Traffic Death

Tractor, Wagon Roll Over Farmer Near His Home

Chilton — The death Saturday morning of a town of Stockbridge man who was run over by a farm tractor and wagon Friday afternoon has been ruled a traffic fatality by Calumet county Coroner LeRoy Hughes.

Harrison Denslo, 71, route 3, Chilton, died at 4:50 a. m. Saturday at Calumet Memorial hospital. He was admitted about 3 p. m. Friday. The tractor was driven by August Klitzke, 58, route 3, Chilton. The accident happened at about 12:45 p. m. on the Lower Lake road near Quinney.

The coroner's decision was based on findings of an autopsy Saturday which showed a fractured right leg and pelvis and internal injuries.

Denslo's death is Calumet county's third traffic fatality of the year. He was born Jan. 4, 1889, in the town of Stockbridge.

Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Schinderle Funeral home, Stockbridge, with the Rev. Fred Thomas, pastor of the Stockbridge Methodist church, in charge. Burial will be in the Indian cemetery, Stockbridge.

He is survived by a brother, Franklin, route 3, Chilton; two sisters, Mrs. Edith Bowman, route 3, Chilton, and Mrs. Gus Doxtator, Milwaukee.

Teamsters Get 7-Cent Hourly Wage Increase

Cost-of-Living Raise Adds Two Cents to 350 in Fox Cities

Teamsters in the Fox Cities will receive an automatic 7-cent per hour increase under their contract and a 2-cent per hour boost because the cost-of-living went up. Both raises are effective today, although the cost-of-living payment depends on individual firms' pay periods.

Some 350 drivers and dock workers belonging to Local 563 will get the raise. The increase is under a contract expiring Feb. 1, 1961, and the union is planning to negotiate a nation-wide contract in the next year. Teamster contracts have been on an area basis in the east, midwest, south and west coast.

Hourly Rates

City cartage drivers will get $2.65 hourly and dock workers $2.60 under the increases. Over-the-road drivers will get $2.64 hourly and a quarter-cent per mile boost, plus a half-mill per mile cost-of-living increase. Specific rates for over-the-road drivers per mile are single axle, 9.125 cents; tandem with four axles, 9.375 cents; tandem with five axles, 9.5 cents, and tandem over 40,000 pounds, 9.625 cents.

Company contributions to the Teamster pension fund also increase as of today, rising $1 to $4 weekly. The pension pays retired drivers $135 monthly for the first five years, then $70 monthly. Any increases in payments negotiated are paid Teamsters in retirement. Minimum age for retirement is 60, maximum 70.

Cartage drivers work a guaranteed 40-hour week with a guaranteed $106 weekly for 75 per cent of a firm's work crew, stated Robert Schlieve, Local 563 business agent.

Man's Leg Broken By Falling Door

Charles Cumber, 35, route 1, Black Creek, was hospitalized Sunday morning with a broken left leg after an iron door fell on him.

Cumber was working in the old North Western freight depot on N. Division street when an iron overhead door weighing approximately 300 pounds broke loose and fell across his legs.

He was taken to Appleton Memorial hospital by Larry's ambulance. Hospital authorities say he is in good condition.

Edward Kennedy To Visit Fox Cities

Edward Ted Kennedy, youngest brother of presidential hopeful Sen. John Kennedy, will be guest of honor at a coffee at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Kagen, 505 E. Grant street.

Mrs. David Bliss is co-hostess. Kennedy also will speak to the Winnebago county Kennedy for President club at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Raulf hotel, Oshkosh.

Kennedy, a member of the Massachusetts bar, managed his brother's campaign for senator in 1958 and currently is working on Sen. Kennedy's presidential campaign.

2 Persons Hurt In City Crash

Cars Collide at Drew and North Streets Saturday

Two persons were injured about 4:52 p. m. Saturday in a 2-car crash at N. Drew and E. North streets, Appleton police reported today.

Maurice B. Sanborn, 64, 740 E. Byrd street, was taken to Appleton Memorial hospital by Lindy's ambulance with neck and head cuts.

Ruben O. Kleist, 59, 337 W. Wisconsin avenue, and Estrib Holm, 730 E. Byrd street, were taken to Memorial in a Larry ambulance. Kleist received a possible skull fracture and Holm had a possible broken collar bone along with cuts and bruises.

Sanborn was driving south on Drew street and Kleist east on North street when the cars collided.

A family of four in one car and a 19-year-old alone in another car escaped injury about 1:40 this morning in an accident on Highway 47 just north of Evergreen drive, county police reported.

A car driven by Thomas G. Young, 19, route 1, Shiocton, was attempting to pass a car driven by Clarence J. Vallard, 45, Fond du Lac, when his car skidded and struck the Vallard car in the side. With Vallard were his wife, Monica, and son, Clarence, 14, and a daughter, Ellen, 7.

Ice Fisherman Collapses, Dies Near Brothertown

Chilton — Charles Kugle, 59, a Reedsville auto dealer and former Reedsville fire chief, died after a heart attack while ice fishing Saturday afternoon off the Brothertown shore of Lake Winnebago.

Fishing companions said the seizure took place about 3:30 p.m. They bundled Kugle in blankets and rushed to Brothertown to summon Calumet County Sheriff C. J. Kosmosky, who dispatched a Chilton physician and the Stockbridge fire department rescue unit to the scene. Attempts to revive Kugle failed.

Kugle was fire chief for 25 years before retiring in 1952.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at St. Mary Catholic church, Reedsville, with burial in the church cemetery. Friends may call at the Reedsville Funeral home after 7 p.m. today.

Survivors include the widow; and two brothers, Joseph, route 1, Denmark, and Edward, Reedsville.

Fees Increased By Beloit College

Beloit — Beloit college has announced that the school's annual student costs will be increased by $100 starting with the 1960-61 college year.

In letters to Beloit students and their parents, President Miller Upton said that $75 of the increase voted by Beloit's board of trustees will be applied to tuition and fees costs, while the remaining $25 will be applied to room costs.

The increase will bring Beloit's total annual student costs to $1,800, with tuition and fees totaling $1,025, and board and room totaling $775.

Big Delegation To Go to LA

Democrats Divide 31 Convention Votes Among 62 Members

Post-Crescent News Service

Milwaukee — The largest number of official representatives in Wisconsin political history will travel to Los Angeles in July to represent the Wisconsin Democratic party at the national nominating convention.

The Democratic state committee decided here during the weekend to divide the state's delegation into half votes, which will mean that 60 delegates will be chosen in the spring presidential delegate primary.

The two Wisconsin members of the party national committee will also have a half vote apiece in the convention, and there will be 30 alternate delegates—for a total delegation numbering 92 persons, the largest number ever accredited.

Ten of the delegates will be chosen in the state at large, 50 in the ten districts.

The 31 votes credited to Wisconsin this year in the nominating convention, while small compared to those of the many larger states, are the most ever granted to this state in any national political meeting.

In 1948 Wisconsin Democrats had 24 votes in their national convention, in 1952 they were apportioned 28 votes, and in 1956 they were allowed to vote 28 full delegates.

Share Prices Edge Higher

Steels and Motors Lead Dealings on New York Exchange

New York —(AP)— The stock market perked up early this afternoon, raising the hope among some Wall Streeters that a "blue Monday" might be avoided for the first time in four weeks.

Steels and motors were active in a recovery movement which lifted the market to a fair gain by mid session.

A number of high quality issues, hit badly in last week's steep decline, recouped nicely, Union Carbide, which fell 10 points last week, regained about 4.

Gains of fractions to a point or so were made by most leading issues. A few wider movements, to the upside or downside, occurred among the "glamor" stocks.

The business news looked favorable to brokers and the end of France's colonial revolt in Algiers eliminated one uncertain factor. Some analysts believed that market may be at or near an "oversold" condition.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 80 cents to $217.50 with the industrials up $1.50, the rails up 50 cents and the utilities up 20 cents.

Corporate bonds declined.

Two Injured as Car Rolls Over Near Nichols

Nichols — Bernard "Bennie" Thompson, 33, and his nephew, Keith Spoehr, Jr., 18, both of route 1, Shiocton, were injured when Thompson lost control of the car in which they were riding on a town road north of here and it rolled over into a field about 5 p.m. Sunday.

Both were taken to Clintonville Community hospital in the Sawyer ambulance, of Shiocton. Keith suffered knee injuries and both had multiple cuts and bruises. Thompson was released today.

Oshkosh Man Says 'Trade Rockets in for Rockers'

Trade in your rockets for rockers, an Oshkosh furniture manufacturer advised a Moscow factory worker who complained that Soviet furniture is "good for nothing" though Russian rockets are the best in the world.

Offering to send a free suite of Early American furniture to the complaining factory worker, Arthur Margolis, vice president of Dearborn Furniture company, declared in a message to Alexei Adzhubei, editor of the Soviet newspaper Izvestia:

"May I suggest to your complaining Izvestia reader that our American rockers, despite their capitalist origin, are much more conducive to a peaceful life than your communist rockets. I should like to prove it by sending your Moscow factory worker with our compliments a complete suite of our early American furniture.

"I am certain that his neighbors will marvel at the workmanship of our 'exploited' labor. And as our forefathers learned generations ago when they designed our rockers, your Moscow factory worker will be amazed at the peace and tranquility generated from sitting in these comfortable chairs and just rocking away . . . nothing would make us happier than to be able to make more rockers and less rockets.

"Our rockers are products of a capitalist society, and we are convinced they are better products than the furniture produced in Communist factories just because our workers as well as our capitalists believe firmly in our system."

Mattress Fire Set By 3-Year-Old Boy Playing With Matches

A 3-year-old boy playing with matches set fire to a mattress at the William H. Wachtendonk home, 908 N. Harriman street, about 10 a.m. Sunday. The fire department estimated $200 damage to mattress and bed and second floor rooms which filled with smoke.

Extensive soot damage was reported at the Elsie Rusch home, 1010 W. Hawes avenue, about 7:17 a.m. today when an oil-burning space heater backfired filling three rooms with smoke.

February in With Clouds, But No Snow

February began today with clouds in the sky. An extra day in February will make winter one day longer — if the ground hog sees his shadow.

The last day of January in the Fox Cities was balmy but not above freezing. Evidence of the coming of spring was seen in the melting patches where the sun shone. Days are getting longer, too.

It was calm in the Fox Cities and stormy weather which hit areas in the southeast over the weekend diminished. No severe weather was reported.

Colder weather sent the mercury near zero in northern border sections. Snow fell in South Dakota, northeast Colorado and southwest Nebraska. Fog shrouded wide areas from Illinois through Indiana into much of Ohio and parts of Missouri and Michigan.

Kaukauna Girl Hurt As Loaded Gun Slips From Brother's Hands

Susan Granger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Granger, 219 W. Ninth street, met her brother, Raymond, 16, at the Tenth street skating rink as he returned from a hunting trip in the town of Buchanan. He was carrying his shotgun loaded but encased.

As they crossed the rink, with Susan five feet in front, Raymond slipped and the gun discharged as it fell. Susan was struck in the left thigh, hip and both hands.

Dairy Firm Fined $8,000

ICC Claims Company Claimed Too Low Rates

Milwaukee —(AP)— A Florida dairy firm with a plant at Appleton has been fined $8,000 by U. S. District Judge Kenneth Grubb for illegally claiming a lower shipping rate for why.

Foremost Dairies, Inc., of which Western Condensing company is an affiliate, was charged in U.S. District court with violation of the Elkins act, which prohibits discrimination or favoritism in rail rates.

U.S. Atty. Edward G. Minor said the firm had claimed "long haul" rates for whey shipped from the Appleton plant to points in Illinois and Missouri on the ground that it was stored in transit at Owen, Wis. Interstate commerce investigators said the whey never had been in Owen and was subject to a higher rate.

The firm's counsel said the violations were inadvertent.

POWERFUL NEW PLUNGER CLEARS CLOGGED TOILETS in a jiffy!

NEVER AGAIN that sick feeling when your toilet overflows

"TOILAFLEX"

Toilet ALL-ANGLE Plunger

Ordinary plungers don't seat properly, forcing air and water to splash back. Thus you have a mess and you lose the very pressure needed to clear the clogging mass.

With "Toilaflex", designed for toilets, no air or water can escape. The patented, tapered tail forms an air-tight fit: the full pressure plows through the obstruction and swishes it down. Can't miss!

- DOUBLE-SIZE CUP, DOUBLE-PRESSURE
- DESIGNED TO FLEX AT ANY ANGLE
- CENTERS ITSELF, CAN'T SKID AROUND

Nixon May Enter Penn State Race

Harrisburg, Pa. —(AP)— Vice President Nixon may be entered in Pennsylvania's presidential preference primary April 26.

George I. Bloom, Republican state chairman, said today no decision will be made until Nixon is consulted.

"It will be up to Nixon on a matter like this," Bloom said.

President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson were entered in 1956. More than 950,000 votes were cast for Eisenhower; 642,000 for Stevenson. There were no other presidential candidates entered.

APPLETON
DELUXE
Home of Distinction
NO STORM WINDOWS!
This 'Triumph in Beauty" was built 7 years ago after careful planning and the selection of one of Appleton's better known builders, Theo. Utschig. The first floor is complete with a large living room with fireplace and large thermopane windows. Dining L, kitchen large enough for a full size breakfast suite. Panelled den and ceramic tiled powder room. The winding stairs takes you to the 4 bedrooms (the master bedroom is "out of this world") and the ceramic tiled bath (all in soft sky blue) with its double lavatories and glass enclosed shower stall. This bath is so swank many will say it's the most beautiful room in this home. Full basement, gas heat, two car garage with cement driveway. Carpeting and drapes are included. BUT NO STORM WINDOWS because thermopane windows are used on both floors . . . no more ladders needed.
